

Asked Her Advice.
He was a wealthy business man, but stony as could be; she was a female lawyer, and strewed, as you will see, he thought he'd like to marry her, and save his legal fees. So he went into her office and fell upon his knees. "My dear," he said, "I've lately thought to turn you out of my office. And of asking you to marry me—now what would you advise?" She was stony, as I have said, and knew his object well. So she didn't lose a moment his situation to counsel. "A case so simple can be settled in a trial. Don't press your suit—you'll lose it, and—then look for another." —W. R. Christie in Philadelphia Inquirer.

MULTNOMAH FESTIVITIES

Brilliant Success of the Second Annual Ball of Portland's Athletic Club—Other Events.

The Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club gave its second annual ball at the clubhouse on Tuesday evening, and it was one of the most brilliant events of the season. The decorations were on a very elaborate scale. The entrance and main hallway on the first floor were profusely decorated with immense American flags and a choice display of potted plants. The reception-rooms were very attractive. The large mantel was decked with Oregon grapevines, which, on one side, was carried up to the ceiling, while in the midst were placed tall silver cups and trophies of the club, making a most pleasing effect. About the apartments were rare exotics and evergreens, while on the embrasures of the doorway was a very artistic consort in the shape of Indian baskets filled with sprays of Oregon grass.

The gymnasium was turned into a ball-room of rare beauty. Depending from the balustrade of the gallery were flags of all nations, caught up and held in place by sprays of filmy evergreens. The side walls were completely hidden from view by tall trees and bright woodland greens, while at one end was constructed a beautiful miniature forest, from which was served lemonade. Long, graceful garlands of hemlock hung from the side balconies and met in graceful profusion over the electrolights in the ceiling.

The committee in charge of the entertainment was uniform in its efforts, and all the arrangements were complete in every detail. To the committee is due great credit for the brilliancy and success of the ball. It was composed of the following named gentlemen: Messrs. Lansing Stout, George P. Deikum, J. C. Mauch, C. R. Gilliland and Captain C. E. McDonnell.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Pleasant Social Function at Residence of Pastor Forbes.
A very pleasant farewell was given Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller at the residence of Rev. W. O. Forbes last Wednesday evening. Mr. Miller, who has been in the office of Superintendent Messrs. L. Hall, of the Northern Pacific Express Company, for the past 10 years, has been promoted from the position of chief clerk in the office to that of assistant agent of the company, with headquarters at Spokane, Wash., where he and Mrs. Miller will soon take up their residence. Mr. Miller is one of the Portland's favorite contralto singers, being a member of Mrs. Walter Reed's ladies' quartet, and having for the past two years sung at the Forbes Presbyterian church. Both Mr. and Mrs. Miller will be greatly missed in their church and society circles, and their friends gave them a substantial remembrance at the reception.

Delightful Dinner Party.

Miss Frances Lewis gave a delightful dinner party on Thursday at the residence of her mother. The dining table was ornate with a display of lovely glassware and silver of exquisite fashion, while in the center was an immense urn, filled with tiny foliage and large pink carnations. At the conclusion of a sumptuous repast, the guests repaired to the music-room, where vocal and instrumental selections were enjoyed. Those present were: Miss Frances Lewis, Miss Frances Hoyt, Miss Thunders, Miss M. Louise Flinders, Miss Maskey, Miss Laurie King, Miss Alice Helsho, Messrs. R. W. Lewis, R. L. Gillman, W. Bertrand Mackay, T. O. Scott, Brooke, A. H. Winton, W. Blake and D. C. Lewis.
