

The Bureau of Emergency Communications is a team dedicated to helping community members in Multnomah County.

Emergency Dispatchers Needed

No previous experience with 9-1-1 is required

Are you looking for a meaningful career in a dynamic environment, where you are helping to make your community a safer place? The Portland Bureau of Emergency Communications (BOEC) is hiring full-time 911 dispatchers to join our team. In the last year, we hired 44 new Emergency Communications Dispatchers. We continue to be committed to grow our staff to meet the needs of our community. "I want my callers to know there's someone who understands them who is answering the phone and that we care. I just want to give back to the community. It means a lot to me," Rachel Miles-Davis, Senior Dispatcher and coach. No previous experience with 9-1-1 is required. We provide a full-time paid training program with classroom learning, simulation exercises, study and practice time, support from an experienced coach, and daily feedback. To qualify, applicants must have a high school diploma or GED, be at least 18 years old at the time of hire, pass a typing test netting 40 words per minute with 90 percent accuracy, and Pass a background and psychological assessment. Community members can attend a virtual or in person information session. The in person session is 6 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 17 in-person at the Belmont Library, 1038 S.E. Cesar E Chavez Blvd., Portland, OR 97214 and the virtual session is at 5 p.m. Monday, Jan. 22. Applications open today and will be accepted until 11:59 p.m. Jan. 29.
