STREETS MUST BE CLOSED

COUNCIL FACE TO PACE WITH THIS THREAT.

No Money for Repairs and Everybody Fighting Every Plan to Raise Revenue.

No money to make necessary street re-pairs, and the people frantically insisting that the work be done, was the condition presented again at yesterday's meeting of the committee on streets. Organized opion to the vehicle license, and bitter complaints against every suggestion that had been made by the Council for raising revenue, have about exasperated the members. Their conversation at yesterday's meeting was to the effect that they would be gind to do what was possible. To raise revenue for public work and business without taxing the people, was something they thought impossible. If money is raised, the people must be taxed, If the people insist on not being taxed, they will have to adjust themselves to the conditions resulting. Some of those most clamorous for improvements are first in the fight against the vehicle ordi-

"I am losing patience in this business," said one Councilman. "It did seem to me that the people realized an extraordinary condition confronted them. There is no fund for the work demanded. Streets are getting in a deplorable condition. Some will have to be closed soon, because they are dangerous. Then the residents affectwill charge us with lack of attention so will charge us with size of attention to duty. If these people that are so anxious to have something done would have staged their opposition to the vehicle ordinance until we got into decent condi-tion again, the ordinance could have been repealed then if it was found burdensome, But they rush into bitter technical and every other opposition before anything is realized. We of the Council, drawing no miary, cannot well afford to pay for public work. If the people are determined to defeat every measure of taxation, let them be reconciled to a city where there is no public expense."

City Engineer Chase sent in several communications calling attention to the bad state of different streets. Northrup is closed, and people living adjacent are incessed. The decking of the elevated roadway on Thurman, between Twentynd and Twenty-third streets, is rap filly becoming so dangerous that the City Engineer says the only hope of avoiding a big damage suit some day is to close it to travel. The bridges over Marquam Gulch are in bad condition. A portion of East Water and Belmont streets are getting quite dangerous. Some of these the City Engineer has spoken of dozens of times. He and the members of the committee decided to keep patching and watching until it was seen whether monwould be available for permanent nance be defeated, and there seemed no hope of other revenue, then streets would be closed as fast as thy became dangerous to life and limb.

The contention between residents or Twenty-fourth street, between Glisan and Flanders, and champions of Cornell street, was not decided. Some insist on ing Twenty-fourth to full width, even though Cornell street is destroyed. Members of the committee will make personal inepection of the place, accompanied by the City Engineer, before acting.

Opening of Upshur, Vaughn and Twen-tieth streets, through the irregular piece of ground covering the intersections, was also passed over until further inspection could be made. Viewers have made their surveys and assessed the Gamage to abut-ting property. C. H. Jackson, proprietor of the North Pacific planing mill, was awarded approximately $1000 for dispos-sessing him of a strip in Upshur street, next to Twenty-first, where he had erected lumber sheds. S. C. Spencer, his attorney, appeared before the committee that no effort be made to open this part of the street, as his client would far prefer the land to the damages. Tyler Woodward, speaking for some of the petitioners, thought opening through to this street was a material consideration. The committee seemed disposed to proceed under the plans evolved from the present conditions. They, however, concluded to visit the ground and satisfy themselves individually before deciding. Mr. Spenlight of making threats, but would say that strip, even though a bitter legal

Improvement of several streets was considered on petition of adjacent property-owners. Bast Couch, between Third and Sixteenth, for which improvement a ma-jority of abutting property-owners had petitioned, was passed favorably. Also, Hancock, between Fifteenth and Seven-teenth. Action on the petition for improvement of Second street, between Morrison and Madison, was again deferred pending a reply from the judiciary con regarding the forfeiture of the second-street street-car franchise.

Improvement of Sixth street, between

Morrison and Salmon is also pending. It appears that when Morrison street was paved with asphalt the Government re-fused to pay for its due share in front of the Postoffice, and the city had to do it. There are no funds to pay anything and until it appears satisfactorily that the Government will pay for its share of the worth on Sixth street, in front of the Postoffice, the members of the committee do not feel like incurring any liability. In the case of Morriso street, it is stated that the then Post-master opposed it, and was the cause of the city having to take the burden. Post-master Crossman is reported to favor the present improvement, and is doing what he can to have the proper allowance made. Until something is done the committee will hold the petition on file,

A petition from the Portland Hotel for the improvement of Seventh street, between Morrison and Yamhill was favorably acted upon. The hotel owns all the property on one side, which is the requisite half. Vitrified brick is the material asked for,

Bids were recently asked for the in provement of Kelly street. The only bidder submitted a figure for doing the work that astounded the Board of Public Works, and it sent a communication yes-terday asking that a change in the specifinations be permitted and other bids be asked. Kelly-street property-owners will hardly feel like paying $3,000 for this improvement, and unless a material reduc-tion is made in the next blds, the contemplated improvement may be delayed a long time.

Hunters' Paradise.

Two young men of the East Side have returned from an outing at Mist, in the Nehalem country, where they spent several days. They found that district a wild country, full of deer and bear. Half a mile from where they were camped the country is so wild and the timber so heavy that it is almost impossible to get through. In this dense solitude the deer have increased rapidly, and the people living in the vicinity of Mist say that there are many fold more deer there now than a few years ago. Their isolated and inaccessible situation affords the deer protection from annihilation by hunters, and they have continued to increase. To kill them without dogs is impossible, as the hunter rarely ever tacthes a glimpse of them in the thick timber, although he can hear them plunge through the brush. With trained dogs there are places where deer can be eastly killed. So far the farmers depend largely on their stock. About every farmer who has stock in the standard and prove that it is no good.

LAST NIGHT OF THE FAIR. Big Crowd of Maskers and Merrymakers.

The farewell crowd that lelsurely wend-ed its way last night from the glittering Morrison-street entrance to the farther est limits of the German Village, and Morrison-street entrance to the fartherest limits of the German Village, and back again, was a characteristic Carnival throng, almost as great in numbers as the one of Shriners' night. Merry maskers in gay costumes of many hues and strange patterns mingled with the sightseers, and by their grotesque antics brought forth peals of cheery laughter, confetti filled Studebaker's display at the Street Fair was of exceeding historical interest. It is not stating it too strongly to say that no other single exhibit on the grounds inspired such absorbed attention, as Abraham Lincoln's state carriage. This relic of momentous by-gone days was presented by Robert T. Lincoln to his friend, P. E. Studebaker, of Chicago. Through the efforts of the Portland manager for Studebakers, the carriage was sent here. From Portland it will be taken to Spokane for the fruit fair, and then will go back to Chicago. Its exhibition here brought out the fact that there are in Portland and the country surrounding quite a number of old soldiers who were members of Lincoln's body-guard. For them it had especial interest. Studebakers possess a number of vehicles of historic value. Among them is the carriage presented by this Government to General La Fayette while he was the Nation's guest. In it he rode from Buffalo to Boston. A singular incident mentioned by Mr. Kimball, of the firm, was that while the Lincoln carriage was on exhibition at St. Joseph, Mo., the exposition buildings were destroyed by fire, and the carriage was the only thing saved. It was brought out of the building by Captain Jack Crawford and his company of Sloux Indians.

But after all, a spirit of regret seemed to have settled upon all, a regret born of the knowledge that when they had gazed upon the beauties of the Fair and had passed out from beneath the blazing splendor of the canopied incan-descents, away from the dying echoes of the melody of the Temple of Music, it would be for the last time.

TRAINED NURSE. Remarks About Nourishing Food.

"A physician's wife, Mrs. Dr. Landon gave me a packet of Grape-Nuts about a year ago, with the remark that she was sure I would find the food very beneficial, both for my own use and for my patients. I was particularly attracted to the food, as at that time the weather was very hot and I appreciated the fact that the Grape-Nuts required no cooking.

"The food was deliciously crisp, and most inviting to the appetite. After making use of it twice, a day for three or four weeks, I discovered that it was a most wonderful invigorator. I used to suffer greatly from exhaustion, head-aches and depression of spirits. My work had been very trying at times, and in-digestion had set in., "Now I am always well and ready for

"Now I am always well and ready for any amount of work, have an abundance of active energy and cheerfulness and mental poise. I have proved to my entire satisfaction that this change has been brought about by Grape-Nuts food. "The fact that it is predigested is a very desirable feature. I have had many remarkable results in feeding Grape-Nuts to my retients and I cannot speak to to my patients, and I cannot speak too highly of the food. My friends constantly comment on the change in my ap-pearance. I have gained nine pounds since beginning the use of this food."
