

SOCIETY

By Papa.

She has gone, with twenty trunks, down to the sea.

She has gone and left the servant girl and maid.

Gone and taken she and May Eighty-nine long miles away.

Where the salty breeze is blowing fresh and free.

She is happy where the bounding billows play, Flinging money I have had to earn away.

She is choosing others' sons.

For my darling little one— Ah, the younger of them's twenty-six today!

She has gone, with twenty trunks, down to the sea.

To try and find two sons-in-law for me; And while I labor here, I am pestered with a fear From which I vainly struggle to be free.

She is far away behind the ocean blue, With the darlings that we live for—May and June.

Oh, when they leave the shore, Shall I have to toil for two Instead of merely working on for two?

NOT EVERYBODY IS AWAY

There are some who stay in town and enjoy themselves, though social events are few.

There is nothing quite as it ought to be; And the sweetest draught we drink Has always a bitter taste in the dregs That tempts us to drink again.

And yet if conditions were perfect on earth, Heaven would cease to be. It is that same taste of the bitter that makes life's flavor so fascinatingly sweet; that saves it from insipidity. The mistake we mortals are prone to make is in our attitude toward the troubles, great or small, which interrupt the serene flow of daily existence.

There is more in Count Tolstoy's much-scoffed-at doctrine of nonresistance than is apparent to the casual observer. If society, in general, and society women, in particular, could be brought to an actual recognition of the fact that the surest way, and the swiftest, to annihilate an evil is to ignore it as such, all the worries, the frets and struggles, heart-burnings and petty jealousies would soon cease to exist. There is nothing so absolutely discouraging to trouble as a cheerful reception. Meet it with a smile and persist in regarding it as a blessing, and it speedily disappears.

An Example.

An instance! Well, there is Mrs. —, one of Portland's prettiest and most popular young women, who has counted all along upon a month at the seaside. Business complications, coming up unexpectedly, put the contemplated trip out of the question. The new gowns, the fetching hats, the rattling costumes—models after that of a famous belle at Naranagans Pier—are, at this moment hanging upon their respective hooks, or reposing in boxes in her rather spacious wardrobe, and the young woman herself is having what she describes as a "perfectly lovely time," lounging in a hammock under the trees every afternoon and reading romances and poetry.

"You see," she explained, "I have had so little time to read since I was married. We are asked everywhere and we entertain a great deal and, somehow, I never get a chance to more than glance at the magazines, and as for new books, though I bring me stacks of them, the leaves are rarely cut. I had almost forgotten what a love story is like."

"But you, you not disappointed, after all your preparations, to find that you were to chaperon those two charming girls?"

"That is she sat up and grew confidential the very reason I am not!"

Such Awful Fights!

"Not disappointed, you know. Those girls are both such awful fits! that I should have grown cross-eyed trying to look after both at once, and you know the chaperon is always blamed if anything goes contrary. Disappointed! Yes, delightfully. As for the bathing suit, it will be just as effective next year; I only wear it for effect."

The waves are white on Clatsop's sands, At Long Beach and Seaview, As Ocean Park's laurels are white, The sky is deeply blue.

But slinging waves and tender skies And sifted sands of gold— They tempt her not who reads beneath The trees, "To Haves and to Hold," "Everybody is out of town," has become a stock phrase. Those who are not, like the above-mentioned sensible young woman, are taking a much-needed rest from social duty. There have been a few weddings, dinners and parties which are duly recorded in another column.

There was a boating party given last night by Miss Gunn, of San Francisco. About 25 guests were invited. The party left the city in a launch at 7:30 o'clock and returned in time for the "last car" home. There was a delicious supper served on the green shore of the beautiful Willamette, somewhere in the neighborhood of Sellwood, and singing and music and happy laughter under the glorious summer stars. There is nothing more delightful than a boating party, under favorable conditions.

Approaching Marriage.

One of the most interesting social functions of the week occurred Friday afternoon. To my regret, I am requested not to mention it in print, and because I am nothing if not obliging, I comply with the request. However, I have the pleasure of announcing the marriage of Mr. William Asher Knight, of Portland, to Miss Mitchell, of Odessa, New York, to take place at the home of the intended bride, August 3, at 11 o'clock in the morning. Miss Mitchell is not unknown in Portland, having visited here for a time. Mr. Knight, who is a popular young man of this city, is rather more sensible than most of his fellows in that he is taking into himself a wife. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Knight will leave Odessa for New York City. From there they go to Albany, Buffalo, Boston, Chicago and Des Moines, the latter place being Mr. Knight's former home. They will reach Portland in September and will make this their place of permanent residence.

MATRIMONIAL ALLIANCES.

Weddings of the Week in Portland and at Other Points.

The wedding of Mr. Charles G. Hopkins, of New Whatcom, Wash., and Miss Annetta Stuart was solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents, Captain and Mrs. A. B. Stuart, 289 Lowndale street, Thursday evening, July 13, at 8:30. Rev. Dr. Kellogg officiated. The maid of honor was Miss Daisy Vokes, and the bridesmaid was Miss G. Buchanan; the best man was Mr. Fred Stuart, brother of the bride. The latter was attired in a traveling suit of tan corduroy.

Immediately following the ceremony, Dr. Kellogg baptized little Venus Boyd, niece of the bride, Mrs. Annie Starr acting as godmother. Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins were the recipients of many handsome gifts, and left the evening of their marriage for their future home in New Whatcom.

Berkholder-Tyner.

A pretty wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening at St. John's Presbyterian church, the contracting parties being Miss Anna Louise Tyner, of Indianapolis, and Rev. Abram Hess Berkholder, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Ridgefield, Wash., Rev. E. W. S. Pierre officiating. The bride wore a dress of white silk and carried a bouquet of carnations and maiden-hair ferns. Masters Sterling and Addison Lindsey acted as pages, and the wedding march was played by Miss Maggie Beckman. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by the Kings' Daughters. After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the parsonage here, and Mrs. Berkholder left Friday for Newport, and will be at home to their friends after September 8, at Ridgefield, Wash.

Groves-Tucker.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized July 24, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Lovelock, 43 East Market street, Rev. Mr. Black officiating. The contracting parties were Miss Annie Tucker, of this city, and Mr. Frank B. Groves, of Des Moines, Ia. The house was decorated prettily. The bride was attired in a gown of white organza with pink sweet peas. Mr. Thomas R. Copley acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Groves will be at home to their friends after July 25, at 1574 Park street.

Korten-Kahn.

There was a pretty wedding at the residence of Mr. Henry Kahn, 261 North Broadway street, Saturday afternoon, when Miss Nettie Kahn was united in marriage to Mr. E. N. Korten. The bride was becomingly gowned in blue and gray, and carried a bouquet of carnations. Mrs. Kahn's dress was a black and white silk. The house was decorated with potted plants, palms and the foliage of the Oregon grape. The dining-room was in pink and green—pink roses, La France roses and garlands of Virginia creeper. Mr. and Mrs. Korten will be at home to their friends after August 1 at 25 North Fifteenth street.

IN AND ABOUT PORTLAND.

Entertainments and Social Events Here and Elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Lecher, of Milwaukie, entertained last Wednesday evening 40 neighbors of the Women of Woodcraft, Portland Circle, No. 5. The house and grounds presented a very attractive appearance, the lawn and veranda being bedecked with Chinese lanterns and rustic seats and hammocks being placed in every nook and corner. The interior of the house was illuminated from ceiling to garret. There were music and refreshments, the guests going to their homes on the car.

One of the most delightful functions of the season was the birthday party, given by Mrs. John W. Watson, on Tuesday afternoon, July 17, at her home on Kerby street. The early part of the afternoon was given up to playing whist, Mrs. Theodore Nicolai winning the first prize and Mrs. F. J. Johnson the "booby." The entertainments were brought to a close with refreshments. The table was prettily decorated with a wealth of beautiful flowers.

Miss Mina Murton, of McMinnville, who is visiting her friends in this city, was given a pleasant surprise party last Wednesday evening, at the home of Miss Annie Gerstie, East Taylor and Thirty-second streets. The large lawn was tastefully decorated with suspended lanterns, and various games were played until a late hour, when dainty refreshments were served.

The ladies of Orpha temple, Rathbone Street, were very pleasantly entertained by the past hostess, Mrs. C. Louche, last Thursday afternoon, at her home at Mount Taboa. The principal feature was a game, entitled "A Floral Love Story." Mrs. G. Wheeler capturing the prize. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. James Zehring gave a dinner party Tuesday evening, in honor of Miss Edith Chandler, of Omaha. The table decorations were green and yellow. Those present were: Mrs. James Zehring, Miss Edith Chandler, Miss Nellie Tozier, Miss Louise Brassel, Miss Sidney Bates, Miss Minnie Willson, and Miss Mamie Harsh.

From Assembly, United Artisans, gave a banquet at Elks Hall, in the Marquam Building, Friday, July 20, which was largely attended and at which J. M. Leach, the retiring master, was presented with a gold watch and chain by the members of the assembly.

A most enjoyable party was given at the home of Frances Cottingham, July 20, in honor of the guest of the hostess, Miss Maudie Sanghead, of Salem. The decorations were very pretty, those of the parlor being in dark colors, the drawing-room in green, while the hall was daintily decorated in yellow. The first part of the evening was spent in games and dancing. After refreshments were served the guests were favored by a recitation by Miss Maudie Sanghead, and music and singing followed. Those present were: The Misses Daisy Zander, Bertina Mafon, Anna Logue, Hazel Phillips, Bright Ar-strong, Nellie Church, Lydia Ritter and Lydia Otto, and Messrs. Th. Zackson, Edgar Frank, Henry Frank, Claude Jolly, Frank Buck, Lennie Buck, Willie Cooper, King Zander, Chester Downs and Jack Monk.

Mr. Charles A. Hubbs, foreman of the Southern Pacific paint shops, on the East Side, and who has been transferred to Oakland, Cal., was tendered a farewell party at his home, 64 Powell street, Tuesday evening, the 24th inst. The employees of the paint shop presented him with a very handsome gold watch, chain and pendant. The pendant was exceptionally appropriate, being a painter's palette and brushes. On one side Mr. Hubbs' name is engraved, and on the other the words: "From the Employees of the O. & C. Paint Shops." The evening was pleasantly spent in music, singing and speech-making. Refreshments were served.

returned from Harrisburg, after a visit with her sister, Mrs. A. R. Martin, of this city.

A tallyho party from Harrisburg, consisting of Miss Lucile Wilson, Mr. Gray and Mr. Bradenberry, of Portland, Mr. Sanders, of Albany, and Misses Amy, Edith, Nora, Edith and Amelia May, of Harrisburg, visited the city Wednesday evening.

On Tuesday evening, July 21, Mr. and Mrs. McPherson were tendered a reception, at the home of Mr. Z. M. Pollock. The lawn was lighted with Chinese lanterns and tables were set under the trees. From 8 until 11 o'clock, guests thronged the house and lawn, and passed a pleasant time.

On Wednesday evening, at the home of Mrs. A. D. Hurlbut, occurred the marriage of Mr. Frank Hurlbut, a prominent business man of the city, and Miss Nettie Cunningham. Rev. Charles McPherson officiated, and Miss Ina Watkins, of Eugene, cousin of the bride, presided at the piano. A wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Hurlbut left subsequently for Newport. Upon their return, they will be at home to their friends.
