THE OREGONIAN'S HANDBOOK.

The Oregonian's Handbook tells all about Portland, the entire Columbia River watershed and the 1905 World's Fair, commemorative of the Lewis and Clark expedition to Oregon. The book contains over 150 handsome illustrations, and it is printed on enameled book paper. It will be mailed to any address in the United States or Canada for 7 cents a copy.

JEWELRY is altogether a matter of confidence in the jeweler, because the opportunity to deceive is greater than in any other business. For a quarter of a century I have been in business in Portland and have gained the confidence of the people. A visit to my new show room will convince you that my large stock of diamonds and precious stones, loose or mounted, in pendants, brooches, rings, ear-rings, lockets, etc., is second to none in beauty and quality and my prices reasonable, as my expenses are small. Tingley, the jeweler and watchmaker, corner Washington and Third, or Northern Pacific Express office, upstairs, Open evenings.

POULTRY SHOW—The premium list for the annual show of the Oregon State Poultry Association, held in Portland, and can be obtained of E. J. Ladd, secretary, at 31 Front street. It contains a long list of substantial awards, which are sure to secure a very large competition. The association has been fortunate in securing Merrill's Cyclopedia for the exhibition, which will be opened to the public on Monday, December 20, and continue throughout the week.

IDEAL GIFTS

Like a Calendar Should Afford Renewed Interest Every Day of the Year.

The Portland Optical Institute is not a bazaar, where everything is on sale from the proverbial pin to the proverbial haystack. Strict, exclusive attention is devoted to optical lines. "Everything in lenses" is the motto of the house, and has been for nearly 17 years. Our solid gold spectacles and eyeglasses are not only models of style and beauty, but they are fitted with lenses that satisfy the disconcerted eyes of those for whom they are intended. They are ideal gifts, for they bring fresh joy to their owners with the dawn of every day throughout the year.

Our opera-glasses are not only unique conceptions in delicate pearl and enamel, with holders to match, but they are guaranteed not to injure the sight of those who use them. This is an important item in the preservation of vision. In addition, we carry a line of handsome, effective field-glasses and some fine telescopes, which make instructive as well as amusing presents for the boys. Our immense annual orders in our exclusive lines place us beyond competition in quality and enables us to sell lower than general merchandise establishments.

WALTER REED, the Optician, 122 Sixth street, Oregonian building.

PICTURE EXHIBIT.

Easterlies from Chicago, New York and other prominent centers have frequently expressed their surprise at the magnificent line of pictures carried in stock by Sanborn, Vail & Co., of our city. In fact, they never expected to see such an exhibit this side of the Rockies.

The most reasonable prices at which fine old paintings, water colors, etchings and crayon work can be secured from this firm is a still greater surprise. We wonder how many Portlanders are aware of this. The pictures and elegant frames of all kinds, together with many other lines, at all ranges of price, afford an excellent opportunity to select appropriate Xmas gifts. When out shopping drop in and see them at 124 Sixth street, between Morrison and Yamhill.

DELICIOUS BREAD.

Improvement is the order of the day, and any housewife who will give machine-made bread a trial will be surprised and delighted at the difference between it and the ordinary hand-made bread. Machine-made bread is delicious to the taste, close in texture, rich in color, and is easily digested. It remains fresh for three or four days, and is now used by the Pullman Car Company, the O. R. & N. Co., and by most of the leading hotels and restaurants. Don't fail to ask your grocer for a loaf of Snowflake.
