

ELKS' SHOW A GO

Street Carnival Will Assemble List of Attractions.

NO FAKES ALLOWED ON GROUNDS

Dazzling Electrical Displays, Parades and Pageants, Complete Exhibits, and Circus and Midway to Make Up Street Fair.

Since fairs and masquerade festivals in the amusement world these enterprises have not stood still by any means. From the inception of the craze for fairs on the streets more novelties have had to be invented to keep up with the times than perhaps any other form of outdoor exhibition has called for. When some genius discovered that city people liked the fun and revelry of a street show he had reached an old truth through a new interpretation. The county fair is the annual delight of people all over this broad land. The popular joy over the fanfare, glitter and noise of the show, with its showers of confetti, is as infectious as the delight which the people's mortal soul when a big circus parades through the streets.

In the past Portland has demonstrated well enough that she has qualities for giving annual festivals that have been remarkable successes. Recollections of harvest festival pyrotechnics, with the principal streets aflame with color, predisposes the people of the Pacific Northwest generally in favor of this city as a show town. Another thing timely is that the shows given by the Elks here have been noted for being clean of all objectionable features, which have not been allowed the license inside the carnival grounds that they have attained a reputation for elsewhere, and which has called for the intervention of the Chamber of Commerce of the present Carnival enterprise, announced that the policy of this fair should be to deal against fake shows and the usual list of vulgar side attractions which follow such exhibitions and try in every way to get in the grounds, to the discredit of the order which is the entering of the fair. It is frequently overlooked that this is an enterprise in which the whole city feels an interest, and in a large measure, sponsor for, with the order of Elks merely managing the business.

That the festival show and celebration which will be inaugurated one week from tomorrow will surpass in grandeur former displays of this kind is assured by the preparations, which show for themselves, and which are the exposure of thousands of eyes of strangers. The buildings are big, the decorations will be especially fine, and the illumination of the grounds with electrical globes will be a sight worth coming to see. Every day of the limited time the show will be open is held as a special day. Parades and displays, prize-giving, the coronation of the Queen Monday night, and the royal pageants through the streets, on successive days, the spectacular turnouts of the circus and animal features of the Midway—which, in itself, is one of the best things that has been sent over the steel-rail pile from New York City—the exhibitions of the industries and manufactures of Oregon, together with the special celebrations of societies and the great parade of the United States regiments from Vancouver garrison, on September 12, will make the 1902 Carnival "go." In this latter feature alone Portland has an attraction for visitors not excelled by any other city in the Pacific Northwest. There will be nearly 200 soldiers in line, including the cavalry troops, with about 400 horses and 250 men. This great military display will be about two miles and a half long, and will make this day of the Carnival quite memorable.

Nothing has been left undone by the Elks to make the attractions of this show superior to anything of the kind given here before. The buildings will be of an artistic finish and the displays are replete with fresh interest. Altogether about 15 blocks' space is consumed by the exposition. Each detail of arrangement and of display is a triumph for the managerial ability of the Carnival directors.

To attempt a description of the Midway is to essay a difficult undertaking. In the street of all nations will be three Hindu Mahatmas, check by row with a bunch of Ostriches from Siberia. There are Russian French singers and dancers, Chinese musicians, Japanese acrobats, fire eaters, exponents of black art, etc., etc.

A novel feature is the Moorish palace, which includes in its equipment a theater wherein a striking example of Moorish life is portrayed. There is also a Mexican theater in which Don Alarcon and family of five sing Mexican songs. They also give a spectacular representation of a Spanish bull-fight.

On the Streets of Cairo will be found all sorts of Oriental, Egyptian, Syrian, Turk, Arabian.

In the Oriental theater La Belle Fatima and her famous troupe of Oriental dancing girls will be featured.

It would be impossible to enumerate all the fascinations of the Midway. There is Lunetta, the flying lady; the high dive by Captain Blaney, who has the world's record for this class of diving; the balloon ascension; the slide for life, by Mlle. Collins, who comes hurtling 80 feet at an angle of 75 degrees, suspended by her hair; the famous acrobats, the French acrobats; the projectocope; the cycle dangle; the marvelous loop-the-loop act, and innumerable other wonderful shows. This Elks' Carnival will be literally the greatest show on earth.

There are seven outdoor performances in the Midway, a Ferris wheel, a miniature railway and several other novelties, to say nothing of a complete dog and pony circus and Jabon's menagerie of wild animals.

Big Excursion for Seattle.
John B. Coffey, chairman of the Elks' committee which is making arrangements for the Portland excursion to the Seattle Carnival, Tuesday, yesterday telegraphed to Seattle for information whether accommodations could be provided for the Portlanders. Reports have been spread that the city is overcrowded and the local Elks found that their excursion was being injured thereby. In response to the inquiry, Frank H. Paul, manager of the Seattle Elks' Carnival, telegraphed: "The report is false. There are plenty of accommodations for all that come." Great interest is being taken in the excursion among the Elks, as well as other Portlanders, and accommodations have been arranged for 1500 people. One hundred and fifty Elks will go in uniform with a band that will play on the way. A stop of an hour will be made at Tacoma during which time the Elks will parade with the band.

He Was Earl's Physician.
CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Dr. Robert Colman, of Peikin, China, ex-physician to Li Hung Chang, and now secretary to a Chinese General, is in Chicago. His family lives in Washington, and he is on his way with a nine months' leave of absence to visit them.

so great a man again. He knew everything even to the smallest details, the went on in his own household, and in the great empire. Whatever he once took up he mastered completely before he finished it.

China, Dr. Colman thinks, is now assured of a lasting peace, and is making steady progress.

NEW FREIGHT DEPOT.

To Be Built for Oregon City Line at Madison-Street Bridge Approach.

Work has been started on the foundation of a freight dock and depot for the Oregon Water Power & Railway Company on its ground on the south side of the approach to the Madison-street bridge. This is the place where the former depot stood before the fire swept over that district.

The new dock begins at the west side of East Water street and will extend out about as far as the old one did, but will be much wider, being 100 feet wide. The destruction of the freight depot, caused great inconvenience to the freight and express business of the company, as well as to the public, as cars stand in the street on the West Side.

Plans for the large dock which will extend from Madison street to Lincoln street south have been prepared, and work may be started on the pierdriving soon. The company now controls all the water front from Hawthorne avenue to far east as East First street, to Inman, Poulson & Co.'s sawmill. It will fill up East Water street when the general improvements on the terminal grounds are begun.

WANT ROAD EXTENDED.

County Will Be Asked to Open Highway to the Columbia River.

An effort is being made to open a road to the Columbia River direct from Fairview, it being an extension of the Terry road. If extended it will pass through the Smith estate, which is soon to be divided up into small farms. It is set forth that this road will open up a large territory. As one result, and not the least important, it is urged that a ferry will be placed at this point, which would be of great advantage. There would probably be a wharf built at this point also for the accommodation of farmers. Much feed and produce are used and received by rail that could come by boat.

The county will probably be asked to open and build this road. There has been agitation in the past for this road, but until there were prospects that the Smith farm would be broken up into small tracts there was little hope of getting it through to the river, but there is now.

CATCHING SALMON TROUT.

Fairly Good Hauls Are Being Made in the Columbia River.

Salmon trout are being caught in the Columbia River, between the ferry landing on the Oregon side and the Baker place, up the river. The fish caught range from seven to 16 inches in length. The Knott brothers fished there Friday and caught some of the best salmon trout. It takes considerable skill to catch fish in the Columbia. Many have tried it, but only those who know how have succeeded.

Some are long poles, but the most successful use trolling lines, with sinkers, which they throw out 75 feet. Several fishermen will try their luck in the Columbia River today.

Free Concert.

The Milwaukee band will give a free open-air concert in Electric Park at Milwaukee next Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ida Fenwick, of Chicago, a prominent musician, who is visiting at the home of Mrs. John Petzler, of Milwaukee, has kindly consented to preside at the piano and sing during the evening. Charles H. Reed will make the photographs. Twenty little girls will give concert exercises and sing "America." Howard H. Brownell, of Oregon City, will make the opening address.

OUT OF SORTS.

Pleasant Way to Drive Away the Blues.

A food that will bring back health and rosy cheeks to the sick as well as please the palate of the healthy is a pretty good food to know about. A lady in Minneapolis says: "I am such an enthusiast upon the subject of Grape-Nuts that I cannot make a list of instances of its value that have come under my personal experience."

"I was taken ill with a serious stomach trouble, so ill that the slightest movement caused me to vomit, and I could get nothing into my stomach or retain even medicine or water. I had been two days without nourishment when my husband suggested trying Grape-Nuts.

"The nurse prepared some with warm water, sugar and cream, and I took it heartily at first until I found it caused me no pain, and for ten days I took no other nourishment. The doctor was surprised at my improvement, and did not resent my attributing the speedy cure to the virtues of Grape-Nuts. He said he had a case on record of a teething baby who grew rosy and fat on the same diet."

"Grape-Nuts are so dairy and delicious that it appeals to the whole household, and when either husband or I feel generally 'out of sorts' we try condensing ourselves exclusively to the food for a day or two with the happiest results.

"For a year I had had for a neighbor a delicate girl—an epileptic. When I first knew her she was a mere shadow, weighing 70 pounds, and subject to fearful attacks, having as many as 12 and 18 convulsions in a day. At such times she took no nourishment whatever. She had never tried Grape-Nuts, and as any food seemed to increase her trouble at such times, it was with difficulty I persuaded her to try it. But I told her of my experience and induced her to try a few spoonfuls.

"The tests delighted her, and ever since she has made it her chief article of diet. The result has been wonderful; her improvement is the subject of remark with all who know her. The attacks are less frequent and violent, and she has gained 25 pounds since last November, and her family attribute her improvement solely to Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

ROUTH SUES BREWERY.
Charges That He Has Been Wrongfully Deprived of His Business.

O. A. (Gus) Routh, who has been conducting the Cosmopolitan Hotel and saloon at the corner of Third and Davis streets, has commenced suit in the State Circuit Court against the Star Brewery Company for $2140, because the company, he avers, took the premises and business away from him.

Routh, in his complaint, sets forth that for a long time prior to August 2, 1902, he was the owner of the saloon and hotel, and made a net profit of not less than $10 per day. The value of the property used in operating the business, he states, was about $2000, and the good will $3000.

On or about August 2, Routh alleges that, without his knowledge or consent, and while he was absent from the city, and against the protest of the man whom he left in charge of the place, the Star Brewery Company wrongfully took possession of all of his property, and converted the same to its own use. Routh says he was away visiting a mine in which he is interested, and that this the defendants well knew. S. H. Greene and E. A. R. Mendenhall appear as his attorneys.

Annual Retreat Closed.

The annual retreat of Catholic priests, held in the Columbia University building at University Park this week, closed Friday. It was under the direction of Archbishop Christie and conducted by Rev. Father A. A. Lambert of Chicago. Priests to the number of about 40 from the diocese of Oregon attended the meeting.

A WONDERFUL TEST MADE OF ONE OF THE BEST SAFETY ELEVATORS ON EARTH

J. H. MOON'S PATENT SAFETY ELEVATOR PATENT NO. 6122261.

A number of business men met in the warehouse of Colwell McCracken's large stone and brick warehouse, situated on the corner of 10th and Johnson streets, to witness a test made of an elevator built by J. H. Moon, of 61 1/2 First street, Portland, Or.

The elevator is to carry and handle a load of 4000 pounds weight. The power is furnished by a little 7 1/2 H.P. motor furnished and set by the Portland General Electric Co., and the power transmitted from motor to main driving pulley by a single leather endless belt 4 1/2 inches wide, furnished and put on by the Pacific Coast Rubber Co. of 41 and 43 First street. All the machinery, shafting and boxes, steel safety locks and steel springs were made and furnished by A. R. Heintz & Co., Pacific Iron Works, of east end of Burnside-street bridge. All the manila stepping ropes and bolts, lag screws and washers, spikes and screws were furnished by F. E. Beach & Co., First and Alder streets. The flexible steel landing cable and counter-balance cable was made and furnished by the American Steel & Wire Co., of Portland, Or.

This immense cage alone, with all the locks and truss rods, weighs 1683 pounds. Mr. Moon loaded on about 2000 pounds of iron and steel on the cage, placed a pan of eggs on the cage and set a glass of water on the cage, turned on the motor and hoisted cage up and tied it with a strong new manila rope, then slackened off the strong steel cable until it hung way down slack and limp. It caused the men making rope shirks and quiver under the terrible load that hung upon it. Then Mr. Moon set up a ladder and climbed up on the cage, and called his son, Holly Moon, to come up and stand by him on the cage; he ordered some one to move the ladder away. Then he called his son, Freda Moon, to climb to the top of the building and elevator, and chop off the rope that held the cage. At this order the spectators started with fright. Mr. Moon called out, "Chop the cable off, Fred, we are just as safe as those standing on the floor." The rope was cut and came falling, but the cage was instantly locked and so firmly fastened that five times that load could not force it down. The jar from the fall of the cage was so light that no water from the glass was spilled and no eggs broken. The cage with this heavy load fell just three inches, just enough to operate the strong steel locks.

This was witnessed by E. H. McCracken and the owners and manager of the Oriental American Co., and a number of other prominent business men.

England Fears No Steel Trust.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Speaking of reports cabled from America that Mr. Schwab contemplates the amalgamation of the American, British and Belgium steel and iron interests, the Tribune's London representative says the reports excite amusement among the leaders of that industry here. Strenuous efforts have been made to form a British coalition during the last eight months, but without success. There is no practical method of securing the valuation of either plant or good will when the machinery is behind the times, yet it is appraised by the owners high above its dividend-carrying capacity. There is no longer any talk of combining the great British iron and steel works into an anti-Morgan trust.
