THE COPELAND PRACTICE TESTED BY YEARS, AND PROVEN BY ENDURANCE

It Is by the Natural Law of Things That the Copeland Practice Survives All Other Methods--That Which Is Best, That Which Is of Greatest Service to Mankind, Abides Always.

FOR TEN YEARS

Doctors Copeland and Montgomery have conducted in this city the largest practice ever known in the history of the Northwest. The people know them. Their fame has grown in the strong light of intimacy and permanency. Medical pretenders and bogus healers of every variety have come and gone; passed in the night, unable to endure the daytime of acquaintance. But with time and Intimacy the fame of Doctors Copeland and Montgomery has grown stronger. Thousands of cures, recorded in voluntary, unsolicited testimonials from your neighbors and friends, give evidence of the marvelous accomplishments of our combination of science and skill. We cure-positively cure-to stay cured.

Kaiser's Visit Expected to Do Much for Germany.

MAY CREATE BETTER FEELING

Trip Prompted by Ambassador Mak ing Known Fact That English War Office Is as Cold as the Public.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 .-- German official circles are anticipating with keen interest the visit of Emperor William to England, according to the London correspondent of the Trioune. Although the visit is to be private in character, it is said to be carnestly hoped in Berlin that it will contribute toward softening the acerbity. as it is described, of popular British sen-timent in regard to Germany and German policy. The Emperor's powers of person-al charm are declared to be proverbial, and it is a source of no little satisfaction in official circles that he will have the opportunity of exercising them during his visit to Sandringham in conversation with many of the most influential members of the British government.

HOW VISIT WAS PROMPTED.

Ambassador Told Kaiser of Britain's Feeling Toward Germany.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.-Emperor William will meet no fewer than eight British Cabinet Ministers at King Edward's house party at Sandringham, and among them will be Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, When Count Wolff-Metternich, the German Ambassador in London, was here in August, he told the British Ambassador, Sir Frank Lascelles, that the state of English opinion toward Germany troubled him, and he expressed regret at the fact that the British Foreign Office apparently felt toward the German government as coldly as did the British public. The Count added that the British Foreign Office absolutely would not lift a finger to co-operate with German diplomacy. In any part of the world, anything Germany suggested was treated with indifference, and German policy was looked upon without confidence. Ambassador Lascelles replied that if such was the Count's experience, he, too, regretted it. But what could the British Ministers think when one of them was treated as Mr. Chamberlain had been treated?

Emperor William during his visit to England two years ago talked over with Mr. Chamberlain the desirability of a frank understanding between the United States, Great Britain and Germany regarding common interests abroad, or where a single nation was interested. Mr. Chamberlain approved the idea, and his Angio-British-German speech followed. Chancellor von Bulow repudiated the whole thing, and made Mr. Chamberlain in some degree ridiculous. The conversation, of which the fore going is the substance, was repeated by Count Wolff-Metternich to one or two of his diplomatic assistants, and obtained a limited circulation. His descriptions to Emperor William of British hospitality are supposed to have contributed toward the arrangement of His Majesty's present visit to England.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Nov. 1-Lord Rosebery, speaking at a crowded meeting here today, welcomed the suggestion of a conference between the Liberal leaders, He said he was willing to do the utmost in his power for the success of such a pro-posal. The ex-Premier, however, reitcrated his abdication of home rule and said he did not see any prospect of the Liberals coming into power in the near future. He believed that as a matter

Mr. Gum-pel said it was his belief that the address on the poison package was in the natural and of the writer, and that its cramped appearance was due to its having been writen after the package was made up. On cross-examination, Mr. Gumpel said he would expect the sender of a poison package to disguise his handwriting. He knew of no case in which a person had sent poison to anyone without trying to conceal his identity. Mr. Osborne got the witness to say that the "u" and "c" in "Coub," written by Molineux, had many characteristics in common with the ad dress on the poison package wrapper. Dr. David Eiwell, a handwriting/expert also testified that after having made care ful studies of the disputed and conceded writings, he was convinced that they had t been done by the same hand. Dr. Elwell was still on the stand when court was adjourned until Wednesday next,

FIGHTER IS ARRESTED. Austin Rice Finds People Against

His Fight With Corbett.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 1.-Austin Rice, of this city, who is scheduled b meet Young Corbett in a boxing contest at Waterbury, November 6, was arrested charged with intent to break the law. The warrant was issued at the instance of the clerk of the Waterbury Police Court, and was the result of a complaint from a number of citizens of Waterbury regard-ing the proposed match. Rice accompan-led the officers to Waterbury tonight.

Corbett Also Arrested.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 1.-Young Corbett was arrested in Unionville at the request of Sheriff Reginy, who will probably take Corbett to Waterbury tomorrow morning. In an interview Corbett said "I pay little attention to my arrest Such things are to be expected. The pro-posed exhibition was to be anything but a prizefight, simply a sparring exhibition for points only, as allowed by the law. I shall endeavor to secure ball when 1 reach Waterbury." William L. Crowley, manager of the Waterbury Athletic Club, when told of the arrests of Corbett and Austin Rice said he was giad that this step had been taken as it would give him an opportunity to see who was right, he or the people who opposed the exhibition. He said he would go to Waterbury with Corbett and secure bail for both men.

PRESIDENT OUT HUNTING DO YOU GET UP HE BAGS NO TURKEY, BUT HAS AN EXCELLENT TIME.

Cortelyou Proves the Crack Shot of the Party-Battlefield of Bull Run Is Visited.

MANASSAS, Va., Nov. 1.-In the fitful glare of locomotive lanterns, President Roosevelt, at 4:30 this morning, started briskly from his private car in the rail road yard here, and greeted cordially the little group of newspaper men, special officer's and railroad men who had gathered to see him start on his hunt for wild turkeys. He was attired in a khaki suit with leggings, a long, heavy overcoat and a black slouch hat. A servant handed to him a fine double-barreled shotgun, which he threw familiarly into the crook of his left arm. The President and Secretary Root were olned at once by Surgeon-General Rixey, Secretary Cortelyou and J. T. Leachman, Sheriff of Prince William County, Sheriff Leachman was to act as guide of the party on the turkey hunt. Preceded by railroad men bearing lanterns, the President and his party trudged for a quarter of a mile along the maze of tracks to the carriages in waiting to convey them to the shooting grounds. They were fol-lowed by servants carrying a big hamper of mineral water and luncheon. As he walked briskly along, the President re-marked to Secretary Root:

"I have tramped like this before, in my

"Yes," responded the Secretary, with a suggestion of frony in the tone of his voice, "I have often thought that there was no active exercise so restful to the weary mind as the tramping of railroad ties." The party entered carriages in the vilage and, preceded by Sheriff Leachman and a secret service officer in a buggy, started for the hunting grounds, about four miles distant. President Roosevelt, Secretary Root, Secretary Cortelyou and Dr. Rixey occupied one carriage, which The President and party reached the turkey blinds before daybrak. A drove of six turkeys was discovered, and one of them fell to the gun of Secretary Cortelyou. President Roosevelt was unfor-tunate in being the only member of the party who did not get a shot during the morning. The turkeys are scarce, and Mr. Cortelyou's bird was the only one bagged. At noon the party assembled at the Henry house for luncheon, and for two hours afterward the President walked over the Bull Run battlefield, the points of historic interest being indicated and explained by Henry Seen, who now occu ples the Henry house. Subsequently, the party returned to the turkey covert and for the sport, and the President enjoyed the outing immensely. The injury to his log gave him no trouble, and he feels that his recovery is complete. PRESIDENT ADDRESSES CROWD.

The special bearing the party arrived shortly before 7 o'clock. There was no demonstration upon the arrival of the party. The President will remain until 9:30 o'clock Monday norning. When the President reached his special train at Manassas on his return from the hunt, he found a crowd of 200 or 300 people awaiting him. The President briefly addressed the people, saying: "I wish to thank you very much for the way you have come to greet us. I have thoroughly enjoyed myself here. I regret to state that the turkeys did not mater. talize. In the first place, I had a good

Horrible Death of Negro Murderer Before Crowd of 4000 People.

SARDIS, Miss., Nov. 1.-An unknown negro was burned at the stake at Darling. Miss., last night for the murder of E. O. Jackson and a millowner named Roselle at Darling, Miss., Wednesday night. Two white men implicated by the negro in his dying confession are being held by a posse pending an investigation. The negro was burned by a mob of 4000 persons, both white and black. Just before the light-ing of the funeral pyre, the negro confessed that he had committed the double murder with the assistance of two white men. The motive was robbery, and a considerable sum was secured, which the negro stated was divided among the three. After the burning a posse went in search of the two white men, and soon had them cuptured. They are both held pending an of crime shall be founded on the principles investigation, and it is believed that a of reformation, and not of vindictive jusdouble lynching will follow if guilt is proved conclusively. The names of the prisoners are not known.

Handwriting Experts Declare He Did Not Write Notes in Dispute.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.-The cross-examination of Roland B. Molineux by Assistant District Attorney Osborne, which was resumed at the opening of court today, was finished within a few minutes after its resumption. The defendant was in the best of humor. Mr. Osborne's first question today was:

"Did not Mr. Barnett pay your wife attention

"Not at all," was the reply.

"Did you not so testify at the inquest?" Molineux's reply to this was that Barnett had paid attention to Miss Chesebro in the Spring and Autumn of 1898, before she became Mrs. Molineux.

Mr. Osborne ceased his examination rather abruptly after several questions as to the prisoner's connection with various medical associations. As Molineux resumed his seat, the Rev. Lindsay Parker, of Brooklyn, shook hands with him, and his father, General Molineux, patted him affectionately on the shoulder and said: "Good boy.

Mr. Black called Max Gumpel, a handwriting expert, as his first witness after Molineux. Mr. Gumpel said he had studied handwriting more than 20 years, and had testified in many important cases, among others the Rief and Becker forgery, the Sharon will case, the Sarah Althea Hill controversy in California, and the Rice will case in New York. He declared that

Constitutionality of Excentions.

WHITNEY, Or., Oct. 30.-(To the Edi-tor.)-The current newspaper comment upon the Oregon Constitution leads me to ask if that instrument, theoretically the groundwork of Oregon's Code, is at last to resume its function as the fundamental law of this state. How ridiculous appear the attorneys' constitutional quib-blings over indictments and informations ments. to reprieve condemned murderers in a state whose bill of rights forbids capital punishment. "Laws for the punishment tice," says the Oregon Constitution, in section 15 of article 1, in enumerating the state's guarantees to its citizens in consideration of which they surrendered to it their natural right to protect themselves and their property. Now it needs no dic-tionary definition to establish that the gallows is not a reformatory, nor has one to trace the success of the state to the avenger of blood of Moses' law to prove that the principle of a life for a life is vindicative justice. Neither is it to be denied that the bill of rights is the essence of the cocial compact, that it is not in the power of any legislative body to disregard it nor of any court to decide out of harmony with it. It rises above the body of the Constitution, which is subject ment. to amendment by reference to the people, and seems of the same sacred nature as the self-evident truths proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence, unchangeable safeguards to life, liberty and the pursuit happiness. This is the Constitution which every officer of the State of Oregon has sworn to support, the Judge who sen-tenced to the death penalty those convicted murderers now confined in the Multno-mah County Jail, the Justices of the Sureme Court who have been considering if there is probable cause for their appeal, the District Attorney who opposed it, and the Sheriff who has been making preparations for the execution of the entence.

Can custom, the long line of previous violations of the highest law, now justify another illegal execution under an stitutional statute? AUSTIN CRAIG.

It is said in the newspapers that the youngest son, aged 15, had scarcely retired to rest last night when he was dragged by the feet round the room by these un-seen influences, which afterward extended their plan of operations to the portress' lodge, hurling a flatiron that lay on the lodge, hurling a flatiron that lay on the bed at the unfortunate woman's head, in the presence of several friends. Two carabineers attracted to the house by the cries of the inmates proceeded to the boy's bedroom and set about investigating the bed, upon touching which they received so severe an electrical shock that both are still suffering from the effects. The phenomena then ceased for the night; but today the house has been visited by hundreds, and such as gained ad-mission testify to having witnessed an incessant dance of candles, while flatirons, fresh figs, oil cans, and pepper-boxes played at leap frog round the apart-

Salem Sentinel. This paper has up to this time believed and argued that a state appropriation of $100,000 was as much as the people of Oregon could afford to invest in the fair; but upon wide inquiry and investigation and a mature weighing of the pros and cons, from an unbiased viewpoint, the Sentinel is free to admit that the state outside of Portland can well afford invest $333,000 in the enterprise. ## Catarrh

Invites Consumption

It weakens the delicate lung tissues, deranges the digestive organs, and breaks down the general health.

It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, and affects the voice. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy. Hood's Sarsaparilla

Radically and permanently cures catarrh of the nose, throat, stomach, bowels, and more delicate organs.
