Lewis and Clark Campaigners Will Call Tomorrow

THE GOAL IS $300,000 OR MORE

Careful Preparation to Cover the Whole City and See Everybody-If You Are Missed, It Will Be Your Own Fault.

The Lewis and Clark canvassing committees did a good deal of work yesterday, arranging their routes and the lists of citizens to be seen by each so as to avoid delays and confusion when the solicitors start out tomorrow morning, Most of the committeemen had the Lewis and Clark celebration uppermost in their minds, and in contact with outsiders fre-quently sounded them as to the feeling for the enterprise. As a consequence every committee was buoyant and hopeful last night. Confidence that the full amount needed, and more, will be submount needed, and more, will be submount needed, and more, will be submount needed.

One of the canvassers yesterday saw a man who came within the classification "How much do you expect me to sub-scribe?" asked the citizen.

The canvasser had just been through the tax lists and the commercial reports, and had marked the men on his boat in accordance with the valuations and accordance with the valuations and ratings he had found, so he was ready to answer just such questions. "I think you ought to go down for about $100," he said. "You needn't ask me for $100," responded the citizen. "But if you come around Monday and strike me for $250, you will not it."

This is a specimen instance indicating that a spirit heartily favorable even en-thusiastic, for the Lewis and Clark en-terprise is general in the community. This is welcomed for the celebration itself and also for the unity of purpose which it displays for the general good. As a prominent citizen remarked on leaving the general conference of committees Fri-day night: "If this thing shouldn't get any further, it will have served a very important purpose, because it has shown

For the Lewis and Clark Centennial and American Pacific Exposition in 1905.

Every citizen has been informed through the public press of the action taken through the executive committee of Portland in selecting some 20-odd committees to secure subscriptions for the celebration of the Centennial of the Lewis and Clark Exploration and American Pacific Exposition. The celebration of this event having been determined upon by a large majority of the people of Portland and the Northwest, and Portland having been selected as the most central point and possessing the best advantages in transportation facilities and otherwise for such celebration, it becomes the duty of our citizens now to unite in a solid body to make this event a signal

The committee will commence on Monday next to make a thorough canvass of the city for subscriptions for this purpose. In order that there may be no delay or arguments with the committee to impede their progress in promptly securing the subscriptions necessary, I am requested by the committee to ask every individual and corporation and organization to make up their ninds in advance, so as to be prepared promptly to subscribe what they can afford to give to this important enterprise, to the end that it may be a success and a credit to the citizens of Portland. Statement of the Understanding Arrived At by Those Who Are Foremost in Organizing the Celebration,

To the people of Portland: That there may be a full understanding of the purposes of the Lewis and Clark Centennial, and that the work of the committees which will begin canvassing Monday morning, November 25, for subscriptions to the capital stock of the corporation may be facilitated, I have been directed to make the following brief statement of the sense of the executive committee: First-No part of the funds arising from the sale of the stock of the corporation shall be expended for the purchase of real estate. Second-Subscriptions to the capital stock shall be paid in not less than four equal installments, and no installment shall be called for oftener than six months after the first payment has been made. Thus the payments will be distributed over a period of about two years. The first installment will not be due until the directors to be elected by the stockholders meet and issue the call for payment of the Third-All money coming into the treasury of the Exposition corporation will be expended by the board of directors to be elected by the stockholders. In this election each stockholder will have as many votes as he owns shares of stock. It is the sense of the executive committee that the affairs of the corporation shall be economically conducted, with the view to making the Exposition of 1905 a success and a benefit to the entire Pacific Northwest.

Fourth-A subscriber to the capital stock of the Lewis and Clark Centennial, American Pacific Exposition and Oriental Fair, is only liable for the amount of his subscription, and not liable at all for the debts of the corporation, unless his stock is not paid for in full; and if not paid for in full, then he is liable only for the balance unpaid of his subscription.

Remarkable Demonstration of Uniform Playing by the Cambridge Men-Thirty-six Thousand Spectators Saw the Game,

SOLDIERS' FIELD, CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 23.—Vengeance never sweeter and victory never more declaive came to Harvard than this afternoon, when her cleven defeated Yale 22 to 6. Three touchdowns, two of which were converted into goals, and a goal from the field, a brilliant execution, were Harvard's portion. For Yale there was nothing but a whitewash. The Harvard men required about five minutes in which to start their superb football machinery. After that Yalo was never in the playing. In scrimmage, tacticism, line-plunging, hurdling, skirting, punting and drop-kicking the Yale men were completely outclassed. The Harvard players gave also a demonstration of uniform play that was remarkable, and as a country in the players. SOLDIERS' FIELD, CAMERIDGE, form play that was remarkable, and as a result the colors of the crimson waved in delirious joy during the greater poron of the two hours occupied by the con-

Thirty-six thousand spectators, a greater number than ever before gathered at a football game, watched the contest from the mammoth stands. Three-quarters of the enormous crowd cheered Harvard, while 5000 sympathizers tried to encour-age the overwhelmed wearers of the blue. Harvard presented a team the person-nel of which was unchanged from start to finish, and the players who thus won glory for the crimson were almost as full of dash when the referee's whistle sound-ed for the last time as they were when ed for the last time as they were when it sounded for the opening kick. the other hand, required 16 men to meet the onslaught of the Harvard plunges.

Victory came to Harvard, and sympathy went out to Yale from the Harvard thousands when the crack quarter-back. Desaulies, as the result of a flying tackle, which prevented another Harvard score, was hurt. A blow on the head made him unconscious, Later it became necessary to remove him from the field on a stretcher. As the game progressed, Weymouth, Chadwick, Hamilin and Gould were compelled to retire in favor of substitutes.

The game was as cleanly played as any over witnessed on this field. Not one instance of slugging or roughness was visible. Three penalties were imposed by stance of slugging or roughness was vis-tible. Three penalties were imposed by Umpire McClung, and Harvard, from the overanxiety of her players, thrice lost three yards of distance for holding, off-side play and interference. Harvard scored II of her 22 points in the first hair. In the first half Harvard resorted more often to punting. Yale played much bet-ter football in the second half, and Har-vard had to be satisfied with a roughdown vard had to be satisfied with a touchdown which failed of a goal. Harvard, after the first five minutes of the game, had gossession of the ball the greater portion of the time. Once in the first half Yale landed the ball on Harvard's 26-yard line a goal from the field. He falled. In the second half, Yale, by the flercest kind of play, reached the nine-yard line, only to lose the ball on downs. The crimson's weightler lines and faster back field worked out the touchdown in the second half, but Cutts could not make the goal against the wind.

The general feeling of the Harvard oaches and players was one of surprise at Yale's weakness and surprise at Harvard's strength. Coach Reid said after the game: "I admire the fighting spirit. Every man on the team had it in him, and they came to the acratch in great shape. I had confidence in them, and they came up to my expectations. man played the whole game for all he was worth.

Captain Campbell said: "The game spoke for itself. All I have to say is that when the university backs up a team as it has this one, it will always win."

Not a Harvard man was seriously injured. Kernan's weak ankle was strained a little, and Cutts hurt his knee slightly, but the rest of the men showed no effects beyond a few scratches and black eyes. The Yale men were very despondent, and took their defeat hard. There were many who limped badly. Desaulles was the worst of the injured. He was kicked on the head, and it was thought at first that he had concussion of the brain. The Har-vard students, after their celebration at the field, marched through the square and around the college yard, cheering and singing. Red fire was burned on every side, and fireworks were set off. Finally most of the men started for Boston to finish their demonstration. The line-up of the game follows:
