BEST HORSE WINS

Wyeth Captures the American Derby at Harlem.

LAST OFF WHEN FLAG FALLS

But Wears Down the Field One by One—Lucien Appleby Finishes Second, and Aladdin Third.

Table with 3 columns: Tr., Winner, Time. Lists American Derby winners from 1888 to 1902.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Coming with a sweeping stride through the stretch, the game colt, Wyeth, owned by John A. Drake, won his first Derby and upheld the traditions of the race by the overthrow of the favorite and by a Western horse beating the best that could be sent from the East.

The real surprise of the race was Lucien Appleby and Aladdin, who finished second and third respectively. Lucien Appleby would have been conceded a good chance had the track been heavy, but when the dust was seen flying as the horses went to the post in the first race on the card, those who had placed their faith in him in the future books gave up their bets for as good as lost.

One of the best features of the race won by Wyeth was that he got off last after the fall of the flag, and wore the field down one by one. Striding along in irresistible style, without any apparent effort and at the same time getting over the ground grandly, he appeared at all stages of the race to be running well within himself, although passing one horse after another and apparently traveling the fastest. They never had him "straight," and his neck was not stretched until the final sixteenth. Even then he was far from being out, and he clearly won with a little in reserve.

The story of the race is soon told. There was little delay at the post, and Starter Daner got them away with a good send-off. Otis and Heno at once showed in front, with Wyeth last. Round the turn from the half-mile post to the head of the stretch the field came thundering along at a good pace. Otis and Heno had drawn clear of all contenders, and already were fighting for the lead. Fast they stood the same pair was running head and head well in front of the field, on the outside of which were Arsenal and Corrigan, both a little too far back to please their backers.

When half the distance of the race had been completed, Heno and Otis still held a commanding lead and showed no sign of tiring. Belles Commoner and Wyeth were the nearest attendants, although Aladdin was still up and on the rail. Coburn apparently preferred to drop back to fifth

PLEGGED TO ANKENY

Walla Walla Republicans Name County Ticket.

DECLARE FOR AN OPEN RIVER

Roosevelt Indorsed and Foster and Jones Commended—No Railway Commission, but a Maximum Rate Bill Favored.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., June 21.—The Republican county convention, at which a full set of county officers were nominated, and delegates to the state convention at Tacoma, September 10, were elected, was held at the Courthouse this afternoon. The hall was decorated with the National colors, and several mottoes, such as "The flag must stay put," "No scuttling" and "Expansion." Every precinct was represented, 129 delegates being in attendance. The Ankeny forces predominated, the anti being interested spectators to the division of the pie. Harmony was prevalent, and those who came with the idea of seeing a hard fight were disappointed. Although some close voting was done on several candidates, the ticket as nominated is made up of well-known Republicans, and a forecast at this time does not reveal a weak man on the ticket. The platform indorses the Administration of President Roosevelt; Congressman Jones for his efforts in putting in free delivery in Walla Walla County; Senator Foster for his support of the infant beet industry in the state, and his support of the isthmian canal bill; expresses confidence in the effort of the state administration to reduce the state expenses; favors the opening of the Columbia, and commends Congress for the enactment of the arid land and irrigation law, and believes in the good roads movement.

A special resolution was introduced and carried unanimously, indorsing Senator Cornwell for his fight in the last Legislature opposing the railway commission bill; and calling for a voluntary reduction of freight rates by the railroads to tide-water, and the passage of the maximum rate bill. B. D. Crocker presided at the meeting, and members of the Legislature from Walla Walla County were instructed to use all honorable means toward the election of Levi Ankeny to the Senate.

Twenty-one delegates were named to represent the county at the state convention, all of whom will be expected to use

ROSE SHOW PARADE

Glittering Pageant on Multnomah Field.

DAILY DECORATED TURNOUTS

Crowning Feature of the Rose Show Witnessed by Thousands of People—Awards of Prizes.

The Flower parade, which was the feature of the Rose Show yesterday, was a brilliant affair. Never before in Portland has there been such a display of the floral wealth of the city or such a collection of elegant turnouts. Single and double traps, drawn by ponies and thoroughbreds, were on dress parade, the horses caparisoned in a fashion that would put to shame the chariots of the fabled gods of the ancients. The crowd was one of the largest and most fashionable ever seen in Portland, the grandstand being bright with a mass of dainty femininity in gay Summer costumes. Brown's band played stirring marches as the cavalcade swept by in long procession, and was greeted with cheering and fluttering of handkerchiefs.

The first event on the programme was the grand parade, in which all entries were included. After a turn or two around the track, the procession broke up, and the competition of single traps began. There were 19 contestants, and each turnout was decorated in gay and elaborate fashion. The judges awarded first prize to Master Hamilton Corbett, second to Mrs. W. A. Knight, and third to Mrs. T. Straff. Hamilton Corbett's trap was covered with yellow coronets, interwoven with apraxagus and smilax. The harness was covered with yellow ribbons and as the dark brown horse drew his trap proudly past the grandstand, the owner presented with a handsome silver tankard, the gift of the City & Suburban Railway Company. Mrs. W. A. Knight rode in the trap with Master Corbett.

Mrs. Knight's buggy was decked with marguerites, and the seats were filled with pretty girls in Summer gowns. The next event was a display contest of seven mounted horsemen, Eugene Rockey winning the Feldensheimer silver cup, J. W. Crutcher took second prize, and E. M. Lazarus third. Young Rockey's sorrel and white pony pranced under a load of pretty flowers and ivy, while Mr. Crutcher and his steed bore up bravely a load of dainty La France roses.

The pony (carls and mounts) competition was an amusing one, the tiny pet Shetlands being guided by their youthful owners. Wayne and Dart One won the first prize, a beautiful gold pin, presented by William Friedlander. Nona Lawler, on the back of a small burro, took second honors.

The double trap competition brought a number of elegantly decorated rigs, the best of which was that of Miss R. L. Archambault. The two-seated trap was hardly visible, so dense were the decorations of the rich La France roses. Mrs. B. E. Wright took second prize, the decorations of her buggy being in marguerites and roses of different hues. The first prize in this event was a vase, presented by the Portland Railway Company. Just as the outriders were getting ready to gallop around, the rattle of an ice wagon was heard, and the ponderous vehicle tore down the driveway from the east gate, halting before the ice cream booth, where several huge blocks of congested aqua pura were deposited. Many of the spectators thought that the wagon had come to compete for a prize, and its appearance created a small-sized sensation.

A. B. Willis won the outriders' cup, which was presented by A. N. Wright. E. M. Lazarus took second money. There being but one competitor in the automobile display, the judges promptly awarded the first prize to Mrs. Dr. C. B. Brown.

In the fancy trap display there was but one entry, but that one was an attraction in itself. The big tallyho of the United Carriage Company was filled with young girls from the Flower Mission, 28 in all.

RELICS OF ANCIENT EGYPT

Chicago, June 21.—Relics of kings who ruled 3000 years before the Christian era, together with the complaints of a Chief of Police written on papyrus 3000 years ago, are on display for the first time in the Haskell Museum of the University of Chicago.

The exhibition is given by the Chicago Society of Egyptian Research, and the relics were gathered last Summer. One of the relics is a flat gold bar, thought to be the oldest piece of inscribed jewelry in the world. It bears the symbol of King Menes, who is thought to have reigned about 2900 B. C. Another exhibit is a piece of papyrus on which is written a complaint by Nechthemetes to a Chief of Police with reference to a robbery on her premises. This relic bears the date of 190 B. C. A piece of papyrus of the third century bears a letter of Demetrius to his father, Heracleides, blaming him for not sending baskets of fodder.

SILVER COIN FOR PORTO RICO

NEW YORK, June 21.—About three tons of silver coin of the United States were shipped today for Porto Rico, in payment for bonds just purchased by a banking house with branches in that island. Heretofore when bills and bank notes were shipped to the island they disappeared very rapidly. For some time the disappearance of paper money was a mystery. Finally it was discovered that the people of Porto Rico were just beginning to find it handy to send paper currency through the mails, and especially when it was desired to send small amounts. In this way the currency supply was being depleted constantly, and the bankers determined to try silver coin. In the belief that it will take a good deal of postage to send it all out of the country in letters and may discourage the practice.
