

Autumn Social Doings

The social season has begun earlier this year than usual, last week being especially gay. On Friday this was especially noticeable, there being two teas on the afternoon of that day, one given by Mrs. C. A. Dolph and the other by Mrs. A. G. Barker; a small whist party given by Mrs. C. F. Beebe and an informal luncheon at Mrs. Holt C. Wilson's.

The tea given by Mrs. C. A. Dolph on Friday from 4 to 6 was attended by about 150 ladies, and was a most handsome and charming affair. The house, which was beautifully decorated, was darkened and brilliantly lighted. The flowers in the reception hall were pink carnations, in the music-room and drawing-room were white roses, and in the library red carnations. The dining-room was effectively decorated in yellow. On either side of the tall mirror were vases filled with sunflowers, while in the center of the dinningside, upon a scarf of gold and white, stood a large bowl of yellow marguerites. In a corner of the reception hall Wilder's string quartet, including the beautiful harp that is always heard with so much pleasure, were stationed, and played throughout the afternoon.

The tea table was presided over from 4 to 5 by Mrs. H. W. Corbett, Mrs. Richard Koehler, Mrs. Charles Ladd and Mrs. W. C. Alvord. From 5 o'clock until 6 coffee and tea were poured by Mrs. H. J. Corbett, Mrs. Holt Wilson, Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd and Mrs. Theodore B. Wilcox.

The very of bright girls presiding over the lemonade bowl in the library consisted of Miss Estelle Flower, Miss Lucy Pailing, Miss Grace Warren and the Misses Edie and Clara Houghton. Ices were served by Miss Lillie Lewis, Miss Florence Flower, Miss Kate Bellinger and Miss Belle McKee. Mrs. James Flower, of New York, and Mrs. Joseph Dolph received with the hostesses, who assisted in entertaining also by Mrs. Walter V. Smith, Mrs. A. L. Maxwell, Mrs. S. R. Johnson, Mrs. Theron Feil, Mrs. Louis Burns, Mrs. Herbert Augur, Mrs. F. M. Warren and Miss Nellie Williams.

Mrs. A. G. Barker and Miss Barker received their friends on Friday afternoon from 2 until 6, at their home, on Flinders street. The house decorations were lovely and the tea was delightful in every particular. Palms and ferns were gracefully arranged in the hall, while the parlor decorations were of pink asters. Mrs. Barker wore a dainty reception gown of white Chinese linen and apple, and Miss Barker's dress was a pretty one, of pale green tulle. Mrs. Frederick Wheeler and Mrs. Arthur Minott presided over the tea table in the dining-room, which was decorated in harmonious tones of yellow. Mrs. Wheeler wore yellow, and Mrs. Minott white, and as the color scheme of yellow was carried into the shading of the candles, and even the confections, the effect was very pretty.

The hostesses were assisted in entertaining their guests by Mrs. Hostetter, Miss Wedder, Miss Frances Lewis, Miss Eastham, Miss Van Schuyver and Mrs. Sanderson Reed.

Mrs. S. R. Johnston gave an informal tea for about 60 young ladies on last Saturday afternoon, in honor of Miss Yates, of Spokane. Mrs. Johnston and Miss Yates received in the drawing-room, which was decorated in a very harmonious manner with corals. The dining-room decorations were also corals and in the library the flowers used were scarlet geraniums. Miss Warren presided at the tea table and Miss Sifton served tea. They were assisted by Miss Nan Robinson, Miss Bonnie Strong, Miss Bernice Stewart and Miss Helen Harmon. Punch was served in the library by Miss Clementine Hirsch and Miss Alta Smith.

One of the very prettiest teas of the season was Mrs. C. J. Reed's reception Wednesday afternoon, given in honor of her sister, Mrs. Edward Burr, of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Burr and Mrs. Reed received with Mrs. Reed in the parlor, which had charming decorations of autumn leaves and rose slips. In the hall were pink roses, and in the dining-room red dahlias and carnations. The table was lighted with softly shaded red candles and was exceedingly pretty.

Mrs. Langitt and Miss Morris poured coffee, and Miss Galloway and Mrs. John Alsworth poured tea. The claret cup was served in the hall by Mrs. James McCracken. There were about 120 guests.

Mrs. J. C. Robinson entertained about 40 intimate friends yesterday afternoon at her home on King street. Mrs. Robinson always entertains charmingly, and this affair, while very informal, was also delightful. The guests were invited in order to give them an opportunity to say goodbye to Mrs. Wallace McCamant and her sister, Miss Davis, who leave tomorrow for the East, where they will spend the winter. Both drawing-rooms were decorated with autumn leaves and scarlet rose berries.

WEDDINGS.

John P. Kavanaugh and Miss Eleanor E. Dunn were united in marriage at the Cathedral on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Dr. McNally officiated. Promptly at the hour appointed the bride party entered the church and was conducted to the altar by the four ushers—Frank R. Dooly, Thomas V. Dunn, Samuel Young and Ben L. Norden. An innovation was made by the introduction of a vocal solo instead of the usual wedding march. Miss Evelyn Hurley sang an "Ave Maria" to the intermezzo of "Cavalleria Rusticana" with beautiful effect. Miss McGinn presided at the organ. The bride was given away by T. M. Richardson, and was attended by Miss Margarette Wiley as maid-of-honor. The groom, with his best man, Richard L. Dunn entered the church through the sanctuary and met the bride at the altar railing. The wedding ceremony was short but impressive. The strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" filled the church as the bridal party returned from the altar.

The bride wore a dainty gown of white.

dings was celebrated at the First Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening, September 23, at 8:30 o'clock, when Miss Frederica, daughter of the late Frederick A. Foster, became the wife of Carleton Theron Linsley. Several hundred invitations were issued by Mrs. A. E. Foster, the mother of the bride, and in response a large number of the friends of the young couple gathered to witness the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Edgar P. Hill, D. D.

The bride was tastefully gowned in dainty white with veil, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. She was preceded by her sister, Miss Edith Foster, as maid of honor, who was dressed in pink and carried a lovely bouquet of pink roses with asparagus. The ushers were: Messrs. James Samford, Lindsey E. Hall, nephew of the groom, Alexander C. Rae and Rollin K. Page. chiffon and carried bride's roses. The veil was held in place by a beautiful diamond and pearl sunburst, the gift of the groom. Miss Wiley was gowned in white crepe de chine, and carried a shower bouquet of maidenhair ferns. The cathedral was artistically decorated with palms and ivy, and the altar was festooned with smilax and decorated with white cut flowers, and under its brilliant illumination the church presented a beautiful picture.

After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride, 564 Hoyt street, where the young couple received the congratulations of many friends. Many handsome and costly presents were received. Mr. and Mrs. Kavanaugh departed on the evening train for a tour of the Sound and British Columbia. They will be at home at 541 Rodney avenue after October 10. Mr. Kavanaugh is a well-known lawyer, and is the present Chief Deputy Attorney for the City of Portland.

an attractive feature to the procession. They wore frocks of pink and blue and carried beautiful baskets of pink and white sweet peas, which they scattered in the pathway of the happy pair. At the altar the bride was met by the groom and his best man, George T. Murton. Mrs. Ernest Brown played the wedding march from "Lohengrin" as the bridal procession came up the aisle, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" at the end of the ceremony.

Great palms and splendid ferns decorated the pulpit, adorned with white roses and other flowers. The organ loft was festooned with vines and white satin ribbons caught up at the pillars with bouquets of ferns, marguerites and white asters. The decoration of the church was done by friends in the Christian Endeavor Society, of which organization both the bride and groom have been most active and efficient members.

The groom is the youngest son of the late Rev. A. L. Linsley, D. D., LL. D., formerly pastor of the church in which the ceremony was performed, and is in Promptly at noon the bride couple entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." First came Edith Ashby, the bride's sister, as flower girl, with Hattie Russell, brother of the groom, as ringbearer. Then came the groom, with his father, and last came the bride, accompanied by her father. Rev. Mr. Hinshy, of the Friends' Church, read the wedding ceremony, while Miss Mable Van Houghton softly played "O Promise Me." The responses were given in clear tones, and after the ceremony was ended the guests repaired to the Ashby residence, where luncheon was served. Health and Home

EVERY genuine, lovable woman aspires to be the center of attraction to her husband and children—the pivot around which all family interests revolve. How many, alas! fall short of these aspirations through the physical disorders to which women are a prey? How can a woman, rendered peevish and miserable, with mind and body racked from the sufferings caused by chronic womb trouble, minister to the happiness of home? Why endure these ills longer when one of your own sex promises relief and often a permanent cure for these afflictions that mar your happiness? Consult me personally or by letter—you will never regret it.
