

87,000 MEN IN LINE

REVIEWED BY GOV. ROOSEVELT

Downpour of Rain Failed to Dampen the Enthusiasm of the Host of Marchers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Through streets made dusty by a continual fall of rain, which, though not a downpour, was sufficient to dampen the spirits of the marchers, the parade of the Business Men's Republican and Round Money Association passed down Broadway today.

The parade was noteworthy for the discipline with which the different associations formed into line in the lower part of the city, and the quickness with which they dropped out of line at Park street, the disbandment was particularly noteworthy.

The cold rain, which most of the time drove directly into the faces of the marchers, did not seem to dampen the enthusiasm one whit or lessen the number in line.

The parade was led by a squad of mounted policemen, which reached the disbanding point at Fortieth street and 7th avenue at 1:30 o'clock.

There were 24 companies or divisions of the parade, each organization being commanded by a marshal, who had under him marshals of subdivisions and captains of companies.

The following organizations had by completion the following number of men in line: Milliners Sound Money Association, 2500; Hat Trade Association, 1800; Paper and Associated Trades, 4500; New York Florists' Sound Money Club, 2600; Eastern Business Men's Association, 600; Coal Trade Sound Money Club, 1200; Lumbermen's Sound Money Club, 1200; Produce and Maritime Sound Money League, 2000; Hides and Leather Sound Money Club, 2000; Architectural Division, 600; Shoe Trade Organization, 1000; Office Exchange and Lower Wall Street Business Men's Sound Money Club, 1200; Columbia University McKinley and Roosevelt Club, 400; Christian Sound Money Club, 200; The Leaf Tobacco Sound Money Club, 100; The Bankers and Brokers' Republican Sound Money Club, 700; The Brooklyn Bankers and Brokers' Sound Money Club, 100; Lawyers' Sound Money Club, 200; New York Law School Sound Money Club, 200; McKinley and Roosevelt Insurance Club, 200; The Real Estate Sound Money Club, 200; Publishers and Advertisers' Division, 1200; Machinery and Metal Trades Association, 1200; Jewelers' McKinley and Roosevelt Club, 1200; The Drug, Chemical, Paint, Varnish and Oil Association, 2200; Manufacturers and Dealers in Supplies for Steam, Water and Gas Sound Money Club, 200; Electrical Industries Association, 200; Sound Money League, 1000; Manufacturers of Confectioneries, 800; Pottery, Glass, Brass and Lamp Association, 200; West Side Business Men's McKinley and Roosevelt Club, 200; Hardware and Metal Trades, 200; Commercial Travelers' McKinley and Roosevelt Club, 200; and the United Italian Business Men's Club, 400, making a grand total of 25,000.

A count of the number of men in line was made at the reviewing stand near the Fifth Avenue Hotel. This count shows the figures as given here.

The streets along the line of march were beautifully decorated. The downtown section of Broadway was a blaze of color from the enormous number of flags displayed. In some of the skyscrapers each window displayed the Stars and Stripes, and in each block from the Battery to Fourteenth street there was a large flag bearing the names of McKinley and Roosevelt.

parade, and not a Republican parade. On some of these points were portraits of Bryan and Stevenson. Each of the poles was guarded by a policeman.

The number of policemen mounted the line of march for today was 250. Of this number, 55 were around the reviewing stand. These men were in command of six inspectors, and all the deputy chiefs were along the line of march.

The rain could not dampen their enthusiasm. "I am glad to see the parade," remarked Senator Scott to Governor Roosevelt. "Mr. Croker says that Bryan is in their hearts, but they dissemble their feelings," said the governor, laughing.

A band that headed a division played "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" as it passed the stand. The Governor cheered the band and kept time with his right hand as though he was leading the music. In answer to a question whether the air did not remind him of Cuba, he said:

"Well, I should think so. Some one has called that air the 'battleground' of the parade. After the last man had passed the reviewing stand Governor Roosevelt went to Long Island City, where he boarded an 8 o'clock train for his home at Oyster Bay."

CHICAGO DEMOCRATS PARADED. A Big Parade Wound Up the Campaign There.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—When Mr. Bryan stepped down tonight from the reviewing stand at the intersection of Plymouth Place and Jackson Boulevard, from which he had just delivered his patriotic address, he was greeted by a throng of cheering Democrats.

The weather was perfect—a clear, bright moonlight night, with a cool breeze blowing off Lake Michigan. The streets were packed with cheering Democrats, and the windows and front porches of the buildings were crowded with spectators.

Upon the reviewing stand stood Mr. Bryan, Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Samuel Alschuler, candidate of the party for Governor of Illinois; Mayor Harrison Dowd, of the city; and other Democrats.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—The parade was led by a squad of mounted policemen, which reached the disbanding point at Fortieth street and 7th avenue at 1:30 o'clock.
