Taylor, went to California Wednesday. A Piano With a History. Memphis, Tenn. A presentation of more than ordinary interest was made in New Orleans Thursday night, and thereby hangs a story. Just after the fall of Vicksburg, when General Sherman's army was marching on Jackson, General Joseph E. Johnston, made a determined stand in the suburbs of Jackson, Miss. The famous Washington artillery of New Orleans constituted a portion of his forces and they were stationed at what was known as the Cooper residence, two miles west of town. It was known that everything in the Cooper house would be ruined, if not burned, therefore the piano, a handsome instrument for those days, was picked up by the soldiers and carried within their breastworks. One of the members of the artillery company, in a spirit of mischief, sat down to the piano and played a lively air while the shot and shells were whizzing all about him. When the enemy came close he grabbed his gun and got in the firing line, where he remained until the Federals were repulsed, leaving several hundred dead on the field, when the dazed young Louisiana resumed the music. It is that battle-scarred old piano that was presented to the Washington artillery. At the time of the battle it was the property of Miss Cooper, who afterwards as Mrs. W. Scott became the mother of Mrs. A. Q. May, the donor. The presentation speech was made by the Hon. A. Q. May, her husband, who is one of the Mississippi Railroad Commissioners. Flirt Dwellers to Lose Their Pets. Chicago, Ill. Dogs, cats and parrots will be driven out of apartment buildings of Chicago if the ordinance supported by the Builders & Owners' Association is adopted by the City Council. Dogs, cats and parrots are classed with horses, cows, pigs and goats, explosive, combustible and inflammable material and articles dangerous to life and detrimental to health. Aldermen Young, Ehlens and Deyer of the City Council judiciary committee listened all afternoon to the discussion of building ordinances. In the Mayor ordinance it is provided that "no horse, cow, sheep, pig, swine or goat shall be kept in a tenement-house." Mr. Mills added "dog, cat and parrot" to the list of animals. "There are some animals now allowed in apartment buildings which are fully as objectionable, if not more so, than some of the animals specified," said Mr. Mills. Alderman Mayor said he had no objection to the additions, and they will probably be put in the list. Mr. Mills objected to the use of the word "tenement," as being a relic of the continuation of feudal conditions in the "old world," where the relations of baron and vassal and serf had been handed down for generations. He proposed to substitute the word "apartment." The builders in Chicago, he said, were striving to improve their buildings with best ventilating and plumbing fixtures, and they were no longer tenements with unsanitary conditions, but up-to-date apartments. Good Profit on Stamp Books. Detroit Free Press. It is now more than two years ago that Third Assistant Postmaster-General Madison originated the idea of having stamps issued in book form, protected by paraffine leaves, so that they can be readily carried in the vest pocket without any danger of their sticking together, and they have now become so popular that the Government nets a handsome profit from their sale, while the public reaps the convenience at a trifling cost. The first books were issued April 16, 1899, and up to April 15 of the present year the profits on the book exclusive of the value of the stamps, has been $88,018. This is an immense amount when it is taken into consideration that but one cent is charged for the book in addition to the value of the stamps. The profit comes from the fact that it only costs a fraction of a cent to manufacture them, although there is no way by which they can be sold for less. During the fiscal year 1901 there were 4,683,960 books issued, while during the 19 months ending April 30, 1902, 5,903,534 books were issued, an increase of 25 per cent, which shows that more people are buying them every day. At present the books are confined to two-cent stamps, and are issued in three sizes, the smallest containing 15 stamps, the next size 24 and the largest 48. There has been erected in the works of the Bethlehem Steel Company a steam hammer four stories high, which strikes a blow of 125 tons.
