

A GREAT RALLY

Voters Cheer Judge Williams' Speech.

HE DEFINES THE ISSUES

Vital Republican Principles Are at Stake.

Its Ticket Has Been Put Up by a Clique, Not by Citizens—Chamberlain Would Give Straight Democratic Administration.

EXTRACTS FROM JUDGE WILLIAMS' SPEECH.

I am neither a Simon man nor an anti-Simon man, and if elected I will recognize no dividing line in the Republican party.

The Republican rally in Corvallis Tuesday last evening was a demonstrative testimonial of the high esteem in which Judge Williams is held by the citizens of that city.

Whitney L. Boise called the meeting to order and made a few introductory remarks. He expressed gratification at seeing such a large audience assembled for the reason that it shows the interest the public is taking in the election of the ticket and the endorsement of the Republican platform.

Great Applause for Judge Williams. Judge Williams advanced to the front of the stage amid thunderous applause from the audience. He said, by way of introduction, that he had nothing hard to say against his political opponents, but would try by argument to lead them to support the Republican ticket.

Not "Citizens," but a Clique. Judge Williams discussed the misuse of the word "citizens," showing that the fusion ticket has been nominated by a clique of men and not by the citizens; that his candidates are no better citizens because they are on a "citizens" ticket than they would be on a regular party ticket.

fair election was held, that the votes were fairly counted, that the majority elected at that primary election nominated a ticket, and it is the duty of all good Republicans to support the ticket the majority has formed.

I do not say that Republicans are bound to vote for every man the party convention nominates, for if some corrupt man should be nominated, honest men should not vote for him. But that should be an exceptional case, and the general rule remains that the ticket named by the majority should be supported by the minority. If it is not, how can a party ever succeed?

Judge Williams pictured the coteries of Democrats and disgruntled Republicans trading among themselves in order to distribute the county and city offices, and then asked whether this is the way to purify politics. He said he would much rather vote for a Democrat who stood squarely upon a Democratic platform than a Democrat who is running on a fusion ticket.

Important Principles at Stake. On state matters Judge Williams said that there never has been nor can be an election in Oregon involving more important principles than the present one.

Chamberlain a Straight Democrat. Mr. Chamberlain talks to the people as though the only duty of the Governor is to watch the Treasury and prevent the people's money from being wasted.

Furnish is Cheered. A brief outline of the Republican platform for Governor, W. J. Furnish, called for by the audience, was given by Mr. Furnish with great vigor.

When Judge Williams closed his address in an appeal to all loyal Republicans to forget their differences within the party and unite against the common enemy, electric lights flashed and the audience cheered.

Speech of General C. F. Beebe. In response to a multitude of calls from the audience, General C. F. Beebe went to the rostrum. He said: "This is a very great surprise, as I was certainly not expecting to be called on to say anything this evening."

PEOPLE FOR OREGON

Ben Campbell's Great Colonization Plan.

HARRIMAN WILL CARRY IT OUT

Low Rates Will Be Put Into Effect in Four Months of the Year—Means Much for This State.

In the course of a talk with Mr. Campbell, Assistant Traffic Director of the Harriman railroad lines—and who I scarcely need to identify as our own Ben Campbell. He was informed of our project which promises vastly for the advantage of Oregon and Washington and particularly those districts reached by the Harriman railroads.

In a letter written last week while on the trip across the country, I set forth some of the effects wrought by the "colonization" plan.

I say both ends of the line upon calculation, for I take it for granted that our people will not fail to do something to turn this railroad effort to account.

All this is very easily described, but it implies a world of hard and intelligent work—a work which somebody must pay for. There ought to be a general organization with its headquarters at Portland and with local organizations in the several districts—one for the Palouse country, another for the Blue Mountain district in Oregon, for Central Oregon, for Southern Washington, for Southwestern Washington, for the lower Columbia, for the Tillamook country, for the different sections of the Willamette Valley, for the districts of Southern Oregon, for the Lake country and for the far-away Malheur and Harney districts.

his investigation much further than Richardson did. The latter confined himself to the 10 marine leagues of the old treaty between Great Britain and Russia.

One of the first needs will be descriptive literature, and it ought to be prepared with great care and with the best art. It should be brief, plain in its form, so that anybody who can read may understand it; it should be severely honest in tone and accurate in details.

The people now coming into our country and to be brought here by the present law, are destined to have great influence upon our future, for they in turn will bring others. Indeed, there is no immigration agent like 100 dead men.

campaign, as a discussion of the question was inevitable.

Although the controversy today was precipitated by Republicans from Maryland, who have a state pride in Admiral Schley, it was easy to observe that the Democrats desired to make party capital out of it, something that is not likely to be accepted by the American people.

NOW KING OF SPAIN

Alfonso, Attaining His Majority, Takes the Oath.

QUAINT MEDIEVAL CEREMONIES

Madman Creates a Sensation by Wanting to Marry the King's Sister—Procession to the Chamber of Deputies.

Alfonso XIII, reaching the age of 18, today assumed the throne of Spain, and the regency of the Queen mother came to an end. A gorgeous procession from the palace to the Chamber of Deputies was the feature of the celebration.

The reception met with by the procession was, on the whole, lukewarm on the part of the immense crowd, composed chiefly of people who had gathered to witness the pageant out of curiosity.

A Brilliant Procession. Beautiful weather favored this, the central day of the fetes. At an early hour all the bands of music of the troops completed their march.

The first vehicle, bronze colored, drawn by four black horses, was occupied by the King and Queen. After it came the so-called "Prinze" coach, occupied by the Court Chamberlains and 18 state chariots belonging to the principal outsiders.

The King and the Queen Regent were seated, side by side, in the royal coach, and were accompanied by the Infanta Maria Teresa, youngest sister of His Majesty. It was drawn by eight speckled grays, in dark red harness, having heavy ornate ornamentation.
