SALEM, Or., Jan. 31.—(Special.)—Hawkins of Polk today went over to the Fulton forces. The roll call had proceeded until Hawkins' name was reached, and he arose and spoke briefly as follows:

"Mr. President: I disdain any intention to create a sensation or spring a surprise. The attitude I have held for the past few days is pretty well known. I have been voting for a man for United States Senator—a son of Polk County—a man who is an honor to the Supreme bench, and would be an honor to the Supreme bench of the United States. But I think it is time now to align myself with the largest number of Republicans voting together. Today I cast my vote for C. W. Fulton."

Mr. Hawkins appeared to lay especial emphasis on the opening word, "today," in his last sentence, and the Fulton opposition is disposed to think that he meant something by it. Maybe he did. Perhaps the lobby would have cheered more than it did if there had been more present.

No little amusement was created at the opening roll by Representative Bailey. Adams is the first name, and as usual there was no response. Then comes Bailey of Multnomah. Bailey deliberately turned in his chair and, looking over at Hodson, chairman of the Multnomah County delegation, began slowly:

"Honorable—Charles—W.—" (a long pause) Hodson." Hodson turned white with the deadly fear that Bailey, the stalwart, had deserted to Charles W. Fulton, and then the color came back and he was as red as a peony. The crowd laughed delightedly, and its merriment was by no means diminished when Banks, whose name follows Bailey's, slowly responded:

"Honorable—Charles—W.—Nottingham!"

It was some seconds before the roll call could be resumed. The sole result was to inspire for a moment the hopes on the part of the Fulton people that the long-desired and never-accomplished break in Multnomah County had come. It also raised on end every respective hair on the heads of the leaders of Multnomah County.

The ballot resulted:

For C. W. Fulton—Booth, Both, Brownell, Carnahan, Carter, Cornett, Dimick, Eddy, Edwards, Emmitt, Farrar, Gault, Ginn, Hahn, Hale, Hawkins, Hermann, Harris, Huntley, Hayden, LaFollett, Marsters, Miles, Paulsen, Phelps, Purdy, Rand, Riddle, Shelley, Smith of Yamhill, Webster and Williamson—32.

For T. T. Geer—Burgess, Croisan, Daly, Danneman, Davey, Howe, Johnson, Johnston, Judd, Kay, Mulkey, Simmons, Stelwer and Whealdon—14.

For C. E. S. Wood—Bilyeu, Blakley, Smith, Cantrall, Galloway, Kramer, Miller, Murphy, Olwell, Pierce, Robbins, Smith of Umatilla, Sweek, Test, Wade and Wehrung—15.

For W. D. Fenton—Fisher, Gill, Hunt, Jones of Multnomah, Nottingham—5.

For A. L. Mills—Holman, Malarkey, Reed—3.

For H. L. Pittock—Hutchinson, McGinn, Myers—3.

For George H. Williams—Cobb, Hudson—2.

For Charles W. Hodson—Bailey.

For Charles W. Nottingham—Banks.

For A. A. Bailey—Hodson.

For W. W. Cotton—Mays.

For S. B. Cobb—Orton.

Absent — Blakley, Burleigh, Claypool, Fulton, Jones of Lincoln, Kuykendall, Adams, Hume—8.

Paired—Hansbrough, Smith of Multnomah—2.

COMMITTEE TAKE ACTION.

Bills Are Favorably Reported to the House.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 31.—(Special.)—The following bills were favorably reported today in the House:

H. B. 186, Webster—To repeal section 4781 of code as to recovery of damages for injuries from defective highways.

H. B. 197, Miles—To regulate the use of nonnavigable streams, for commercial purposes.

H. B. 192, Galloway—To prohibit importation of adulterated illuminating oil.

H. B. 33, for relocation of county seat of Malheur.

Substitute H. B. 193, for relocating county seat of Union.

S. B. 102, Daly—To provide for rebuilding or repairing of burned public buildings.

H. B. 36, Nottingham—To protect birds and their nests and eggs.

S. B. 75, Daly—To regulate the sale of fertilizers.

REGISTRATION PASSES 500 MARK.

Every County in State Represented at Oregon Agricultural College.

CORVALLIS, Or., Jan. 31.—(Special.)—Although the college year is scarcely half ended, the registration has reached the 500-mark, with a probability that there will be at least 20 more students enrolled before next June. During the past 12 months there have been about 600 students in the Oregon Agricultural College—every county in the state being represented. Statistics indicate that a very large proportion of these young people are partly or wholly self-supporting, showing conclusively that they come to this institution with a very fair knowledge of the practical side of life. And the fact that fully 85 per cent of these young people come from homes of farmers, and that a large number of them will return to the farm and the workshop is conclusive evidence that technical training is destined to reach the wealth-producing classes of Oregon.

Appointed Mayor of Elma.

ELMA, Wash., Jan. 31.—(Special.)—At the last meeting of the Elma City Council the resignation of Mayor O'Donnell was accepted, he having been elected to represent Chehalis County in the State Senate. Councilman M. M. Wakefield was chosen by the Council to fill the unexpired term. "Tony" Keulper was chosen to fill the place left vacant by M. M. Wakefield.

Falls From School Veranda.

KALAMA, Wash., Jan. 31.—A bad accident occurred at the public school yesterday afternoon. George Modrow, about 14 years old, fell from one of the verandas, breaking his right leg about midway between the ankle and the knee. The fall was the result of wrestling with some other boys.

Heavy Snow at Grant's Pass.

GRANT'S PASS, Or., Jan. 31.—There is eight inches of snow in this city today. The storm is still on with no signs of abatement. North of here and in the surrounding mountains the snow is piled to a depth of two feet or more. All trains are delayed.

REPORTS FOR EDDY BILL

TAXATION COMMITTEE MAKES FAVORABLE COMMENT.

Malarkey's Measure to Tax Bequests Also Placed on Calendar for Reading.

SALEM, Or., Jan 31.—(Staff correspondence.)—The House committee on assessment and taxation today recommended passage of Eddy's bill to tax corporations and Malarkey's bill to tax bequests and inheritances. The latter bill was reported without amendment and was placed on the calendar for third reading. The Eddy bill was amended so as to make the graded tax on capital stock as follows:

Capital stock.	Organization tax.	Annual tax.
$5000 or under	$ 10	$ 10
$5000 to $10,000	15	15
$10,000 to $25,000	20	20
$25,000 to $50,000	25	30
$50,000 to $100,000	35	50
$100,000 to $250,000	45	70
$250,000 to $500,000	60	100
$500,000 to $1,000,000	75	125
$1,000,000 to $2,000,000	90	175
Above $2,000,000	100	200

These two bills have been recommended for passage by the committees on assessment and taxation of both the House and Senate and their passage is assured.

The Eddy bill aims to raise about $100,000 revenue a year. "But we cannot tell accurately," said Mr. Eddy today, "until the law is put into operation. The law will raise a large revenue, but it will not be oppressive to corporations. We now have no means of knowing definitely just how many corporations are dead and how many are in existence, and therefore cannot calculate closely how much revenue the bill will raise."

An appropriation of $30,000 for the Eastern Oregon Experiment Station at Union was favorably reported in the House today by the committee on education. The bill has passed the Senate, where it was introduced by Senator Pierce, of Umatilla. The purpose of the measure is set forth in section 1 of the bill as follows:

Section 1. That there be and is hereby appropriated out of the general fund the sum of $20,000 for the purchase of such stock as may seem necessary for experimental feeding purposes; for the erection of buildings; for the provision of scientific apparatus and tools; for draining, tiling and improving land; and for all other purposes necessary for the conducting and developing of agricultural experiments in Eastern Oregon, to be expended under the authority and authorization of the Board of Regents of the State Agricultural College of Oregon.

Senator Steiwer's bill to regulate carriage of sheep by express was favorably reported in the House today. The bill was passed last week by the Senate. The bill permits sheep to be shipped by express up to the number of four animals without the regular inspection prescribed by law. A bill of Representative Blakley to require slaughterers of cattle to retain the hides of the animals for a period of 20 days was adversely reported.

The House this morning passed a bill to reimburse W. H. Hampton, of Grant's Pass, on a school-land purchase. The bill was fathered by Representative Hale. In 1891 Hampton purchased 240 acres of school land and paid the amounts due, but in 1898 the School Board sold the land to other persons. The amount of the reimbursement is $140. The payment of this claim may bring in others, but Mr. Hale said that if there were others like it they should be paid because they were just.

The committee on counties today recommended the passage of bills to settle the fights in Malheur and Union over relocation of county seats. The question is to be settled by an election in each county. For removal of the county seat from the Town of Union a vote of 55 per cent of the electors of the county is to be required. For removal from Vale a vote of 60 per cent is to be required.

A state information bureau is to be created by a bill introduced by Representative Burleigh. The trustees are to be: C. E. Ladd, W. H. Beharrel, W. M. Killingsworth, R. C. Judson and T. D. Honeyman. The general office of the bureau is to be at Portland. A subordinate department is to be established at each county seat. Boards of County Commissioners are to be required to furnish the bureau with maps and plats, and they are authorized to maintain the subdepartments of their respective counties. A tax on the assessable property of ¼ mill is to be levied for the work of the bureau. This tax is to be collected in the regular manner. The money is to be expended for maps, exhibits, pamphlets, gathering information and general maintenance.

Speaker Harris this morning appointed the following members of the House to joint committees;

To inspect and report on management and condition of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society—Hudson of Multnomah, Riddle of Douglas, Olwell of Jackson.

To investigate the pilot service on the Columbia River—Carnahan of Clatsop, Hawkins of Polk.

To fully investigate the needs and requirements of the state institutions—Fisher of Multnomah, Johnston of Grant, Sherman, Wasco and Wheeler, Cantrall of Jackson.

A bill for a saving in the State Printer's office has been introduced by Representative Orton. It relates to the printing of special laws, leaving the number of copies to be issued to the discretion of the Secretary of State. The present law requires the State Printer to publish 240 copies of such acts. Owing to the local application of many of these laws in frequent cases only a few copies are in demand.

Representative Eddy has introduced a bill to require counties to levy a tax for school purposes, which shall aggregate at least $8 per capita for each and all of the children within the county between the ages of 4 and 20 years. The tax at present is at least 5 mills on all the assessed property in the county.

Representative Emmitt has come forward with a bill to impose a license tax on sheep that graze in counties other than where they are regularly assessed and taxed. Owners of sheep who take their flocks to Summer range in another county than the one in which they pay taxes must first secure license to do so from the Stock Inspector of the county where the Summer range is located. If the sheep are free from disease the Stock Inspector is empowered to issue the license. The cost of the license is to be 15 cents per head. Drovers are to drive the sheep toward their destination not less than six miles per day.

Representative Webster, of Clackamas, has introduced a bill to increase county licenses for the sale of liquors. The license for selling spirituous, malt or vinous liquors in any place where gambling is allowed is to be $1000; in other places, $600; in stores and restaurants, $400, and in all other places not above mentioned it is to be $200. No license is to be granted for houses which are frequented by women. The act is to apply in cities and towns as well as to counties. The present license is $400 per annum.

Representative Miles, of Yamhill, is championing a bill for an additional Circuit Judge for the Third Judicial District. The present Judges, Burnett and Bolse, are to serve until July, 1904.

A bill to require that the working day of laborers and mechanics employed by the state shall not be longer than eight hours has been introduced by Representative Orton, of Multnomah.

Representative Kay, of Marion, has put forward a bill for a matron at the State Penitentiary. She is "to look after and attend to female prisoners." Her salary is to be $40 per month.

A bill to prevent running at large of stock in Wasco County in townships 1 south, ranges 14 and 15 east and township 1 north, ranges 14 and 15 east, has been introduced by Representative Whealdon.

Proprietors of stockyards are to be required to keep a record of all brands on horses and cattle received or shipped by them, according to a bill introduced by Representative Burgess. This record is to be open to public inspection during business hours.

The judiciary committee today secured passage in the House of the following bill in place of the bill of Representative Jones, of Lincoln, on the same subject:

Section 1. That section 2682 of Bellinger and Cotton's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Oregon be amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 2682. The County Court shall have power in its discretion to procure from the Surveyor-General of the United States for the State of Oregon, or from any office in the United States Land Department, a certified copy of the field notes and plats of surveys lying within its county, relating to descriptions of the townships and legal subdivisions, corners, the variations at which the lines were run, the length of the several lines of the several sections, and file the same in the office of the County Surveyor."

The Banks bill relating to exemptions of judgment debtors, which passed the House today, is as follows:

Sec. 228. The earnings of any debtor for personal services performed by such debtor at any time within 30 days next preceding the service of an attachment, execution or garnishment, amounting to the sum of $75 or less, shall be exempt from the effect of any such process when it shall be made to appear by the affidavit of such debtor, or otherwise, that such earnings are necessary for the use of the family supported wholly or partly by the labor of said debtor.

The purpose of the measure as explained by Mr. Banks, is to protect creditors who are defrauded by men in receipt of considerable income who dodge behind the protection given by the present law.

Hahn's bill (H. B. 162) giving boatpullers and all others who assist in the capture of fish a preferred lien upon the same passed the House today by a unanimous vote. Hahn clearly stated to the House the provisions of the measure. The bill was supported by the Fishermen's Union of Astoria.

Representative Cobb secured from the House today favorable action on H. B. 40, to "require all individuals, firms, associations, companies and corporations owning, managing or operating any street railway to provide suitable aprons, fenders or guards on street-cars and providing a penalty therefor."

The measure provides that all street-cars (other than horse cars) shall be equipped with fenders extending in front not less than two feet and not less than three inches above the rails. It is provided also that the Mayor and Common Council of any town may at any time by ordinance change the style of guard. Penalties of a $50 fine for each first offense and $100 for each subsequent offense in violating the statute are provided. Each car run one day without fenders shall constitute a separate offense.

Five bills were killed in the Senate today by the judiciary committee. Four or five others have been killed by that committee heretofore. In every case an adverse report by the judiciary committee has been sustained without a word of dissent. The bills reported adversely were either unnecessary measures or were unwise in view of other pending legislation.

The judiciary committee has more work to do than any other one committee, and all things considered, it is the most important. The ways and means committee passes upon matters of greater moment in a financial way, and the committee on assessment and taxation considers measures of greater magnitude. But the judiciary committee has referred to it a multitude of bills of perhaps minor importance when taken separately, but affecting nearly every branch of state law. A careless committee can let bills pass which will get the statutes into a chaos of uncertainty, which will lead to endless litigation. A careful committee, on the other hand, will weigh every bill not only according to the effect of its own provisions, but also with regard to its connection with existing laws. Questionable measures can be killed by the committee when, if permitted to go before the whole body of the Legislature, their improper features would not be noticed.

The judiciary committees in both houses are particularly strong in this session of the Legislature. The Senate committee is composed of Senators Rand, Fulton, Mays, McGinn and Pierce, all lawyers of state-wide reputation. The House committee is composed of Representatives Eddy, Banks, Hale, Phelps and Riddle, all of whom have a reputation of more than local extent. Chairman Eddy, in the House, and Rand, in the Senate, are among the hardest workers in the Legislature. Their close attention to details insures that a carelessly drawn bill can scarcely pass through their hands without being corrected so as to be explicit in its provisions.

It is because the judiciary committees have the confidence of the members of the Legislature that their recommendations are adopted without question.

SETTLERS OR SPECULATORS?

Claim That Forest Fire Bill Is in the Interest of Latter.

WALTERVILLE, Or., Jan. 31.—(To the Editor.)—The bill gotten up in the interest of sawmill men in regard to forest fires is certainly a one-sided affair and is class legislation of the worst kind. How could people that live in the timber and upon brush ranches ever get their clearing done if such a law were enforced? Thousands of small farmers and ranchers can hardly live and get time to slash and burn their brush at the only time that it is possible to burn it without piling it. In many cases they would be compelled to abandon their homes altogether. Which is the most important, the homebuilders, stock and dairy industries of the country, or the big sawmill men that are only here to amass a fortune in a short time, by cutting away our forests? What permanent benefit are such men to the state? As a rule they do not pay taxes on more than 10 per cent of their investment. So far as the state is concerned it is no better off after the sawmill man has slaughtered its forests, than it would be if they never existed. If you stop the settlers from clearing up land for 25 years what would Western Oregon amount to for stock of any kind? About nine-tenths of it is nothing but brush now, which should be got rid of as fast as possible, and the only way is to burn it when it is dry.

What would be the result if the cities should prohibit the burning and cleaning up of the waste and rubbish that accumulate in them from year to year? Simply annihilation when fire once got started. The same rule applies to forests. If there was a law to compel sawmill men and timber speculators to keep all useless waste cleaned up and not allow the waste from logging camps to remain from year to year until fire gets a start in it during some dry season, like last year, there never would be any destructive fires. And especially old deadenings in the mountains should be looked after and not allowed to accumulate a large amount of dead brush, logs, etc., at any one time.

Let others speak their mind on this subject and not allow the few to dictate laws injurious to the many. But let us have laws that are judicious and beneficial to all alike. A. RITCHEY.

William Smiley, of Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 31.—(Special.)—William Smiley, an old resident of Clark County, died suddenly at his home in Fruit Valley, near this city last night of heart failure. Deceased was 70 years of age, and was born in Tennessee. He came to Clark County from Missouri in 1852. He was one of the pioneers in the prune industry in this county, and contributed greatly to the extension of that business. He leaves a wife and three grown children, A. Smiley and Mrs. F. M. Franklin, of Fruit Valley, and Walter Smiley, of Portland.
