Probably the most reasonable forecast of immediate developments in the Trans-vaul can be gained by reviewing the of immediate developments in the Trans-vaal can be gained by reviewing the events in the Free State, or Orange River Colony. There, though the country is for-maily antexed and is subjected to a win-nowing process by a long line of British troops, virile opposition still exists. The proponderance of numbers is bound to eventually reduce the inhabitants to sub-jection, and so it will be probably with the Transvaal, the occupation of Pretoria and Johanneaburg being followed by op-crations similar to those uninteresting movements now undertaken by Generals Rundle and Brabant, in the Orange River Colony.

On one thing the British Government is determined, i, c., President Kruger cannot stay in the Transvaal. In the event of his capture he must be trans-ported, not necessarily in durance. But he must be got out of the territory which Lord Salisbury expects will shortly be part of the British Empire. Every effort will be made to capture President Kruger, but the government officials are inclined to believe he will manage to get into Cortuguese territory, where the British rill be unable to touch him. One of the most curious features of the
