BANSON FUND FOR YOUNG VEN-VILLE GROWING.

Remainder Expected to Be Raised morrow-Subscriptions May Be Made to The Oregontan.

"I want you to thank the good people of your city for the manner in which they support a worthy cause," said Lieutenant A. N. Wood last evening, when counting up receipts for the Venville ransom fund. "Byery person I meet sympathises with the work I have undertaken, and if he is imable to give substantial support, lends it his hearty sanction. But this is not the only recognition received, as you will ob-serve by the subscription list. I am a suranger among you, and perhaps not in-formed on circulating a subscription list, but in two days I have raised approxi-mately list. Perhaps another day will see the required amount. I can do noth-ing tomorrow, as it is Sunday, but Mon-day will start out early and endeavor to complete the fund.

Lieutemant Wood has not been in Portland for a long period. When he began the work of raising the subscription he cted several long delays and strong expected several long delays and strong asguments. Contrary to expectations, he finds everybody informed of young Ventille's sad fate and eager to do something. A bare introduction brings forth whatever aid those visited feel able to give. In some instances one person well acquainted with all the persons donating makes the collection and brings the money in. This greatly lightens the work of the Lieutengam. H. H. Many persons do not know where Lieutenant Wood's office is located. It is No. 601 Chember of Commerce building, on the sixth floor. He is the only person circulating a subscription paper. The executor states that when he en-deavored to collect the money in the Hi-bernia Savings Bank, the bank refused to pay until a specimen of the signature of the deceased was produced, and desired to know the maiden name of his mother, and where he was born. The relatives had no signatures, and could not obtain one, and were also unable to furnish the other information demanded. Accordingly, the executor says, J. A. Drinkhouse, Public Administrator at San Francisco. took out letters of administration in that city, although this step was entirely unbecessary, as there were no debts against the estate in San Francisco, and Mr. Drinkhouse refused to turn over the money until protected by a bond, and then surrendered only $650. He received $200 from the bank, and the $700 retained, except $5. was used up in the expense of the administration by Drinkhouse, so that out of $250 the estate received only $855. ASCENDED PINNACLE ROCK.

Success of Two Parties Who Climbed Mount Jefferson in 1897.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 18.—Some of those who accompanied the Maxama expedition who accompanied the Mazama expedition to Mount Jefferson, recently, express a doubt as to the ascent of Pinnacle Rock ever having been made. The ascent was made twice in 1897. In July of that year Charles E. Roblin, of Salem; Pearl Blackerby, of Silverton; Miss Helen Hibbard, and Miss Musa Geer, of Salem, made the ascent under the guidance of G. L. Gates, of Gates' Station. The members of this party cut a sapling and having erected it among the rocks on the sumerected it among the rocks on the summit, fastened a small flag to it. They then undertook to take pictures of the locality as a proof of their achievement. On their return it was discovered that Mr.

About August II a party consisting of Mr. Roblin, Judge George H. Burnett, E. C. Neal, of Albany, J. H. Collins and G. L. Gates, of Gates' Station, made the ascent for the express purpose of secur-ing pictures. They made their start for the summit about a o'clock in the morn-ing, starting above the timber line at 1 o'clock P. M. They were on the summit and secured the pictures, two of which are herewith given. One picture is tak-en from a considerable distance below and shows the two peaks. The one farthest away is the higher, but appears lower because the picture was taken from be-neath. The party made the ascent of the higher peak and found the Stars and Stripes still flying, though the sapling was bent to a horizontal position. While Judge Bennett was writing in the Ma-zama records and E. C. Neal was holding the flag. Mr. Roblin protographed the group from a position on a rock that projected from the pinnacle somewhat

The inability of the Masamas to gain the summit this year may be accounted for in two ways. The snow line being lower, a precipitous cliff may have been exposed that presented no difficulties to the climbers of 1897. Again, the rocks may have been shattered by lightning so as to make the ascent more difficult than it was formerly. But, however that may be no one will question the vemay be, no one will question the ve-racity of the men and women who say they made the ascent in 1897.

NEW PLUMBING INSPECTOR

Thomas E. Hulme Succeeds M. P. Fleming to the Office.

M. P. Fleming, Inspector of Plumbing succeeded in the office Friday by Thomas E. Hulme. W. Adams, Mr. Fleming's deputy, has also been notified that he will be let out soon. It is stated among will be let out soon. It is stated among those in position to know that C. F. Petsch, the well-known tinner, of Sell-wood, will be given Mr. Adams' position as Deputy, Plumbing Inspector. Mr. Hulme is a plumber by trade, but for the past two years has been supply driver in the fire department. Mr. Petsch is a tinner and for the past few years has been Money for an Oregonian.

William McLenn, executor of the will of William Ryan, deceased, filed his final report in the County Court yesterday. Ryan bequeathed 2004, on deposit in the Hibernia Hank, San Francisco, to his languister, Caurie Reidel It is largely since he assumed the duties that practicing physicians have co-oper-ated thoroughly with the office in ferret-ing out causes of contagious diseases. There are calls every day or two for the Plumbing Inspector to investigate premises where a case of sickness is discovered, and often defective plumbing is located near where typhoid breeds. Mr. Fleming was so active in this work that all who rekquired his assistance were blobby playing the second of the sec Enforcement of the plumbing ordinance too strictly is said by his friends to be the cause of his removal. By this is meant that he antagonized the Master Plumbers' Association. It is well known that this organization has been opposing the Flaming for some time. Before the highly pleased. that this organization has been opposing Mr. Fleming for some the e. Before the June election their displeasure had been expressed in very positive manner. In nearly every instance where a determined enemy was found, say these friends, it was discovered that the Plumbing Inspector had called somebody's attention to a violation of the ordinance.

Mr. Hulme has done much work as a ourneyman plumber, and stands well in

OF GREAT INTEREST AND IM-PORTANCE TO HOMESEEKERS.

Kansas Record Eclipsed, Indicating Oregon's Marked Advance in Culture and Refinement.

The fact that the inhabitants of Kan-sas, "bleeding Kansas," purchased last year something like 200 planos has been used quite often of late as a convincing campaign argument to prove that good times and prosperity prevail even in the Sundower state.

times and prosperity prevail even in the Sunfower state.

The record is no doubt a wonderful one—and deserving of mention—but, as usual, the great Pacific Northwest can beat the record twice over. Kansas has nearly three times the population of Oregon and Washington combined, but the three leading Western dealers—two houses in Portland and one on the Sound—who virtually control the piano business of the Northwest, will sell this year almost twice that number of pianos.

In the East this statement would no doubt receive a great deal of attention, but from enterprising Western business men it will hardly attract more than passing comment. And while it is convincing evidence as to the prosperous conditions of the people of the great Northwest, it simply bears out a statement made by Mr. Eilers, of Eilers Piano House, nearly two years ago:

House nearly two years ago:
"No branch of education," he said,
"tends more to refine, elevate and make happy the people of a community than music in the home. This Western country is going to ride the topmost crest of the great wave of prosperity that is sweeping over this country, and our generous Westerner, so soon as he gets his head above sagebrush or fir stumps, turns his energies immediately to higher education, culgies immediately to higher education, out-ture and progress. In this a fine piano over plays an important part, and when we consider the great number of homes that are now being furnished with the refining and elevating influences of music, it shows beyond question that our popula-are abreast of educational progress, and that the most cultured families of the East, seeking residence in this state, will find here their neers in education, intelfind here their peers in education, intel-ligence and refinement, and a most de-sirable community in which to take up permanent residence.
"In no cities of the East of their size

In no cities of the East of their size are there so many flourishing musical organizations as in the cities of the great Northwest. Considering population, there will be three times the number of fine pianos sold in the Pacific Northwest than in any other section of the United States, and Ellers Piano House will be found a most prominent factor in bringing this about."

This was said nearly two years ago; This was said nearly two years ago:
The phenomenal record made here since then by Ellers' Piano House in the sale of the three great American panos which they handle—the Chickering, of Boston;
the Weber, of New York, and the Kimball, of Chicago—is a matter of general knowledge, and has attracted widespread attention and admiration. No house in the United States has ever made such progress. And that the phenomenal recprogress. And that the phenomenal record of last year will be more than maintained is evidenced by the fact that orders are now placed by Ellers Plans House with Eastern factories for no less than 25 carloads of planos, and, in addi-tion to these, quite a number of ship-ments are now on the way. Tuesday a big carload will arrive from Chicago, in which planes are shipped without boxes, under what is known as the harness system, which method originated with Ellers Piano House, and which effects a saving of nearly one-half the freight charges, besides doing away with the cost of boxes and boxing. Thursday another carload of Kimbalis will arrive, containing a number of fancy exhibition planes and organs for their exhibition at the Carnival. Friday a monster car of organs is nival. Friday a monster car of organs is due. By Saturday will come a large car of Singers, then a carload of Chickerings, to be followed by a carload of Webers, and still another carload of Miltons will arrive by the middle of next week. All this business is transacted in a quiet, unassuming manner, and few peo-ple who pass the elegant and strictly modern establishment of Ellers Plano modern establishment of Eilers Plano House in their new music building, of-fice 351 Washington street, have any definite knowledge as to the great volume of business transacted from this house.

proaches, challenge matches are becoming more numerous. During the past week four matches were played on the Multno-mah courts, and in two of them the chal-lenging player succeeded in advanteling himself to the class next above him. The closest and most interesting match was that between C. D. Lewis and R. A. Leiter, which was won by the latter, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. This puts Leiter in the second class, along with Cheal, Gifford, Lewis and Andrews. The first set was won by Lewis comparatively easily, Leiter netting many balls with his chop stroke, and Lewis winning many aces with his deep, well-placed drives. The second set reweil-placed drives. The second set re-solved itself into a server's battite, each player winning on his own service till the games were 44. Leiter changed his tactics and kept Lewis from the net by accurate lobbing and careful placing. The next two games and the set went to Leiter; score, 6-4. The third set was long. and hard fought. Every game but three was deuce, and each point was a struggle. The set went to Leiter, 5-4. It took almost two hours to complete the match, Considerable interest is being manifested in the tennis career of the two base-ball players — Jordan Zan and Brandt Wickersham — who have recently an-nounced their intention of wielding the nounced their intention of wielding the racquet. The two were classified in the sixth class. Zan, with the idea of advancing, challenged Thielsen, but after winning the first set, 8-5, he lost the next two, 6-6, 8-6. Wickersham could not see his partner beaten, and challenged Thielsen himself, with greater success. After losing the first set, 46, he won the next two and the match, 5-9, 5-4. With the games 4-9 against him in the last set.

he made a desperate stand, and careful placing, combined with unsteadiness on the part of Thielsen, won for him the next six games. This places Wickersham
