

At The Beaches

There is no ebb in the tide of immigration to the beaches, yet the high-water mark of attendance will not be reached until the second week in August. Nor will society have full swing until then, for the feeling of newness and conventional bashfulness and shyness has not entirely disappeared. The crowds that flock train and boat are like those following low tides and are mostly started to the beaches by the hot weather that prevails in the interior. At the beaches nothing can compare with the grandeur of a fair day, but that of the day that follows, and it is with a feeling of un-speakable relief that one inhales the cooling sea breeze after leaving a city.

A seaside outing has attractions for three classes of people. To some there are attractions of a social nature, to others love of sport and to others desire for rest. Society at the sea coast is free and easy and loses many of its conventionalities. Everybody knows everybody else, as in a country town, but this is due probably to the like reason, the fiveness of inhabitants. As in a country town new arrivals are easily discernible. A probation of but two weeks will pass one from the class of newcomers to that of old. Armed with a weapon tempered with two weeks at the seashore, one is not only of the elect while there, but is as powerful as any in subjects of conversation at the hop and social events of the following winter.

ON THE NORTH SIDE.

Gay Life of Beach People, From Haven to Ocean Park.

From Ocean Park merry parties go daily to Nahotta on the bay to fish. What the rocks are to Long Beach and Seaview, Willapa Harbor is to Ocean Park. Flounders, codfish, porgie, bass and tomcod are caught in abundance.

Many spend Tuesdays and Thursdays in a trip to see the drills of the lifesaving crew. There are two lifesaving stations maintained by Uncle Sam on this beach, one at Fort Canby, another two miles south of Ocean Park. Those summering at Ocean Park usually walk to the station, while those at greater distances, at Long Beach and Seaview, patronize the Tuesday and Thursday excursions of this railroad company.

At Long Beach.

At Long Beach station everything is alive and prospering. Dances are given twice a week, Tuesday and Friday, by Fred English. Music by the English orchestra. Delightfully large crowds last week and every success attends the management.

The young people at the Hackney cottages gave a concert Thursday week. A most pleasant evening was spent in singing and playing the popular airs. Sewan turned out as usual. An informal concert also was held Sunday evening and was attended by a large gathering. The programme of the Thursday evening concert was as follows: Piano selection, Miss Louise Hagner; solo, Professor Epings; piano solo, Miss Marsh; vocal selection, Ed Sheridan; piano duet, the Misses Lester; vocal solo, Stinson Hackney; vocal selection, Miss Rody Schacht.

A pleasant evening was spent at the Seaview Thursday week. Candy-pulling and playing wait. The guests took part willingly in such entertaining pastimes and later refreshments were served.

A silent-walk hop was given at Seaview, at the Hackney cottage, a week ago Friday, in honor of George Henriot, who departed for Portland Saturday. Music was furnished by the guests. It was one of the numerous dances that have been given this season at Hackney's cottage, and as usual came off with snap.

A large bonfire at Seaview that had been building for three days was lit Wednesday evening in the presence of all Seaview. Story-telling, singing and popping corn were among the pastimes of the evening.

One of the swell hops of the season was given on the veranda of Lockley Hill Thursday night. Parsons' orchestra discoursed sweet music, while refreshments were served in the Turkish room. Thursday's hop was the first of the large hops that Mrs. Carlisle intends giving during the season.

The gearin boys, of Portland, in company with James Welch, of Spokane, all of whom are registered at the New Grimes, spent Wednesday fishing up the Necanicum. They returned that night well laden with salmon trout, ranging from seven inches to eighteen inches in length. They fished entirely with fly, and said that a salmon trout 15 inches long on the end of a line was the greatest sport they had struck.

Two hops a week now are regularly given by Parsons at the Old Grimes House. The hops are scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday nights, and large crowds attend. Parsons' orchestra itself furnishes music, so that popular music is always on hand.

Walter Godday and Gene Grimes spent Wednesday and Thursday fishing up the Necanicum. Wednesday night they were drenched with rain, but were amply repaid with a large catch of fish. They went 15 miles up and fished nearly to Seaside, landing some 75 salmon trout, ranging from 19 to 18 inches in length.
