THREE DAYS' FESTIVITIES AT ST. LOUIS THE CROWDS AND CEREMONIES AS VIEWED BY A PORTLAND YOUNG MAN.

THE dedication festivities began for the afternoon of Wednesday, April 22. That afternoon I was so fortunate as to be ushering at the music hall where the Good Roads Convention was being held.

Bigmas was again the note of the occasion. There were rockets so high that they seemed to have forgotten to stop, and so numerous that the sky was like an artificial flower garden.

The big event of Thursday was the dedication ceremony at the Liberal Arts building. When I got to the grounds, the lemonade stands looked about as last as they do on the usual Portland Fourth of July.

The afternoon of Friday was devoted to the closing exercises by Governor Dockery and Governor Odell. In the midst of the closing exercises by Governor Dockery and Governor Odell, I walked toward the crowd...

Wherever social reform is struggling for supremacy, this gigantic evil opposes his progress. His life depends on bartered ballots on ravished honor on ruptured civil relations and on social lewdness, and yet, commanding the Gibraltar of legal sanction, it scorns the weak onsets of righteous indignation.

Seated in the gallery of America's great theater of action, we see on the stage the legalized liquor traffic dictating in the halls of legislation, stopping the mouth of the clergy, and in the very face of truth and civic righteousness through the popular press, filling the almshouses, penitentiaries and insane asylums, and carrying off more victims to the gallows, pestilence and famine combined.

While the hills are pre-eminent for grazer and timber, they also produce fine fruit, vegetables and grain. Pine springs and streams and delightful Summers are among the attractions of the country, and it need scarcely be added, that the climate is superb.

My advice to the man coming here with a few thousand dollars and desiring to go into stockraising is to leave the railroad lines up to date. The leading marsh lands of Wisconsin and other states bordering the Great Lakes and the jungles and thickets of the South-west are the best for the kind of stock raising.

Where is the patriotism and valor that has the patriot and best blood of our country's altar against a common enemy? Are they stirred by the thought of the wrongs of the South?

Our fathers rose up against England when she insulted our flag and impressed our seamen. But here is an enemy that dares to insult our flag and to impress our seamen.

Under the pretense of patriotism, suits our flag and stains our national honor. Shall we sit silently by and see it go on?

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE ORATION OF WINNER OF PROHIBITION ORATORICAL CONTEST AT DALLAS.

Following is the oration of Daniel V. Poling, winner of the oratorical contest at Dallas Friday night. Its title is "The Paramount Issue."

Ever since political rivalry began there has always been a paramount issue at every election. Under the Washington administration the treasury of public credit was utterly depleted.

Under Madison, England insulted our flag and impressed our seamen. But the crisis finally came. Did the Americans flinch? Did their bravery waver? No! They clamored for war; and when war was declared they faced the enemy on land and sea.

Under the Washington administration the treasury of public credit was utterly depleted. "Hamilton smote the rock of public credit, and streams of revenue gushed forth."

ODDFELLOWS COMING. One Thousand Will Participate in the President's Parade.

Three hundred and fifty delegates will represent the lodges of the Independent Order of Oddfellows at the Grand Lodge, which convenes in this city on May 20 and 21.

This will be the first time in three years that the Grand Lodge has been held in Portland, it being held last year at New York and the year previous at Baker City.

At this year's session the place at which the Grand Lodge will be held next year will be decided upon, but it is generally conceded that the 1905 session will be held in this city during the Lewis and Clark Centennial.

The local lodges have appointed committees which are looking after the entertainment for the guests, who will remain in the city for three days during the session on Wednesday evening, May 20, the visitors will be given an literary and musical entertainment in the First Congregational Church.

On Thursday afternoon the time of the lodge will be taken up by the parade and the general festivities that will result from the occasion of the President's visit.

Overnoon the visitors will be taken to the different points of interest about the city on observation cars, and will make a thorough inspection of the Oddfellows' Home at Thirty-second and Broadway streets.

While the Grand Lodge has witnessed many a parade in its history, this year's representation from the outside cities and towns is expected to be the largest of any ever held, owing to the increased membership during the last year and the event of the President's visit.

The grand encampment of the Rebekah Assembly will convene in Portland on May 19, but will last but one day. Fifty Oddfellows delegates are expected to attend the assembly. A reception will be given by the visiting members on the evening of May 19 in the Arion Hall, by the local lodge.

UNIONS VS. REFERENDUM

Latter Was Not Meant as a Club for the 1905 Fair.

PORTLAND, May 9.—(To the Editor.)—Kindly allow me a little space to appeal to the union men in their mad attempt to overthrow the referendum on the state appropriation for the Lewis and Clark Fair.

Nearly every union man is more or less a socialist. He may not be an extreme, but he believes in moderate socialism. Now, the referendum is the foundation of lawmaking by socialism, and should be considered a most sacred institution.

It is not for the Fair that I appeal to you, but because I wish you will not sell our sacred institution, the referendum, by approving the referendum on a false issue. It would be entirely different if you would invoke it because you object to the Fair generally, or the additional taxes therefrom.

It took ten years of hard work of your most faithful workers. Now you come, because you are mad at somebody, to overthrow the success of all these long years of faithful work for the sacred cause.
