RESURRECTION MORN.

I.

The bells, this blessed Easter morn,
Make joyous music. Yet, alas!
A nameless something seems to pass—
A formless shadow on the grass—
That dims the gladness of the day.
And somehow of their splendor shorn,
The Easter lilies droop forlorn;
A gray mist steals across the sun,
And through the chiming of the bells
A note of wailing sadly swells—
A scarce-heard moan of human pain
That sobs, and swells, and sinks again.

II.

O Thou, new-risen from thy tomb,
O Thou, who for Love's sake was't slain,
Christ! how thy wounds must bleed again.
Behold the horror and the gloom
Where Afric's battle-fields are red,
Where India's millions cry for bread
And men for lust of gold are mad—
Behold! Can'st Thou in heaven be glad?

III.

And yet, we know, somehow, some day,
These ills shall surely pass away;
That Mother Earth, so wondrous fair,
With lily garlands in her hair,
And emerald robes that turn to gold
In August's languorous, sultry hold,
Shall nourish on her fruitful breast
A brotherhood no more unblest
By strife and want and gnawing care;
That every land beneath the sun
Where'er the sons of men are born
In bonds of love shall be as one
In Christ's full resurrection morn.

—Lischen M. Miller.

What Constitutes a "Real Lady."

A lady is a gentlewoman on every occasion and under all circumstances; she does not reserve fine manners for special people and special occasions. Ladyhood is not an outside veneer or polish which may readily be rubbed off by contact or attrition with the world, but is ingrained, and is the result not only of good breeding, but of gentle blood and inherited, rather than acquired tendencies. It takes several generations of refined ancestors to produce the natural gentlewoman or gentleman.

Acquired good manners are better than none, but unless there is a solid foundation of gentleness and kindness behind them they are apt to wear badly when subjected to strain. When unpleasant dilemmas arise, blood tells. The woman who is to the manner born proves it by never forgetting what is due to herself and others under the circumstances; she does not lose her temper and make use of language to be regretted afterwards; she also makes allowance for the transgressor, and causes herself to be respected.

Time's Balm.

When first I met the fair Marie,
My smitten heart at once surrendered,
And in a week, with eager haste,
My love and all I have I tendered.
Marie was very calm and cool,
Though I was greatly agitated,
And when I came away—refused!—
To endless anguish I felt fated.

But oh! Since then so many girls
I've seen, far prettier, sweeter, brighter,
That all their loveliness has made
My load of woe distinctly lighter.
In fact, since she said "No," I've met
A lovely girl whom I like better,
And now, whene'er I meet Marie,
I think, "Thank Heaven, I didn't get her!"

True Enough.

Niblack—It's hardly right to judge a man by his clothes.

Krusty—That's true. There are sny number of men wearing golf suits today who have too much good sense to ever play the game.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Make Lazy Liver Lively

You know very well how you feel when your liver don't act. Bile collects in the blood, bowels become constipated and your whole system is poisoned. A lazy liver is an invitation for a thousand pains and aches to come and dwell with you. Your life becomes one long measure of irritability and despondency and bad feeling.

WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

Act directly, and in a peculiarly happy manner on the liver and bowels, cleansing, purifying, revitalizing every portion of the liver, driving all the bile from the blood, as is soon shown by increased appetite for food, power to digest it, and strength to throw off the waste. Beware of imitations! 10c., 25c. All druggists.
