

LOGS GROW SCARCE

Loggers Turn Tables on Sawmill Men in Scaling.

HUNT FOR TIMBER IS RESULT

Eastern Speculators Own Large Tracts, and Millmen Have to Buy Land—Railroad to Haul Logs From Burned District.

Logs are scarce and hard to get, and several big mills in Portland are operating only on day shifts. The cost of logs has advanced to the unprecedented prices of $7.50 and $8 per thousand feet. Hemlock logs are sold at from $4.25 to $5. The cause of the scarcity and high prices is increased consumption. The output of logs has not kept pace with the demand. New mills have been constructed and the capacity of many old mills has been increased.

AIDS BOYS AND GIRLS.

Instance of Good Work of Society Which Asks Donations.

Accompanying is a photograph of Harry, a little boy, after being placed in a family home one year. This little fellow was deserted by his mother, who left him in the care of a colored family, promising to pay his board. This promise she failed to keep and nothing has been heard from her since. After the County Commissioners had been consulted, the child was brought to the office of the superintendent of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society and there left, and the superintendent describes the child as a typical forlorn and homeless waif. He was aged two and a half years and had not even a name. All that could be learned respecting this was that he was called Harry. The child was placed in the "Receiving Home" in August, 1899, and remained there until October the same year, when a childless couple from Eastern Washington visited the institution in search of a boy, and took a fancy to Harry, who had much improved during his sojourn at the "Home." The couple took him on trial and after a year legally adopted him as their own child. The above picture was taken just after the adoption had been effected, he being then, as near as could be ascertained, about three and a half years of age. He is now the sunshine of a well-to-do farmer's

HE ENVIES CONDUCTORS.

Man on the Street Discusses High Steps and Pretty Women.

"Wish I was a street-car conductor," said an envious man yesterday, and went on to explain. "See that woman trying to board the car? Steps are too high for her. She'd have to be a circus performer to get up there without help. Now watch that gallant conductor. Ah, ha! isn't that fine? See him lift her? Almost hugged her, didn't he? All I blame him for is that he didn't hug her. Ain't she a beauty. I'll bet she doesn't want those steps made lower."

Soon another car came along. Its steps were just the same height as those of the other car. A woman old enough to be the conductor's grandmother tugged and struggled to clamber up. After several futile attempts, in which she barked one of her abhors, she succeeded. The conductor remained stolidly on the platform, and budged only to yank the bell-rope.

"What a pity all women are not young and pretty," sighed the man who had admired the gallant conductor. Ah, ha! isn't that fine? "But there's something better than gallant conductors," responded an auditor. "What?"

"Lower steps," and at that moment another car with high steps came along.

UNITES SEATTLE FIRMS.
Julius C. Lang Will Be Head of Large Grocery House.
Julius C. Lang, a member of the firm of Lang & Co., wholesale grocers, has successfully branched out as a promoter. For several months he has been working on a deal for the consolidation of two of the largest wholesale grocery houses in Seattle, which has been completed during the past week. The new company will be known as the National Grocery Company, and Mr. Lang will be its president and general manager. Articles incorporating the company were filed at Salem, so as to bring the company within the scope of the Oregon law. The capitalization of the new company has been placed at $300,000. The stockholders are principally Seattle men, but some Portland capital has been put in. The two firms that will be merged into the new corporation are Sylvester Bros. & Co. and Louch, Augustine & Co. The company will have no connection with any Portland house, though Mr. Lang will remain a member of the firm of Lang & Co. of this city. Associated with him in the new enterprise will be Howard G. Allen, who will be assistant manager, and E. J. Hoskins, both of whom have had much experience in the wholesale grocery trade. The firm will be ready for business December 1.
Julius Lang began work as an errand boy 15 years ago in his brothers' store, then on Front street, near Oak. From that position he worked himself up until he was admitted as a member of the firm. Last night he gave a farewell dinner at the Portland to the employees of Lang & Co., at which several of the men that will be connected with the Seattle store were present. Tomorrow night he will leave for his new home.

No Merger in This Case.
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Vice-Chancellor Stevenson, of New Jersey, before whom an argument was heard on an application by certain stockholders for an injunction to restrain the officers of the Prudential Insurance Company from consummating a plan of merger with the Fidelity Trust Company, of Newark, has rendered a decision in favor of the applicant and entered a restraining order. The case will be taken to the Court of Errors.

HOW ABOUT YOUR TEETH?

ANY ACHEs OR DEFECTs?
If there is anything the matter, it makes no difference how trifling it may look to you, let us make an examination at once; it will save you a much larger bill later on. Remember that we perform all of our work without inflicting the slightest pain. We hate to blow our own trumpet, so read what others have to say about our skill and painless dentistry as it is practiced at this office.

TESTIMONIALS
It is with pleasure that I testify to the truthfulness of Dr. B. E. Wright's advertisement of painless dentistry. I had three very large gold fillings put in by Dr. Wright, and the operation was so pleasant that I fell asleep while the work was being done. I make this statement as it will probably help some one who is nervous and afraid to have their teeth cared for. I am sure that if they go to Dr. B. E. Wright's dental offices their experience will be as pleasant as mine. Respectfully,
MAJOR SILVAN, Vancouver, Wash.
I have just had a full upper bridge placed in my mouth by Dr. Wright's painless method. It feels just as good as my own teeth ever did, and I cannot say too much in praise of the work. Yours truly,
JOHN C. MOWREY,
Eufaula, Cowitt County, Wash.
I cheerfully recommend Dr. Wright's method of painless dentistry. He has placed bridge work in my mouth, which was positively painless in every way.
MRS. J. L. McCUNE, Mosier, Or.
I have always dreaded having my teeth worked on, but since Dr. Wright did my work I haven't any more fear, and will gladly send all my friends to him.
ARTHUR WILLIAMSON,
321 East Salmon.
I had a tooth extracted by Dr. Wright's painless method, which was certainly painless in every sense of the word, and I suffered no bad after-effects.
MISS F. A. BAKER,
Oakley Green.
It gives me pleasure to say that I had some teeth extracted today by Dr. B. E. Wright's painless method, and can truthfully say that I did not feel one particle of pain.
MISS EMMA COOK,
27 Washington street, City.
I have had crown work and fillings done by Dr. Wright's painless method without the slightest pain. The work is as good as any I ever had.
