Ministers Express Hope on Rise of Peace

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 8.-A German minister said today that there was no more hope of peace in Venezuela than there was in the case of the Mexican Revolution.

NEW YORK, April 8.-A German minister was quoted as saying that the prospects of peace in Venezuela were very bright.

It was reported today that a French minister had been in touch with the American minister in Washington, and that he was trying to get the French government to support the American minister in his efforts to bring about peace.

It was also reported that the French government had offered to send a mission to the United States to try tomediate in the dispute.

The French government had recently offered to mediate in the dispute, and it was hoped that the proposed peace commission might be able to bring about a settlement.
