

PEACE ON THE U. P.

Boilermakers' Strike Settled at Last.

HARRIMAN'S OFFER ACCEPTED

Rather Than Have Fight Extended to His Other Roads He Offers Arbitration, Which Union Accepts at Conference in East.

The terms of the settlement of the Union Pacific boilermakers' strike were communicated to President A. L. Mohler, of the O. R. & N., by E. H. Harriman last night.

A conference held at New York between representatives of the men and the Union Pacific during the past week brought about the settlement on the basis of a telegram sent to President McNeil, of the Boilermakers' Union, on May 15.

While the boilermakers' strike on the Southern Pacific has been of a local character during the past year, there were threats of a sympathetic strike on the Southern Pacific, and the trouble might have extended to the other Harriman lines.

The story of the settlement is told in the following dispatch to Mr. Mohler received late last night:

Harriman Offers Terms.

"New York, May 23.—A. L. Mohler, President O. R. & N. Co., Portland, Or.: After nearly a year's strike of Union Pacific boilermakers, the contest has been settled satisfactorily on the basis of the following telegram sent by Mr. Harriman to John McNeil, grand president and organizer of the Brotherhood of Boilermakers, while Mr. Harriman was enroute from the West over the Lake Shore Railroad, on March 15:

"Rather than to permit a condition to be brought about whereby men's homes would be broken and their families, wives and children be permitted to suffer through no fault of their own, I will recommend to Mr. Burt, president of the Union Pacific, and suggest to you for consideration the following:

"The men who have been employed on the Southern Pacific or other lines, except after conference and agreement with the boilermakers. No adjustment of wages or other matters shall be determined by representatives as above provided.

"In view of this, call off the strike, both sympathetic and otherwise, as above, and refer the whole Union Pacific controversy in its present condition to arbitration to be agreed upon.

"On account of present conditions, important that I see you all in New York not later than Monday next. Please answer."

Strikers Accept Terms.

"Mr. McNeil replied to Mr. Harriman's telegram, agreeing to recommend his suggestions for a settlement, and after a conference of several days at the company's offices in New York the matter was finally adjusted on the basis of the telegram. "A satisfactory understanding has been reached and the rights of all parties interested have been protected, including the rights of the company and its new employees and of the old men who are to be returned to the service of the company. And it is thought probable that the method here established will be conducive to lasting and beneficial results, and that it may be made a basis for settling any differences in the future."

"E. H. HARRIMAN."

BRITAIN IN SAME BOAT.

High Prices as Much the Rule There as in the United States.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—It appears that high prices are quite as much the rule in England as in the United States at the present time. Professor Sauerbeck's annual statement, "Prices of Commodities," published in the Journal of the British Royal Statistical Society for March 21, 1903, just received by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics, show high prices in foodstuffs, in iron and in textiles, during the year 1902. The statement begins with a series of "index number" tables, showing index prices for groups of articles from 1863 to 1902.

DORMITORY TO BE ADDED TO HOME ON EAST SIDE.

Order in Oregon Makes Provision for Its Disabled Members—May Build Hospital Later.

The board of trustees of the Oddfellows' Home, located south of Kenilworth, under instructions from the recent grand lodge, will erect a two-story dormitory on the grounds at a cost of about $4000. Plans and specifications were prepared by Richard Martin, Jr., last year, but the trustees found that the cost was much greater than expected, and it was decided to postpone the erection of the dormitory until the grand lodge, which has just completed its session. CHIEF ENGINEER OF WILLAMETTE IRON WORKS RESIGNS

J. A. Lesourd, who has been for about 20 years chief engineer of the Willamette Iron Works, having been employed by that company since 1857, yesterday resigned on account of old age and ill-health. He leaves with the deep respect of his employers and fellow-employees.

Mr. Lesourd was born in Normandy, France, in the early '30s, and received a common school education there. He was a natural mechanic, and from his boyhood was eager for all the practical obtainable. He came to California penniless in 1853 and started to work on the mines. On the way he secured employment in building fences and houses and in gardening. His experience at mining was always unsuccessful, and he returned to mechanical pursuits. He set the quartz mill of Alfred Wheeler at Marble Springs, Mariposa County, in running order, and ran it for one season.

J. A. Lesourd Ends Twenty Years Service.

On arriving in Portland, on June 30, 1857, they found that they would have to travel 60 miles further with pack horses, and gave up the trip. Mr. Lesourd went to work cutting cordwood for a few months, and then in February, 1858, went to The Dalles and worked for the Quartermaster. He then came to Portland in 1858, and he built a sawmill near Canyon City, Grant County, for a man named Penfield, and ran it for eight months. He spent nearly a year in building derricks for miners, and then came back to Portland and bought a home a few miles from the city. He remained two years, and then spent four years at Oak Point, where he doubled the capacity by building three sets of journal turbins.

He then returned to Portland and worked for a few years in Smith Bros' machine shop making drawings and patterns, and then, about 1878, he returned to the Willamette Iron Works, where he modeled the blowing machinery of the Oswego Iron Works, then returned to the Willamette Iron Works in the permanent position of draftsman. He designed all the machinery built by the old firm until its dissolution.

Before he was permanently employed there, he had been in the United States Engineer's Office, as superintendent of lighthouse construction, and built the iron work of the Fouweather Bluff Lighthouse. He assisted Colonel Isaac W. Smith in the completion of the Oregon City locks, made new drawings increasing the length and head charge of the wood and iron work. He designed the iron work of the Bull Run water works, and superintended its erection; also the second submerged pipe.

During his connection with the old Willamette Iron Works, under the management of James Lotan, he designed all the mechanical and electrical machinery, including that of the Telephone, Hassalo and Victorian, and never made a failure.

ORGANIZE UNDER NEW LAW

Board of Commissioners Will Regulate Sailor Boarding-Houses.

The Board of Commissioners named in the Galloway bill passed at the last session of the Legislature for the purpose of regulating the sailor boarding-house business, met at the Merchants' Exchange and organized last evening. The board consists of E. W. Wright, president; Herbert Holman, secretary, and S. M. Meares, treasurer. The purpose of organization, no other business was transacted. No applications for licenses under the new law have been received, but it is reported that the board is in a position to act on them. Another meeting will be held in a few days for the purpose of considering the applications received. The new law will materially reduce the cost of shipping sailors at this port, and is also expected to aid in reducing the number of desertions, which in the past have been very expensive for ships.

The law requires boarding-house runners to secure licenses from the commission. The licenses shall be issued only to persons who give satisfactory evidence of respectability and competency, the suitability of their accommodations and their compliance with the provisions of the law. The licenses shall run one year, and shall specify the places where the respective boarding-houses are kept.

Every person who runs a sailor boarding-house shall pay to the state $200 for the license and shall give bond in the penal sum of $5000. The commissioners are empowered to revoke the license of any boarding-house on satisfactory evidence that its runner has engaged in unlawful practices or has abetted such practices. The penalties prescribed for violation of the license clause of the act are: For the first offense, a fine of $100 or imprisonment from three months to two years, or both fines and imprisonment.

Boarding-house-keepers and their agents are required to wear badges or shields, which shall be provided by the commission. Failure to wear such badge or shield is punishable by fine or imprisonment. The highest remuneration allowed for supplying sailors to vessels is $40 per man, and exacting a higher fee than that is punishable by fine and imprisonment.

THERE'S MONEY IN IT.

A Good Chance for a Good Guesser to Win $25 In Cash.

Children in Oregon have until the first of May to give the best reasons why Elmer Haines House can afford to sell pianos and organs as it does, from $100 to $250 less than any other store on the Coast.

Everybody knows this is the largest piano store on the Coast, that it carries the greatest varieties and finest pianos; that its business is immense; that it has four prosperous stores, the great big one here in Portland, another large one in San Francisco, another one in Spokane, Wash., and still another one in Sacramento. Now if we order pianos in large quantities from the factories at one time for all these stores, what sort of a discount do you think we can get? The third best guesser gets $10 cash. The fourth best guesser gets $5 cash. The best guesser gets $25 cash.

DEATH OF MRS. J. A. NEWELL.

Pioneer East Side Woman Passes Away at Redlands, Cal.

A telegram was received yesterday from J. A. Newell, Redlands, Cal., announcing that his wife had died there, and that he would arrive with the body tomorrow evening. Mr. Newell recently resigned the position of East Side Water Inspector to accompany his wife to California in the hope that she might be benefited by a change of climate. Only a few weeks ago they started South. Her health had been falling rapidly for more than a year. For a time she was at Hood River, but there was no improvement, and she returned to her home. Mrs. Newell was a pioneer woman, and a step-daughter of the late Colley Barron, Sr. Her home is on the southeast corner of East Sixth and East Ankeny streets. Besides her husband, four children survive her. Arrangements for the funeral will be made on the arrival of the body.

New Schoolhouse at Russellville.

Contractor Dorfer, of Bartman & Dorfer, says they will commence work on the new Russellville schoolhouse in two weeks. School will be closed the coming week, when the old building may be moved back to make room for the new portion in the front part of the grounds. The front will be two stories, with basement, for an assembly hall, and the two main rooms now used will be part of the structure. No trouble is expected by the contractors in getting all the material they will need. They have to complete the building by September. The cost of $900.

East Side Notes.

J. B. Croser and wife, for a number of years residents of the East Side, have moved to Redlands, Cal. He was called back by his father, who is in failing health.

A pleasing entertainment was given in the First Unitarian Church, East Eighth and East Couch streets, Friday evening. It was free to all, and a large audience enjoyed the programme of music and recitations. A fine orchestra rendered a number of selections.
