SENSATIONAL BARREL-JUMPER DEMONTELO WILL APPEAR TONIGHT.

Demonte, the sensational barrel-jumper, who injured his ankle last Sunday night, has fully recovered from the sprain and appears tonight as the feature of the show. He will have all his own paraphernalia this time, and the wonderful jumping he did at his first appearance bears no comparison to what he will do this week. He practiced for two hours at the park yesterday morning to be sure of his underpinning, and jumped over tables, in and out of barrels, and over a five-foot fence, from one pedestal to another, with the agility of a cat, and all the time he was blindfolded and had both feet tied together. He is not the only good thing on the programme by any means. The Lamonts are another strong feature. They are members of the famous Lamont family of acrobats, and Miss Lamont, of this team, is considered the best and most graceful lady acrobat on the stage. Helen Lamar will appear in another of her pleasing recitals, a thrilling story of the rescue of a rock-bound ship by Jane Conquest. Dorothy Ems, a handsome little comedienne, who comes direct from the big Eastern circuits, makes her initial appearance in a specialty entitled "Jemie, the Prize of Newspaper Row." The Lawrence comedy sketches are also imported, and make their first appearance in Portland in a society playlet. The clever Duffy children made such a pronounced hit the past week that they are re-engaged, and will have a star place on the bill in a new act. Joseph Thompson, who is gaining the sobriquet of the "Old Reliable," will sing "You Ain't Changed a Bit" and "I've a Longing in My Heart for You, Louisa," both of which are handsomely illustrated. Among a number of other interesting and humorous pictures, the polycope will show a Sunday outpouring at the Baker Theater. This film is so clear and distinct that every one who passed the taking camera can be readily recognized. Heretofore Manager Shields has given his patrons eight acts each week, but he goes two better this time, and the show will be stronger and better than ever before. The view herewith reproduced shows the main entrance, a portion of the ground seats, grandstand and the new balcony of the park. The seating capacity is 3000, and is filled nearly every night.
