SECRETARY HAS ESTABLISHED & CENTRAL OFFICE.

Hendquarters This Week at 246 Washington Street-Programme. for the Celebration June 14.

In order to accommodate pioneers and to make it as convenient for them to ob-tain their badges as possible, George H. Himes, the secretary of the Oregon Pio-neer Association, has arranged to have his headquarters during Pioneer week, beginning tomorrow (Monday) morning at 9 o'clock, at 246 Washington street, be-tween Second and Third, where the agicultural, horticultural and mineral'exhibit of the Chamber of Commerce is so handsomely displayed. This will give visiting pioneers who take time to examine this exhibit a little idea of what the citizens of Portland are endeavoring to do for all parts of the state. This location is easily accessible from all quarters of the city, as well as the railroad depots and steamer landings. It is especially requested by the secre-tary that pioneers residing in the city will secure their badges early in the so that the confusion which often week. arises toward the last in the effort to serve quickly those who are entitled to badges may be avoided. The color of the badge this year is red. No badge of a previous year will be recognized. Yesterday and the day before many pioneers called at the Historical Society rooms in the City Hall for their badges, among them a goodly number who have never attended a ploneer reunion, and after being supplied spent much time in examining the relics brought across the plains and indulging in the reminiscences which they recalled.

The interest already manifested indicates that the attendance will be large. The programme of Pioneer day at the ition building will be substantially as follows:

Prayer. Address of welco Andress of welcome Response.....Lee Laughlin, 1847, president Annual address...Hon. Raleigh Stott, 1831 Music-Medley, "American Overture"....

Band. Song-"Old Time Melody" Miss Kathleen Lawler, grand-daugh-ter of Mrs. John H. Egan, a pioneer of 1854. Occasional address Charles V. Galloway, native son. Music-"American Patrol" and "Star-Spangled Banner" Band.

After the literary exercises are over, a hanquet will be served by the Pioneer Woman's Auxiliary, which will be fojlowed by the annual business meeting and social reunion. At noon sandwiches and coffee will be served under the auspices of Abernethy Cabin of Native Sons and Eliza Spaiding Cabin of Native Daughters.

FOUND DEAD IN A BATHROOM

Mrs. John Becker May Have Taken Carbolie Acid.

Mrs. John Becker, about 45 years old of $47 Broadway, was found dead in the bathroom of her house yesterday, when her husband returned from work, and there is a suspicion that her death may have been caused by carbolic acid poison, ing. Two glasses were found near the bathtub, one containing whisky and an-other liquid, and the other showing traces of carbolic acid. In a drawer in the bathroom was a bottle of carbolic acid, partly empty, but the members of the family said the bottle had been in the bureau for years. Dr. Jefferson, who was called, informed Coroner Rand, who made an investiga-tion. The woman's husband said that he and his wife had lived happily and that her health had been good, but lately she had spoken of the necessity of taking medicine, and might have done so. An inquest will be held this afternoon.

BLINDED FOR LIFE.

FOR UNPAID LIGHT BILLS GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY

SUES THE CITY FOR $9432. Suit Against Oregon & California

Railroad to Recover $21,619 on Land Contract-Court. Notes.

The Portland General Electric Company yesterday filed an action against the City of Portland in the State Circuit Court to recover 19432, balance alleged due for lighting the streets of the city during the months of October, November and December, 1900.

The contract on which the action is based was entered into in February, 1899, the agreed price being $53,000 per year for 712 arc and 655 incandescent lamps. It was arranged that the money should be paid in monthly installments of $4416. The city charter provides that a certain por-tion of the 8 mills tax jevy shall be used for street lighting purposes, but because Assessor Greenleaf largely reduced the assessed valuation of city property, the street lighting fund ran short. The city therefore was unable to pay in full, not being authorized by the charter to transfer money from the general fund to the other fund, to make up the deficiency. It is alleged in the complaint that the Assessor arbitrarily reduced the amount of the assessment on city property from $38,396,620 to $29,654,209; that had the Portland General Electric Company declined and refused to keep the city lighted the inhabitants and property would have been harassed, troubled and endangered by criminals, and great inconvenience would have resulted. The city officials, it is stated, promised to apply to the Legislature for relief, and, relying upon this promise, the company continued to fur-nish the lights. The Legislature, it is asserted, confirmed the indebtedness by au-thorizing the city by an act passed and subsequently approved by the Governor to ransfer funds to the special funds from the general fund, and, having carried out its contract and considering all these things mentioned, the Portland General Electric Company says the bill should be paid, and asks for a decree accordingly. Frederick V. Holman appears as the at-torney for the plaintiff. The members of the Common Council have not denied the liability of the city under this contract, but they desire to evade any personal responsibility, as the present city charter is very strict on the question of disbursing funds. They do not desire to take any chances, and will feel secure if backed up by a decision the court.

BROWN WINS HIS SUIT.

Jury Awards Him the Oregon King Mine. T. J. Brown and B. W. Maddox yesterday won their sult against the Oregon King Mining Company, the jury in the Federal Court awarding them a verdict after deliberating about an hour. The of damages, but simply found that the plaintiffs were entitled to the mine by right of discovery and possession. Brown first located on the claim, which is situated in Crook County, in 1897. Ac-cording to the testimony, he did not perform sufficient labor upon it to hold it and in June, 1888, a party headed by G. M. Wilson located on the claim. They Wilson did some work, according to their story. and sold to the Oregon King Mining Company, a corporation organized under the laws of Wyoming. In January, 1899,

Brown returned to the mine and again located. It was upon this location that he claimed title in his suit in court. Brown alleged that subsequent to his second location he was driven off the claim by employes of the defendant, and he then then took the matter into court. One his main allegations was that the staking of the mine by Wilson was destaking of the mine by Wilson was de-fective, in that no west end stake was set up. There was also a dispute as to who sunk the first 10 feet of shafting. Both partles alleged they had done so, and each introduced much testimony in support of this contention. The case was on trial nearly all last week. Dolph, Mallory, Simon & Gearin, Albert Abraham and H. M. Riddell appeared for the plaintiff, and W. H. Wil-

F. Darling for a divorce on the ground of descrition. There are three children as the issue of the union with the mother. The Darlings were married in 1871. Judgments by default were obtained in the following cases: John Clark and the following cases: John Clark and Annie Cark vs. S. J. Scott et al., $475 52; J. H. Page & Bon vs. J. V. In the County Court yesterday, Estella Nash, administratrix of the estate of Albert L. Nash, deceased, was authorized to compromise a claim against the O. R. & N Co, on account of his death for $350. Nash was employed as a yardmaster at The Dalles, and on November 4, 1900, was killed by a collision between a switch en-gine and a freight train. The company denied liability for the accident, or negil. gence.

Frank I. Weber has filed suit State Circuit Court against the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association to re-cover $3000 insurance on a policy issued to his wife, Katherine Weber, in 1893, in his favor. The policy is known as a 10 years' distribution deposit policy. Mrs. Weber died October 9, 1900. It is alleged that she performed and complied with all of the conditions of the written instrument, and that the defendant has refused to pay the amount due. Cotton, Teal & Minor, of Portland, and L. S. Wilson, of Walla Walla, appear as at-torneys for the plaintiff. Mr. Weber resides at Walla Walla.

Katle Dagman, who has sued Gus L. Dagman for a divorce, yesterday filed an affidavit in which she stated that they were married in Portland in January, 1900. and in May following, while she was re-covering from the effects of a surgical operation, her husband abandoned her. She heard that he was in Enderten, N. D., and sent him a letter asking him to send her enough money to provide for herself until she became well enough to work, but received no response. She fur. ther stated that she had inquired from acquintances of Dagman regarding his whereabouts, but could obtain no information. Mrs. Dagman asked that service of the suit be made by publication of summons, as under the facts recited it was impossible to obtain personal serv-ice on the defendant.

An action has been commenced by the German Savings and Loan Society against Sorah M. Kern, administrairix of the estate of John W. Kern, deceased, and the Fidelity Deposit Company, of Maryland, for $2000. In May, 1898, the German Savings and Loan Society ob-tained a decree against Captain Kern for $57,888, and foreclosing a mortgage for so, so, and to control of 24 acres. Cap-tain Kern appealed the case to the Su-preme Court and lost, the foreclosure judgment and sale of the property being affirmed by the higher court. It is alleged that at the time of the appeal a bond was given for $2000 to cover the value of the use and occupation of the land pending the appeal, with the Fidelity Deposit Company as surety. It is now sought to recover on this bond.

Cycle Paths on East Side.

It has been decided to build a cycle path on Milwaukie street, from Holgate to Division streets, to connect with the path on East Twelfth, Road Master Steels is favorable to the construction of this path, and there appears to be no objection from residents on Milwaukle street. By build-ing on this street the path on East Twelfth, between Division street and Hawthorne avenue is made available. It will be built along the west side of the street. There will thus be four cycle paths terminating at the intersection of East Twelfth street and Hawthorne avenue-Oregon City, carshops, Woodstock and the section paths-making it almost imperative that a path be built along Hawthorne avenue to East Third street to connect with Madison-street bridge,

Thomas Muller Loses His Sight in Whitechapel Fracas. Thomas Muller, a stalwart longshoreman, is probably blinded for life as the result of injuries inflicted in a cowardly attack by John L. Fields last night, at Second and Burnside streets. Muller is in a hospital, and Fields was arrested by Policemen Gibson and Baillie. Muller and Fields got into a dispute in a Burnside-street saloon over their nationality, and Fields told Muller that he was a for-eigner. Then the two men separated, and the onlookers thought that the matter was ended, but Fields attacked Muller outside and beat him on the face. Then with his thumbs he deliberately injured the nun's eyes. When arrested, Fields had a brick in one of his pockets, and had the effrontery to say that Muller's injuries were inflicted in what he called fair fight. Muller stated that he could not see, and was afraid that his eyes were permanently injured

BEAT A WOMAN.

H. Chase Locked Doors to Ward Off Interruption.

In a fit of jealousy last night, a muscular individual known around White-chapel as H. Chase severely beat his consort, Lizzie Smith, known as Liverpool Lizzie, who keeps a saloon on Second street near Davis. Chase had been beating the woman for some time before word of the affair reached the police, and Policemen Gibson and Baillie found that he had locked all the doors and had placed bars on the windows so that he would not be interrupted. The policemen effected an entrance to the place by forcing a rear window, and they ap-proached Chase with their drawn revolvers. The sight of the weapons cowed Chase and he consented to go quietly to the police station.

TO RECOVER $21,619.

Suit Against the Oregon & California on Land Contract. William R. Maffet, trustee, has com enced an action against the Oregon & California Railroad Company to recover $21,619 for alleged breach of contract for the sale of 5172 acres of land in the eastern part of Multnomah County, on Gordon Creek. The complaint was filed in the State Circuit Court yesterday by Watson & Beekman and George W. Joseph as plain-tiff's attorneys. It is alleged that on De-cember 31, 1853, Maffet and E. T. McKin-non, as trustees, entered into a contract with the railroad company for the purchase of this land at the agreed price, of $64,362, and thereafter paid on the con-tract the sum for which judgment is asked in this case. Maffet avers that the company never had any title to the land, and failed to secure title in accordance with the terms of the agreement, and that a part of the land was afterwards taken by proclamation of the President of the United States as portion of the Bull Run reserve It is asserted that it will therefore be impossible for the railroad company to acquire title to the land; and that on March 23 last the company, by letter, rescinded and annulled the contract. Maffet also contends that it was understood that no payments were to be made on the contract price of the land after the payments as set forth in the complaint, unless the title had been acquired by the defendant.

Not Subject to Hidden Liens.

Judges Sears and Frazer, in the suit f William R. Moffet against the Security Savings & Trust Company, held that a judgment creditor who bids in prop-erty for the amount of his claim is not subject to hidden liens.

In 1981 Marcus Hartwell was the owner of certain property, and sold it to Moffet and E. T. Kinney. They were indebted to Clarence W. Coulter, and conveyed the property to him in trust, to be reconveyed when the debt was satisfied. The deed was recorded, but not the agreement. The Commercial and Savings Bank sued Coulter for $500, and attached the prop erty, and afterward sold the property to the Security Savings & Trust Company

Moffet, in his suit, contended that the bank only secured the actual interest of Coulter in the property. The court, in sustaining a demurrer to the complaint, held that it did not understand that a bare possibility that a holder's title may P. M., arriving Portland at 4:30.
