THE OREGONIAN'S HANDBOOK. The Oregonian's Handbook tells all about Portland, the Stuart Stock Company present the modern melodrama, "The Lost Paradise." Matinee at 2 P.M., evening at 8 P.M. COLEMAN'S THEATRE—A splendid dramatic success, "Ole Joe."

READY BY MAY 1.—The co-operative produce market enterprise will organize the first of the new month, says Daniel Kellner, one of the incorporators. He believes that it will be a success from the start. One of the great advantages which it will offer to the first sellers of produce is the fact that its accounts will at all times be open to the inspection of stockholders. "This will prevent the menagerie to which wholesalers often subject producers," said a retailer yesterday. "Frequently the poor farmer sends in his stuff and the wholesaler pays him what they want to give, and when he protests they give him the horse laugh and ask him what he is taking to do about it. All he can do is to take his medicine. There are lots of people who have been treated this way, and they are subscribing to stock of the co-operative enterprise. We shall raise $10,000 capital. If we needed twice that amount we could get it."

ALL THE WAY AROUND, up the east side and down the west side. One of the finest railroad rides out of Portland. The Fast Sashers' Association will give their fifth annual excursion Sunday, May 11, to Albany. Those who have accompanied this association on excursions in the past and who wish an enjoyable ride will certainly go to Albany. Trains will run up the east side, crossing over the bridge and return to Portland on the west side. Fare for continuous trip $1. Seats for everybody. Trains leave Union Depot, Portland, at 8:30 A. M. Ample provision will be made by hotels and restaurants at Albany for dinner.

THE PORTLAND COCKER KENNELS, at Hunter's Station, Mount Tabor, has again demonstrated its success as the largest breeder and importer of cocker spaniels in the Northwest. In the shows just held at Victoria, Seattle and Portland their dogs took 21 first, 8 second and 4 special prizes, against the crack-jacks of the Coast. The stud dog, Black Victor, was a surprise to the fancy, winning four firsts in each of the three shows. We have still some young stock on hand. Phone Union 391.

DEATH OF ASHFORD CLAYTON.—In the death of Ashford Clayton, which occurred last Monday at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Oregon has lost one of her oldest and most worthy pioneers. He was 96 years old, came to Oregon in 1832, and settled upon his donation claim in Cole's Valley, Douglas County, where he continuously resided nearly up to the time of his death. Some little time ago Mr. Clayton suffered from kidney complaint, and was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital, in the hope that an operation would save his life, but at his advanced age and the severe nature of his disease, he never rallied from the shock. His body was taken to Roseburg last Wednesday and buried one day later at his Cole's Valley home. Mr. Clayton was one of the best-known farmers of his section. His wife died several years ago, and he is survived by six daughters and two sons—Mrs. W. H. H. Clayton, of Orange, Cal.; Mrs. L. A. Kent, of this city; Mrs. Jessie Cleek of Corvallis; Mrs. Lora McLean and Mrs. Clara St. Clair, of Washington; Mrs. Mary Fabrique, of Lewiston; and Mrs. Albert and Grant Cleek, of Douglas County.

SLAUGHTER OF SONG BIRDS.—A number of Japanese in the vicinity of Pendleton, Or., have been shooting robins, meadow larks and other song birds. The Pendleton members of the Oregon Fish and Game Association, through the efforts of T. B. Wells, Deputy Game Warden for that district, three Japanese were prosecuted and fined $15 each, with costs, which amounts to a total of $50 in each case. The association is hot on the trail of these bird slaughterers and game hogs, and will spare no pains to bring them to justice. A very good joke in connection with the case was that S. Ban, a Japanese contractor of Portland, sent up a Jap interpreter to manage the case, who was considered quite "foxy." He engaged Charles H. Carter, a member of the Oregon Fish and Game Association, to defend his countrymen in court.

ON CASCADE SUMMIT.—Colonel R. W. Mitchell, of the Willamette Valley & Cascade Mountain Wagon Road Company, has just received a letter from A. J. McClure, who says that he has been out on the west end of the road, within 25 miles of the summit; that the snow there was 2 1/2 feet deep and very soft. It began at Snow Creek with a depth of one foot. The road was found to be in very good shape, with no wash-outs or slides worth mentioning, and travel across the range can be resumed in about two weeks.

MR. LINDEN VERY LOW.—A. J. Linden is at St. Vincent's Hospital in a very critical condition. About a week ago he had an operation, from which he seemed to be rapidly recovering, and expected to go home today. About 4 o'clock yesterday morning, however, he began to get worse, and has been sinking ever since. Last night the worst was feared. Mr. Linden is an old resident of Portland, and has a large number of friends here who sincerely regret his affliction.

NEW STREET RAILWAY CROSSING.—The City & Suburban Railway Company last night put in a double-track crossing at Third and Burnside streets of seven-inch rails. The Portland Railway Company is laying a track on Burnside street from the bridge to Fifth street to connect with the Fifth-street line, and the object of the new crossing is to accommodate the latter line. The rails were cast welded at the intersections, and they were made at the City & Suburban Company's shops at Twenty-fourth and Savier streets. The new crossing at Second and Burnside streets was manufactured at the company's shops, and also the one put in at the corner of Third and Yamhill streets. The crushed rock put in as a fill is only temporary. Next Summer when the new rails are laid in on Third street the cars will be run on Second street and the crossing will be filled with concrete and Belgian blocks and permanently improved.

A new line of mantels just received is unsurpassed in quality and design. Estimates on all kinds of work. Also French dinner work. M. J. Walsh, showrooms, 245 Washington street; call up on either phone.

WHERE TO DINE. Cleanliness, order, best of everything. Portland Restaurant, 266 Washington.

His RELATIVE HERE.—Chief of Police McLaughlin received a telegraph message yesterday from Oklahoma, reading that Francis Joseph Rahles, 250 North Fourth street, Hobart, Oklahoma Territory, had been shot and killed there, and asking that the dead man's history be sent. The police did not know Rahles, but found out that he had a relative who works in a department store in this city. The relative, when seen, refused to talk about Rahles.
