The second game of the Portland-Helens series was played off yesterday, the home team winning to the tune of 2 to 2. Flannery's aggregation was bolstered up by Fleming, who pitched good ball, but Vigneux's pets were out to win and "did things" to the young gentlemen from Montane. The sensational play of the day was a home steal by Max Muller, Portland's crack fielder, who slipped across the plate while one of his own men was at the bat, the suddenners of the event causing Catcher Suilivan to drop the ball, amid shouts of joy from the bleachers. This great event occurred dur-ing the fifth inning, and was one of the viest pieces of business ever seen on local field.

game was not sensational, but it was a good exhibition nevertheless, and the 600 spectators who were nearly blown from their seats by the strong wind, left the ground strong in the opicion that they had seen their money's worth.

Portland was first at the bat, but the side soon retired and nothing startling. occurred until the third, when Joe Mahaf-fey, who had walked to first and gone to second on Muller's sacrifice, scored on safe hit by a tall individual named Van Buren, who is playing a star game in center field for Portland. Muller's score came in the fifth, and later in the same inning, a two-base hit by old reliable Andy Anderson scored "Jake" Deisel from second. Helena took a big brace right here, and Engle, who had succeeded Davies on third bag, came in contact with one of Peeples' grounders, and then with the mud, the Montana player meanwhile landing safe on first. Fannery made a safe bit, which was duplicated by Sullivan, Peeples coming in from third. Flannery soon scored on an error by Muller, but and Carroll. Umpires—Powers and two of his colleagues struck out and another knocked a pretty fly into the open hands of Van Buren, retiring the side without further tally. No scoring was done after this inning, but all hands played good ball and the spectators were enthusiastic. A pretty double play, Deisel to Anderson to Weed, at the close of the second inning, retired Bruyette and Fleming. Joe Mahaffey pitched a good game for Portland throughout. Yesterday's vic-tory gives Portland second rank in the league and local fans say that another series or two will place the local aggregation at the head of the list. The official score was
