

A very charming valentine party was given by Mrs. Louis Burke on the afternoon of February 14, at her residence on Marshall street. Hearts were everywhere about the rooms, strings of hearts on portieres and about the windows, and each electric light was cunningly transformed by a crimson paper shade into an ardently glowing heart. Cupids were also in evidence, in honor of his patron saint, and as in all loyal Portland homes, on festive occasions, the Oregon grape shed its polished beauty over the scene. A very effective feature in the decoration of the reception hall was a dimpled figure of Cupid, bow, arrows and all, grasping in determined fashion a fish-net in which he had scooped a multitude of help-less captive hearts. During the afternoon the old familiar game of consequences, with a valentine attachment, was played, with much absurdity and merriment. The first prize was won by Mrs. Herbert C. Miller. St. Valentine's influence was also manifested when the ice cream was brought in, for each ice was of a deep pink color, and in the shape of a heart, the heart being formed by one of Cupid's arrows in the form of a silver spoon.

On Tuesday afternoon, February 13, Mrs. Burke also entertained at a delightful "hearts" party, at which first prize was won by Miss Sophie Lawrence. In the dining-room, where the green and crimson decorations were in beautiful harmony with the red walls, a dainty collation was served at a long table, lighted by red shaded candelabra, and having as a center decoration a vase filled with fragrant red carnations. At the valentine party the guests were:

Mrs. J. P. Booth, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Ernest Brown, Mrs. Isaac Van Dusen, Mrs. J. Van Dusen, Mrs. H. H. Levy, Mrs. Frank C. Miller, Mrs. J. A. Martin, Mrs. M. K. Kieck, Mrs. Herbert C. Miller, Mrs. E. L. Hillman, Mrs. E. P. Mossman, Mrs. G. G. Gammons, Mrs. H. W. Christensen, Mrs. Oliver Season, Mrs. D. Nalarky; and Mrs. Burke's guests at hearts were as follows: Mrs. A. H. Tanner, Mrs. F. F. Haradon, Mrs. J. F. Patch, Mrs. Lydia Baker, Miss Sophie Lawrence, Miss Mabel Lawrence, Mrs. H. W. Christensen, Mrs. L. Zimmerman, Mrs. Edgar B. Piper, Mrs. Chick, Miss Willis, Mrs. Shilake, Mrs. J. M. Lester, Mrs. J. Betts, Mrs. Charles Bascy, Miss Dodson.

Mrs. S. G. Fulton's reception on Wednesday afternoon, for the wives and daughters of the visiting railroad men, was a very elegant affair. The beautiful apartment at The Guillaume, hung with rich tapestry, was richly decorated with amethyst, white clusters of Oregon grape stone like furnished copper in rare vases, and Indian baskets, making a fitting background for the wealth of Spring blossoms, daffodils, lilacs of the valley, tulips and other flowers that gleamed everywhere.

Mrs. Fulton, robed in black lace, with diamond ornaments, received with Mrs. Moore, of St. Paul, who wore white and pink satin, and Miss Moore, in white Venetian point lace. Mrs. James McCracken, Mrs. Lewis Russell, Miss McCollum, and Miss Brown assisted in entertaining the hundreds of callers who appeared. Many elegant toilettes were worn by the callers. Some of the lately married ladies were very lovely Parisian gowns, which with the sunshine and flowers made it more of an Easter week gala occasion than a day on the latest edge of Winter.

One of the most picturesque entertainments of the season was the charming dish supper given by the ladies of the Unitarian Church on Friday evening. There is an irresistible flavor of Bohemian about a chafing dish, anyway, and the masculine element of the guests, excepting the uninitiated, wondered how all this delicious cookery was made without any of the unspectable debris common on old-fashioned occasions of this sort. Delicate cooking, as every one knows, is a fine art, and the mastery technique of some of these productions was remarkable, while the combined mellowness and delicacy of expression in others was satisfying in the extreme.

The large lecture-room, with its walls draped with graceful folds of the American flag and its windows transformed into panels of woodland foliage, presented a very attractive picture. The ice cream table, which was presided over by Mrs. N. R. Cox and Mrs. T. H. Edwards, was placed at the rear of the room, and the center was vase of pink carnations, and the table was lighted by candles of the same tint. Mrs. Edwards wore a handsome gown of black silk with a dainty belt, and Mrs. Cox was handsomely gowned in black lace over red silk.

Mrs. and Mrs. C. L. Mastick made martinis for the guests, and the ladies of the American flag waved gaily from a bank of English ivy. Mrs. Mastick's gown was of much distinction, being of black velvet, on train, with an exquisite belt of duchesse point. Mrs. Alfred Sears, Miss Knox and Miss Maud Tyler served lobster a la Newburg. Mrs. Sears was daintily gowned in pearl gray silk and lace, and Miss Knox wore a black and white coming costume of black and white.

At Mrs. Walter Burrell's table, where chicken, terrapin and oyster cocktails were concocted, the business was assisted by a bevy of charming young women, among whom were Miss Katherine Sitton, Miss Olga von Destlin, Miss Lucy Sitton and Miss Henrietta Elliot. Mrs. Ralph Wilbur and Dr. Cox served appetizing chicken terrapin and lobster a la Newburg, assisted by Miss Linley Norton, Miss Frances Bachelor, Miss Grace Naylor and Miss Lucile Parker. Mrs. Wilbur wore a handsome colonial gown of black and white, with black ostrich feathers in her powdered hair.

Mrs. G. G. Gammon looked charming in a gown of red and black organza, with a Martha Washington sash. She served creamed oysters, assisted by Mr. R. L. Lampton, who made venison cutlets. Miss Louie Bickel, Mrs. and Mrs. Hoyt, Miss Leslie Fiske, Miss Hagley, Mr. Strain, Mr. McCully and Mr. Omsstead formed a merry cortege around a table where they served pepper roast and pan roast. This table was lighted by can-

EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

The birthday of Washington was delightfully remembered and celebrated at the home of Mrs. A. E. Rokey, on Flanders street. The guests were the Daughters of the American Revolution, and their friends, who filled the spacious and beautiful dining-room. The scene face of our first President looked down from its wall of Oregon grape as a greeting to all who entered the room.

The feature of the afternoon was an address by Mr. Lyndell Baker, the gifted and worthy leader of a great name. His talk was a most interesting and instructive one, and he drew material from the great Northwest to live in song and story. He mentioned a few striking events that only indicate how vast is the store which he drew material from the great Northwest to live in song and story.

Mr. Baker deplored the fact that no one with the heart of the great Sir Walter Scott had the ardent to make the Oregon story immortal. His portrayal of Sir Walter's method in dealing with historical facts was most interesting, and in fact, the entire address was full of thought and suggestion.

Mr. Frank Branch Riley then gave a clever little impromptu attempt at a well-measured young man to instruct a small boy in the immortal tale of the leech-eater hatchet and the perpetually blooming cherry tree. The latter, the guests repaired to the dining-room, where delicious refreshments were served.

A great bowl of Jambouille adorned the center of the table, and the glowing, steaming samovar at the end, where Mrs. Goodall served tea. Young Daughters passed sandwiches, ice cream and cake.

Mrs. C. R. Donohoe delightfully entertained a number of friends on Wednesday evening at her home in Irvington. The house was very effectively decorated for the occasion with many small flowers, Oregon grape, and early Spring wild flowers. Some musical selections which were given during the evening, and which were greatly enjoyed, were several vocal solos by Mr. Tompkins and Mrs. Coover, and a violin solo, rendered with much expression by Mr. Wells. Miss Gladys Donohoe gave an excellent recitation, and also a piano solo.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. M. Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ludlow, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Coover, Mr. and Mrs. George Bell, Miss Florence Campbell, Miss Kate Kenyon, Miss Ethel Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Donohoe, Mr. D. McLean, Mr. Templeton, Mr. Lynn Coover, and Mr. George Wells.

The reception given by the University Club to the members of the University of Oregon Glee Club after their concert Friday evening was a very pleasant affair. The club songs were sung, both by the club members and their guests, and old college yells given with a vim. Professor I. M. Glen's baritone solo, Mr. Frazer's work on the piano, and the clever stunts by Riley and Vance, were especially popular. Light refreshments were served, and cornucopia pipes and tobacco distributed among the smokers. In addition to the large number of members present, the ranks were swelled by a delegation of local alumni of the University of Oregon, who were guests with the glee club.

The Carpe Diem Club gave a largely attended and very delightful party at Burkhard Hall Tuesday evening. The hall was lavishly decorated with American flags, combined with the colors of the Club, purple and white. From the center of the ceiling hung a large basket, twined with ribbons of white and purple, and filled with overflowing with white carnations, ferns and snail. Everett's Orchestra provided a programme of inspiring music, and the young people present had an unusually merry time. The patronesses at this pleasant party were: Mrs. J. H. Thatcher, Mrs. Frank Thorn, Mrs. H. Alger and Mrs. George F. Fuller.

A very pleasant event took place at St. John's Presbyterian Church, Seventeenth and Marshall streets, last Wednesday evening. The "session" of the church for the purpose of making newly received members decided to give a social, and a general invitation was extended to the congregation to assist the session in receiving the initiates. The ladies heartily prepared coffee and cake, and a short programme. Good speeches and fellowship were abundant, and to wind up a most enjoyable evening in the Rev. W. St. Pierre, pastor, and Mr. St. Pierre were each handed $40 in gold as a token of esteem from the congregation.

Mrs. L. Sweet entertained a number of young people on Thursday evening at her home at Second and Montgomery streets. Music and dancing were a delightful feature of the evening, which was the occasion of a farewell to Miss Sadie Wagner, who left on Saturday morning for an extended visit to Seattle.

Mrs. Ada H. Hall, living at 555 East Couch street, gave a pleasant valentine party at her home February 14. The rooms of the house were handsomely decorated for the occasion, and were thronged with guests.

Mrs. M. Evelyn Hurley gave an anniversary party at her home Thursday afternoon. Miss Leta M. Biddie being the guest of honor.

The Kindred Spirits Whist Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bruhn

Thursday and spent an enjoyable evening. Mrs. George E. Waggoner, Mrs. Edward Root, Mr. J. V. Beach and Mr. R. R. Dunaway carried away the prizes.

A delightful Valentine party was given in honor of Miss Jessie Clifton at her home, No. 38 East Eighth street, Friday evening, February 14. The evening was spent in playing various games until a late hour, when light refreshments were served.

The Frolicsome Club met last Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. Marcus A. Peel. Progressive whist, the unique decorations of Chinese lanterns, flowers and ferns, and the serving of a dainty luncheon added greatly to the pleasure of those present.

Mrs. A. N. Wright entertained the Larnard Whist Club at her residence, on Larnard street, Thursday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock. The unique decorations of Chinese lanterns, flowers and ferns, and the serving of a dainty luncheon added greatly to the pleasure of those present.

An enjoyable valentine party was given at the home of Miss Rose Nielson, of the Twentieth Century Rose Club. Music and games were the chief amusements during the evening, and dainty refreshments were served at a late hour.

The No. 100 Club gave another of its popular parties Wednesday evening at Parsons Hall. The hall was charmingly decorated, the musical programme was excellent, and a delightful time was enjoyed by all who were present.
