Paradoxical as it may seem, an agent engaged in this kind of work must be well known, and at the same time not properly known. It is essential that he should have a wide acquaintance on both sides of the ocean, but the moment that his oc-cupation become generally known, his usefulness to the Government censes. Under such secrecy do these agents operate that even the navigators of the ships on which they travel do not know their calling. They pay full fare and take out tickets in the regular way, sometimes through the main offices, but most frequently through a tourists' agency. Their pay varies, but the minimum is 100 per day and all expenses paid. They stop at the best hotels while abroad, for they find the best results for their labora there.

In addition to these traveling agents the Government has in the chief cities of Europe secret agents who keep track of all the big exporting houses and large jew-elers. These men get $8 per day and all expenses. Their business demands that they become thoroughly acquainted with the principal figures of all the large houses that have American customers. They are never men in the company of the travel-ing agents, though they frequently meet. There are four of these agents in Lon-don, five in Paris and three in Berlin. The land agent alroad gets the majority of his tips through the employes of the where American purchases are That the reins may be drawn as tightly as possible on dishonest tourists the Government has a secret understand-ing to divide the value of seized goods where the information is furnished by a disinterested party. This rule is most profitable to both the Government and the one giving the information.

There are certain houses abroad which will diamonds, silks or other dutiable goods to American buyers and notify the Treasury spents immediately. Thus it is that frequently the moment a tourist sleps on board a ship on the other side with valuables that he may "forget" to declare on arrival here, the fact is cabled to this side and the boarding officers and inspectors pass him the compliments of the day on the pler. It is perfectly legitimute for these European tradesmen to give this sort of information for a consid-eration, because a smuggler who makes a pusiness of bringing goods surreptitiously into the country can afford to cut prices and seil at prices which the importer who pays duty cannot possibly meet with profit. This is well understood by the European merchants, who find it to their interest to uphold prices. The system does not apply to Europe alone. One large manufacturing house in Havana makes it a rule to notify the Government agents when a tourist buys a large quantity of cigars without taking out an invoice. There can be no escape from duties when an invoice is made.

The pay of these secret agents and the reward that goes to the informant come from the secret or contingent fund of the Government, of which the public never learns. Every civilized country has a fund of this kind.

To draw the strings around the dishon est ones tighter, there gather at the pier of every big steamer on arrival a staff of Treasury officials, whose sole business it is to discover anything that may have escaped the observation of the agents abroad. Among these are several inspectresses, who can spy a bulging gown sev eral cable lengths away. Brown and Don ohue, two of the most expert of these inspectors, have saved the Government the value of their sularies 10 times over with-in the past 15 years. Their methods of operation are unique. When they see s assenger who appears to have a pro-uberance to starboard or port, they brush up against him in the most accidental
