There have been but few sales ope reported during the week, European buyers having secured fairly good supplies, and are now holding off, hoping something will happen to enable them secure further stocks at lower prices.

There is nothing in the statistical position which will warrant the belief that there will be any immediate weakness, and the bolders of the stock remaining unsold in this state are very firm in their ideas, and will not sell until they can secure higher prices than are now offered.

There is some improvement in the market for potatoes, receipts for the week being lighter than usual in spite of the improvement in the weather. The poultry market was in perhaps the worst definitely market was in perhaps the worst definitely market and there were more scrub chickens sold at a sacrifice or carried over yesterday than ever appeared on the market except during the boilday season. Loast Spring was an exceptionally favorable one for hatching chickens, and the supply is apparently unlimited. the farmer, and he is not forced to buy
The total sales of stocks today were 890.9 the cereal unless he is so disposed. The farmer at the same time is not alto gether satisfied with present prices, and the sales for the week have been very small in the aggregate. The markets at me and abroad have stiffened up some what since the election, and on the strength of better advices, local dealers have advanced their limits to 55 cents fo Walla Walls, with the usual reports that the fortunate charterer of a cheap ship is sharing his profit with the farmer, b paying more than 55 cents. Freights, at the moment, are undoubtedly weaker, and a March ship was reported fixed yesterday at 46 shillings. This weakness is no due so much, however, to an increase in the supply of tonnage but instead is caused by an unsetlisfactory wheat mar-ket, which is holding back supplies which would come out with much of an improve-ment in prices. In other words all or a large portion of a material advance in wheat abroad would go to the shipowners. for the statistical position of tonnage conthrues very strong.

NAMES NEVER SPOKEN. No More May the Names of the Chinese Family Be Written. Cornhill Magazine. All the imperial personal names are under strict taboo, and it is quite impos-sible to ascertain the naftre Manchu ap-pellations of any of the emperors. Even the word Nurhachi is rarely written or spoken, and in any case he was a mere savage, whose name "got out" before he became anybody. Not one person in 100,000 in China ever heard of the existence of Abukhaye, who is always known at Tai Tsung, as though we should say Secundus Divus. The four imperial brothers above enumerated, that is, the Emperor Hienfeng (a mere date name of reign style like the papal Pius. Fellx or Leo), Prince Tun, Prince Kung and Prince Chim, are personally called in Chinese Yichu, Plisung, Yihin and Yihand Prince Chun, are personally called in Chinese Yichu, Pitsung, Yihin and Yihwan, respectively; but the word chu must always be mutilated in writing or in print, as though out of respect for Her Majesty we should write V-toria or Viola. Nor durst any one except the Emperor or close relatives in equal or higher degree, even utter the personal names of the princes, let alone write them. All this is in imitation of the "Byzantine" Chinese ways, which, however, in this respect, seem to prevail all over North Asis, and may be of older origin than China herself. The Chinese personal names of the Manchu emperors, beginning with Abukhaye's son, are Fulin, Huanye, Yinchen, Hungil, Tungyen, Mienning, Yichu, Tsaichun and Tsaitien; but I should not advise any one to go crying these sounds about the streets of Pekin, unless armed with a nobbed sticked.

pensable taboo as easy as possible for the "silly people" by changing the sounds of certain syllables ab as not to interfere with the free use of current language, and his successors have gone further by giving rare and practically meaningless syllables as imperial names. Thus, no one in the whole course of his life need ever write the characters chu, hin, isong or hwan, for no one has the faintest idea of what they originally meant, and, if current language. what for no one, has the faintest idea of what they originally meant, and, if cufficus, must kunt up in a dictionary to find out. The taboo does not now extend to the first or categorical syllable. All of the generation of the kwang must have been names beginning with mein, and all of the generation of the last two Emperors must in the same way be Tsai. It is exactly as though all our royal family were Athelstanes, Athelhelms or Athelberts in the generation of George III. Egberts, Egwins, or Egwolfs in that of the Duke of Kent, and Edmunds, Edreds or Edwards in the generation of Queen Victoria, and as though we wrote Athelstanes, Egbst and Edmunds, to the brother who was King. the brother who was King.

STOCK MARKET BOOMING

GREAT EXCITEMENT AND HEAVY DEALING SINCE WEDNESDAY.

Unfavorable Bank Statement Causes a Check-Standard Oil Still Making New Records.

NEW TORK, Nov. 10.—Today's stock market was not materially changed in character from that prevailing since Wednesday merning, except that an opportunity was given to test it when the bank statement made its appearance. Considering the kind of buying that has been going on during the latter part of the week, and the extent and ressons for some of the advances made, the market came through the test fairly well. The momentary chill which struck the market when the statement first appearand seemed to pass, but a fever fit was on when the market closed, and fluctuations were wild and unsettled under the conflicting influences of vigorous pressure by the bears and support by the powerful bull cliques or frantic unleading by weak speculative holders, and nervous covering for a quick turn by shorts.

The surfler market showed very mixed conditions, but the eager demand for stocks overrede all other influences, and provented much effect on prices from the realising, which was on a heavy scale.

Pacific Mail dumped nearly 10 points by half-point intervals, on the announcement of the entry of Union Pacific interests into the directory, and Union Pacific was also notably affected. The steel stocks showed wide and excited fluctuations on continuance of the heavy speculation in those securities. American Hoop, Tin Plate and Tennessee Coal were most conspicu-ous, and were marked up three points or over. When the market relapsed, these stocks and other prominent industrials and specialties were most affected, losing in some cases between 3 and 3 points; but in some cases between I and I points; but partiy recovering before the close.

The speculative world is so accustomed to paradoxes that it was taken somewhat by surprise by the logical rise in prices of stocks which followed election. The whole of the speculative life in Wall street consists of efforts to anticipats future events and conditions. Thus a conjuction that a large demand is imminent for stocks prompts large buying, and when riction that a large demand is imminent for stocks prompts large buying, and when the event takes place which has been looked to cause the demand, professional speculators are easer sellers, not only of all their holdings, but of short contracts as well. It is almost invariably the case that events are events are events are events are events as the prevalence of the paradox in Well street—buy on a weak market and sell on good news are standard maxims there. It is rarely the case that Wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell on good news are standard maxims there it is rarely the case that Wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell sell of the case that wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell sell of the case that wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell sell of the case that wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell sell of the case that wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell sell of the case that wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell sell of the case that wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell sell of the case that wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell sell of the case that wall street falls smitchenly to discount an event sell of the case that wall street fall smitchenly the case that wall smitchenly the case tha street falls sufficiently to discount an event or a condition, especially a con-dition that has been so confidently exevent or a condition, especially a condition that has been so condidently expected as the large public demand for stocks which was to spring up after the election, but that is just what happened this week.

by the powerful operators, who had been weeks, in anticipation of the after-election demand. The concentration of stocks in strong hands, coupled with the frantic eagerness to buy, made it possible to es-tablish an imposing advance in prices at the outset. Not only were holders of the outset. Not only were holders of long stock induced to realize, but bear operators almost immediately began to put out short lines, confident that the golden movement of the culmination of a rise had arrived. But the torrent of the general demand swept up all inferings in the market, and continued in sufficient force to afford a medium for continued operations for an advance during the week, stimulated by all the arts of manipulation known to the professional speculators.

NEW YORK FINANCES.

Bank Statement Shows a Loss of Four Millions in Cash. NEW YORK, Nov. 10.-The Financier A decrease of $1,344,570 in the reserve of the New York associated banks for the week ending November 10 brings the to-tal excess reserve down to $4.615,000, which, in the face of the enormous dealings on the New York exchange, adds a new interest in the immediate money market. The statement contains several surprises, the chief of which is the loss of $1,005,200 in cash.

It had been figured that the banks would show a slight decrease in cash holdings, but nothing approaching the total reported. There is every reason to believe, however, that the position of total reported. There is every reason to believe, however, that the position of the clearing-house institutions is better than indicated in the statement, for the reason that the gold consignments from Europe last week do not appear to the full extent in the averages. The routraction in loans during the past week is very heavy, and seems to extend geocrafily throughout the list of individuals banks, not being confined, as is often the case, to a faw of the larger fuglitations. It is not to be expected, however, that the loans will continue to contract if the stock market business remains active over the next week.

The decrease of $10.55,500 in deposite is lugical, considering the cash and loan reduction, and this explains why with $4,000.000 in cash going out of the bailts, the actual reserve fell only $1,34,550. The leasened deposite released about $1,570,000 herestofora locked up under the $2 per cent legal requirement. With reference to the outlook, but little can be said. The interior movement is at an end, but a return of funds to this center is not expected for some time to come. The gold imports have ceased temporarily, at least, and for the moment it seems that the hanks will report anything but a stock market business remains active

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Helpless Against Any Foreign Demand on Its Stock of Builton. LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Bank of England having adopted the policy of vigorous berrowing, the Investors Beview ous berrowing, the Investors' Review says:

The immediate aspect of the money market is more encouraging. In consequence of the stiffening of money discount and foreign exchanges have improved somewhat. Mr. McKinley's triumph had a quieting influence on the money market. New York reducing loan rates and lifting exchange. Thus fears of heavy exports of gold New Yorkward are less acute. The advance in the bank rate has been postponed. Essentially, however, the market stands where it did, at the mercy of the treasury, and helpless against any foreign demands on its dangerously small stock of buildon.
