ASKED TO BE BUNCHED

HUNT, INMAN, SMITH ET AL. GROUPED ON OFFICIAL BALLOT.

Pierce Mays Made the Request, and His Anti-Republican Associates Indorsed It.

That office and not party is the thought uppermost in the minds of the so-called Republicans who are candidates for State Senators from Multnomah County on the Citizens ticket is further demonstrated by the arrangement of their names on the official ballot, made at their request. Pierce Mays feared that he might not be grouped with Inman, Smith and Hunt, so he made a special request that his name be put with the others. As no particular objection could be raised to this procedure, Clerk Holmes, of the County Court, complied. The sample ballots issued yesterday show this arrangement:

Citizens Ticket—
31. Hunt, James E., of Portland.
32. Inman, R. D., of Portland.
33. Mays, F. P., of Portland.
34. Smith, Andrew C., of Portland.

Mays' letter asking this form of ballot, and the indorsement of his associates, follows:

"Portland, Or., May 21.—H. H. Holmes, Clerk of the County Court. Dear Sir: As it becomes your duty, under the Australian ballot act, to prepare a form of ballot within a day or two, I beg to call your attention to the fact that I have been nominated under the designation of Citizens ticket. While the nomination was made by individual electors, and not by the assembly of voters that nominated the other three persons who are candidates for State Senators from this county upon the Citizens ticket, my nomination was really intended by the said individual electors to take the place of that of Hon. D. P. Thompson, who was first nominated for the place, but who declined the candidacy. I therefore prefer, and will request you in making up your ticket, to group all of the names of the candidates for State Senator upon the said Citizens ticket together, including my name. As you will observe by section 49 of the Australian ballot law, as amended in 1895, you are thereby directed to arrange the names of the candidates for the office under the designation of the offices in groups, as presented in the several certificates of nomination. Four persons only have been nominated for the State Senate from Multnomah County upon the Citizens ticket, and, as presented in the several certificates of nomination, by one term, viz., Citizens ticket, has been adopted to express the party or political principles which each of those persons represents. Trusting that you will find it proper in compliance with the law to make this arrangement of the ballot and not to segregate my name separately from the others of the candidates for the same office with whom I am associated, I remain, yours truly,

"F. P. MAYS."

"We each agree to the above request of F. P. Mays. "ANDREW C. SMITH,
"JAMES E. HUNT,
"R. D. INMAN."

Hunt, Inman, Mays and Smith appear on the ballot, by their own request, as Citizens. They are neither Republicans, Democrats, nor Populists, and are without party affiliations, without platform, and accountable to no one. The ex-Republican nominees profess to be loyal to the party, but they have no good reason to expect Republican votes after having thrown the party overboard in their scheme to defeat the Republican ticket.

SCANDINAVIAN REPUBLICANS.

They Held a Rousing Rally in Arion Hall.

The Scandinavians held a big rally last evening in Arion Hall, under the auspices of the Scandinavian Republican Club. Good music, interesting speakers and much enthusiasm were the features of the meeting. President C. F. Pearson, presiding officer of the club, introduced the several speakers in detail with felicitous remarks. Gustav Anderson delivered the principal address of the evening, covering most of the issues in the present campaign, and pointing out the excellent qualifications of several of the straight Republican candidates. Particular importance was laid on the efficiency of H. S. Rowe, for the office of Mayor, Captain C. E. McDonell, for Assessor, W. B. Chase, for City Engineer, J. M. Long, for City Attorney, and Russell E. Sewall, for District Attorney. Mr. Anderson characterized the attack made on Mr. Sewall as an infamous affair.

Mr. Rowe, Mr. Sewall, Mr. Long, D. Solis Cohen, Captain McDonell and others were also heard in short addresses. Mme. Norelli favored the audience with an excellent vocal selection, and for the encore sang "The Star-Spangled Banner," with good effect, the entire assemblage rising in a body as she began. Towards the close of the programme she sang "America," while the audience joined in the chorus. A young man known as Ivanhoe gave some original and clever composition exhibitions in rhyme, adapting them to the various candidates on the platform, with ludicrous effect. The Norwegian quartet sang two selections in their native tongue.

Of the candidates present, besides those speaking, there were S. C. Beach, candidate for the office of Recorder of Conveyances; Ed Werlein, for City Treasurer; W. B. Chase, for City Engineer; T. C. Devlin, for City Auditor; Rodney L. Glisan, for Councilman in the Second Ward; Otto Kraemer, for Justice of the Peace; Dr. D. H. Rand, for Coroner, and J. Thorburn Ross, George L. Story and R. F. Freeman on the straight Republican Legislative ticket.

TONGUE'S ELECTION ASSURED.

Hon. C. W. Fulton's Opinion of the Second District.

"Tongue is going to be elected by an increased majority," said Hon. C. W. Fulton, of Astoria, yesterday. He had just dropped into Portland from a campaigning tour of Western Oregon, having visited and spoken in Lane, Douglas, Linn, Benton, Marion and Clackamas Counties. "The Republican sentiment is high and growing all along the line," he continued. "The opposition have no confidence and no enthusiasm whatever, and apparently have given up the fight. There is a universal feeling in favor of expansion, and I personally know many Democrats who will vote for Tongue and the Republican Legislative ticket on that issue. It is certain that the counties I have mentioned will send Republicans to the Legislature. Marion County, of course, is a foregone conclusion. I have not been home for some weeks, but I had a long talk over the telephone today with friends in Astoria, and I have no doubt that the Republicans will carry everything in Clatsop."

Wanamaker Threatened.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26. — A mass meeting of citizens which was limited only by the capacity of the Academy of Music was held last night to protest against the alleged action of Director of Public Safety English in threatening the personal character of ex-Postmaster-General John Wanamaker, if he did not use his influence to have the attacks against the city administration by the North American, his son's newspaper, discontinued. The meeting adopted resolutions calling upon the Mayor and Director to vacate their positions if they would not clearly establish their innocence of the charge of threatening Wanamaker.

Qualified for County Commissioner.

J. G. Mack, one of the Republican nominees for County Commissioner, is the proprietor of the only exclusive carpet house in Oregon. He took hold of the business in the hard times, gave it energetic and intelligent direction, and his house is now counted among the big mercantile establishments of the metropolis. Mr. Mack is well equipped to care for the interests of the taxpayers. After all, the county is but a great business house, with bills to pay and debts to collect. He is best qualified for County Commissioner who has proved himself able to manage a large mercantile business. In that respect, Mr. Mack is especially strong with voters.

Ralph Hoyt's Ticket.

County Treasurer Ralph W. Hoyt, who is a candidate for re-election as an independent, made what would pass for a great "spiel" on his loyal Republicanism at the open meeting of the Plasterers' Union Friday night.

"Which ticket are you supporting?" asked a Republican voter.

"I am supporting the ticket on which is the name of Ralph W. Hoyt and that of no one else," was Candidate Hoyt's prompt response.

Somewhere in an old book it is related that a great man once asked another great man what was the object of all legislation.

"To do the greatest good to the greatest number," was the reply.

"And what is the greatest number?"

"Number 1."

Candidate Hoyt wants to be number 1. What matters it, so long as he rides in the bandwagon, if the Republican party holds on to the tailboard and trots in the dust.

Rally at Gresham.

At the Republican meeting at Gresham Friday evening, there were nearly 150 voters and probably a third as many of the fair sex. The Portland delegation, which consisted of C. W. Gay, Thomas Scott Brooke, B. F. Robinson, Captain Charles E. McDonell, John K. Kollock, J. G. Mack, George Steel, N. H. Alexander, William Showers and Frank F. Freeman, left the Republican headquarters in the Worcester building in a carry-all and braved the weather for the round trip. The meeting was held in Metzger's Hall, and was presided over by Dr. Bell. All the candidates made good speeches, and were heartily cheered. Gresham is a Republican community and will add many votes to the party's plurality on June 4.

In the Tent.

In spite of the rain Friday evening, quite a crowd gathered in the tent on Beacon street, Eighth Ward, but it was impossible to proceed according to the programme. The storm was so severe that the water entered the tent, making every part damp. However, H. S. Rowe, T. C. Devlin, John Stoddard and several other regular Republican candidates were present, and they had a good time, notwithstanding the unfavorable condition. The Southern Pacific band entertained the crowd with a number of selections. Arrangements will be made for holding a Republican rally in this tent next Saturday evening, provided the weather is favorable. The announcements will be made this week.

At Sunnyside.

The Sunnyside Republican Club will have a big rally next Saturday night, which will wind up the demonstrations at that place. The club postponed its meetings for several weeks on account of other gatherings, but will make it a point to have a large audience Saturday evening, June 2.

General H. B. Compson is the Democratic nominee for the important position of County Assessor. Equal and just taxation is a promise positively made by General Compson, if elected. The following record of this well-known man is an enviable one. When a boy of but 15 years of age he left the plow and enlisted as a private in the Eighth New York Cavalry, and served throughout the war. He rose from the ranks, holding every position from private to commander of his regiment, and was voted a medal of honor by congress for distinguished gallantry in action. Among the great battles he so distinguished himself in, are: Gettysburg, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, the Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor, Cedar Creek, and Winchester.

Since the war, General Compson has filled many responsible and prominent positions, always to the satisfaction of the people. His business experience has been varied, and to use the words of a prominent taxpayer, you will make no mistake in casting your vote for General H. B. Compson for Assessor.

STREETS AND SEWERS.

Modern Municipal Problems.

It is important that the betterment and maintenance of the public thoroughfares and the sanitary system of a large and growing municipality be placed under the supervision of a man of known ability and unimpeachable character. The candidacy of Mr. Oscar H. Bellinger for the position of City Engineer affords the voters of the City of Portland an opportunity to secure the services of one fully qualified in every particular to carry on, in a capable and economical manner, the large public improvements which will, no doubt, be undertaken in this city during the next two years.

Mr. Bellinger is a native of Oregon. He is a son of Hon. C. B. Bellinger, Judge of the United States District Court. He was educated in the public schools of Portland, attending, however, for several years a famous polytechnical institute in the East, where he acquired the theoretical knowledge of his profession. Soon after his return he was elected City Engineer of East Portland, which office he occupied for about four years with due credit to himself and to the entire satisfaction of the property-owners of said city.

For the past six years he has held a responsible position in the engineer corps of one of Oregon's leading railways, being intrusted with much important work requiring professional skill of the highest character. It is a business proposition with American railroads to engage the men best fitted for their work, hence the indorsement Mr. Bellinger has had bestowed upon him by reason of his employment on one of Oregon's greatest traffic arteries should commend him to the favor of the electors on June 4.

EXCEPT THE CRIMINAL CLASS

Business men, professional men, mechanics and laboring men are equally interested in the proper administration of the District Attorney's office. George E. Chamberlain if elected will conduct its affairs in a manner that will meet the approval of all classes except the criminal class.

RETURNS TO LAKEVIEW.

Dr. Daly Abandoned His Canvass and Returned Home to Help the People.

Immediately upon receipt of the news of the conflagration at Lakeview, Dr. Daly, the Democratic-Peoples nominee for Congress, in the First District, abandoned his canvass and started home in order that he might render his assistance to the people of his home town in their misfortune.

The following communications explain themselves:

"Telegram."

"Medford, Or., May 23, 1900. To Dr. T. V. Hall, Lakeview, Or.: Express to people my heartfelt sympathy in their great loss. Shall return at once to render aid. While I have lost nearly all I have, I deplore more the hardship and suffering the calamity has wrought upon my friends and fellow-citizens.

"BERNARD DALY."

"Medford, Or., May 23, 1900.—Hon. R. S. Sheridan, Chairman Democratic State Central Committee, Portland, Or.—Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your message forwarding Dr. T. V. Hall's telegram, containing the information that the town of Lakeview, my home, has been almost totally destroyed by fire, including the greater part of my property.

"I am, therefore, very sorry to inform you that I will be compelled, temporarily at least, to retire from my canvass and return home.

"While I fully realize that my political interests may be materially affected thereby, I feel that a higher duty calls me to render such assistance as I am able to my friends and neighbors at home, many of whom have been left homeless by this great calamity.

"I confidently believe that my friends throughout the district will carry the campaign to a successful termination, and therefore ask you to cancel my political engagements for the present.

"Thanking you for the uniform kindness and confidence that have been bestowed upon me, and with an abiding faith in the success of our cause, I am sincerely yours, BERNARD DALY.
"Candidate for Congress, First Dist."

NUMBER 26

On the Official Ballot Is the Number of Russell E. Sewall, Republican Candidate for District Attorney.

Two years ago Mr. Sewall was elected District Attorney for the Fourth Judicial District over four strong men of unquestioned ability, widely known through Multnomah County, receiving nearly as many votes as all the others combined. The progress of the present Republican campaign develops the fact that as a candidate for re-election Mr. Sewall is steadily growing stronger. During the past term he has filled his important office in a most creditable manner. He has been efficient in his duties, has displayed commendable zeal and in the prosecution of criminals has been notably and unusually successful. His management of some of the most important cases that have been tried before the bench of this county has been marked by clearness and clean-cut legal acumen. Both grand and petit juries have united in commending his methods, his industry and his ability. Mr. Sewall's renomination was won in the face of great personal opposition, augmenting the forceful efforts put forth by the combined opponents of the Republican party in their endeavor to obtain control of this important political office. Without entering into the details of these efforts, which have been already published, the following fact is becoming plainly evident: His complete vindication in the matter of the unwarranted charges preferred by his political enemies and the methods employed by them to compass his defeat will largely increase his vote and swell his majority. Mr. Sewall has been well known to the people of Portland since his childhood. The generation among which he has grown to manhood is especially active in his support, and with his manifestly increasing strength his majority in June should exceed that which elected him two years ago.

LOOKS LIKE A WINNER.

George E. Chamberlain was elected in 1892 by the people of Oregon to fill the important position of Attorney-General. He fulfilled the most sanguine expectations of his numerous friends, and retired from that office with the respect of both of the great political parties. His integrity and ability have never been questioned, and if elected District Attorney at the coming election, it is safe to assume that the same high moral standard that characterized his official efforts in the higher office will be duplicated. Mr. Chamberlain has been tried and was not found wanting. For this and numerous other reasons his friends are confident of success June 4.

NORTHERN PACIFIC--BURLINGTON ROUTE.

When figuring on your trip East, don't forget that the Northern Pacific, in connection with the Burlington line, operates through cars from Portland to Lincoln, Omaha, St. Joseph, Kansas City and St. Louis daily, leaving Portland at 11:30 P. M. No change of cars, and unexcelled accommodations. Call on or write A. D. Charlton, assistant general passenger agent, 255 Morrison street, for any information desired, tickets, sleeping-car reservations, etc.

The Same One.

STAYTON, Or., May 24.—(To the Editor.)—Quite a variance of opinion exists among candidates and electors about the proposed amendment to be voted on at the coming election, entitled "Equal Suffrage Amendment." Is it the one submitted by resolution No. 2, at the session of the Legislature in 1899?

INDIAN LEGEND OF HOOD, ST. HELENS AND ADAMS.

Verses by Rufus C. Rohrapacher Dedicated to the Mazamas, of Which He Is a Charter Member.

(Dedicated to the Mazamas, and reproduced by permission of the author, who is a charter member of the society, from the Colorado Springs Evening Telegraph.)

Note.—The following verses were suggested by an Indian legend, in which the three mountains, St. Helens, Hood and Adams, of the Cascade range, were conceived to possess life, with all its passions and emotions. At the dalles of the Columbia, the mighty river has cut its deep and narrow channel through a volcanic formation, and the lava beds reach on either side to the bases of Hood and Adams. The supposition is that these, now sleeping, volcanoes were at some prehistoric day in simultaneous eruption; and the Indians, to whom the graceful symmetry of St. Helens expressed the idea of femininity, and to whom the rugged masculinity of Hood and Adams was no less apparent, found in fact and superstition the warp and woof for this strange and poetic legend.

In ages past, when Earth awoke to morn;
In eons gone, when Time himself was born;
Majestic and Titanic mounds knew life,
And hurl'd their thund'ring crags in jealous strife.
Before the heart of Man its joy and pain
To thee unpent, O potent sovereign!
The mighty mountains, kissing heav'n above,
Breather the insatiate fire and bowed to Love!

St. Helens, fair, the snowy Cascade queen,
Above the verdant hills stands forth serene.
Her subtle grace and symmetry inspire
In hoary Hood and Adams passion's fire,
And while the weary world is wrapped in sleep,
The rugged Titans silent vigil keep.
With sluggish Time they pass the sleepless hours,
And dream, tho' waking, of Elysian bow'rs.
But ere the Sun King lights the tow'ring crests
A noxious boding fills their giant breasts.
The venom to the heart core quickly goes
And stirs each poisoned soul in angry throes!
The fiends of Fury kindle jealous rage,
And chafe to see the mighty chiefs engage.

Before the tender, dew-kiss'd blade awakes,
The sky, o'ercast, a lurid picture makes;
For now the lofty mountain peaks exhume
Red tongues of flame and stifling sulph'rous fume.
All Nature trembles with affrighted fears,
And ere the snowy mantles melt in tears,
The mischief of mad Jealousy is done;
The tragic battle of the mounts begun!
Gaze, O Mars! From thy dizzy throne descend!
Thine eyes, that mortal combat love, attend!
Behold, more countless than the orbs of Night,
Yon molten missiles wing their fiery flight,
And, hissing thro' the vaulted dome of air,
Ignite the Heavens with their ghastly flare!
What convulsions these that fill the Universe
With mighty trembling and with wrathful curse?
What deaf'ning din assails the mortal ear
With mutterings, and dread report, and fear?
Ne'er Heaven's ordnance rent the vibrant air
With thund'ring bolts of lightning to compare
In terror with this awful rain of Hell,
That from terrestrial depths the mounts compel!
Ne'er on the battle-field of War belched forth
Projectiles of such dire and deadly worth
To make bombardment, grand and terrible,
'Gainst adamantine foe invincible!

From fiery craters vomit flame and smoke
That subterranean depths of Earth evoke.
Anon, some mighty burden of the Pit,
Unloos'd, will hurl its countless tons and hit
Again upon the bosom of the Earth,
Almost before the pond'rous crag knew birth;
While minor missiles from that molten womb
In endless number seek their joyless doom,
Shrieking athwart the circumambient Sky,
To fall once more to Earth, to cool, to die!

From pyrotechnic play above espied,
Look coursing down each steep-pitched mountain side;
Behold the burning rivers flowing there!
Where erst the peaceful vales were passing fair,
Is now the lava lake, and on the land
Fall burning ashes from a giant hand.
O'er all is cast the visage of Despair,
The vales the robe of Desolation wear!
Fell Ruin and Destruction, grim of mien,
Amid the devastated wastes careen.
And Peace, sweet angel, sits with bowed head,
Nor lifts her mournful gaze from Nature's dead!

But see! Those mouths from whence but now did burst
The Hadean blast, that blackest Hell had nurs'd,
Emit no more their messengers of Death,
But lull and pause, as seeking second breath.
Yet still an angry growling shakes their frames
And threatens to resume the war of flames.
But Weariness, most potent friend of Peace,
At last has caused the wo'ful strife to cease,
And thus afforded respite for the prayer
Of suppliant angels hovering there.
Thus their armistice begun, Peace revives,
And, with the gentler Spirits, now contrives
To pacify the monsters that heard naught
While, unexhausted, on the field they fought.

To God Almighty and to mighty mounts
The angel Peace the dreadful scene recounts.
The One, grand author of the Universe,
Her eloquence beseeches to disperse
The Demons of unholy wrath contained
Within the bosoms Jealousy ordained;
Then to the soaring peaks address she makes,
And, with a plaintive voice, Chagrin awakes
Where dwelt but now no sentiment save Hate.
That evil gale of ev'ry storm-toss'd fate!
Then to St. Helens turns the Titans' gaze
The first since burst their wrath in fearful blaze—
And on her pallid cheek the mounts behold
The mute appeal there written; and the coM
Disdain that shines thro' Sorrow's misty tears
Upon her proud and haughty face appears.

The battered peaks succumb; the day is won.
The tragic battle of the mounts is done.
Their hearts, immortal thrones of Love sublime,
Shall so remain until the end of Time,
Nor share again with Jealousy the crown
And bring upon them fair St. Helens' frown.
Furies, Fiends, Demons, all have taken flight,
Scourged from the field by Love's protecting light;
And there the mild emotions only dwell
That serve the Goddess Venus fair and well.

The debris of this fell and awful strife,
Through all-enduring Time shall be to life
Example of the ruin, dread and dire,
That follows in the wake of jealous fire.
To ages yet unborn the barren waste
Shall be a warning ne'er to be effaced.
That all who read the moral of distress
May dwell with Love in peace and happiness.

Progress of the Woman Movement.

PORTLAND, May 26.—(To the Editor.)—Full woman suffrage is already embedded in the state constitutions of Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho, covering 300,000 square miles of territory, with eight United States Senators and a growing number of Representatives. We have partial woman suffrage in 25 states.

Women are no longer bought and sold on the auction block; no longer denied freedom of speech, freedom of locomotion, freedom to labor for themselves, freedom to control wages, property, earnings and children. Coeducation has become the rule and exclusion the exception. More than two-thirds of all the colleges and universities of the United States now admit women and men on terms of equality—not a single State institution west of Ohio, so far as I know, excludes women. Women have become the teachers of the rising generation. In the East and South the leading positions are still monopolized by men, but even in those sections more than three-fourths of the educational positions are filled by women. Women have become wage-earners, and are rapidly entering new trades and occupations. They are in the stores and factories; in the learned professions as physicians, ministers and lawyers. The modern system of limited liability has enabled them to engage in business as stockholders in corporations far more generally than was possible under the old system as individuals or as private partners.

Observe how denial of the ballot has kept women down.

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

O. R. & N. Will Probably Make Special Rates to Convention Cities.

Since the Southern Pacific has made a round-trip rate of $38.50 to the National Republican Convention at Philadelphia from California points, there has been more or less discussion as to whether the Northern lines would make the same rate. Thus far they have given no indication of their intentions. It has been the invariable policy of the O. R. & N. to meet the rates named from California by the Southern Pacific, from the North Pacific Coast, on account of gatherings of this kind. It is perfectly safe to assume that it will not vary from its established rule in this instance. There is little doubt but that the O. R. & N. will not only meet the rate named by the Southern Pacific for the National Republican Convention, but that it will also name a special round-trip rate to the National Democratic Convention at Kansas City, as well. The Northern transcontinental lines will probably do the same thing.

CATTLE AND SHEEP.

Many Shipments Being Made Out of Oregon.

The movement of cattle and sheep out of Oregon is becoming quite brisk. Yesterday C. A. Buckley, of Grass Valley, shipped out of that place a train of 21 cars of sheep over the Rio Grande Western. These are destined for Colorado, where they will be fattened for the Chicago market.

From Pendleton, Howard & Polk yesterday sent out a train of sheep to Estaline, S. D., via the O. R. & N. and connections.

J. E. Reynolds will send out a train of cattle next Thursday from Arlington to Lincoln, Neb., via the Oregon Short Line.

June 2, Burke & Ralston, of Portland, will ship a train of sheep from Arlington to Chicago.

Railroad Notes.

June 4, the Southern Pacific will put into effect a tariff rate of 65 cents per 100 pounds on telegraph and telephone poles, in carloads, from all points on its Oregon lines to Galveston, Houston and San Antonio, Tex.

The Northern Steamship Company, the connection of the Great Northern on the Great Lakes, has issued a new and attractive folder. It announces that the first boat for the season will leave Buffalo, June 19. The first boat to leave Duluth sails June 23.
