Arion Society Concert Soloists: Mrs. W. A. T. Bushong and E. M. Courtienne. "Fatinitza" Military Opera, with M. O. Lowndsale as Count Kantchukoff. Notes.

VARIED and interesting programme is offered at the Arion Society's concert, which will take place at the Arion Hall Tuesday evening, February 22. Mrs. W. A. T. Bushong, contralto, will be heard in two songs. She has a most sympathetic, well-trained voice and has appeared as soloist at several of the Boyer chorus concerts, and was one of the soloists at the last year's musical festival at Eugene. E. M. Courtienne will be the piano soloist and will play one of his own compositions. Mr. Courtienne, who made an artistic reputation in Austria as Dzwizak, is one of the most scholarly and finished pianists in this city. The Arion Society, under the efficient leadership of Louis Dammasch, will be heard in five selections, and the event is certain to be largely attended. The programme: Part one—"Die Kapelle" (Kreutzer), Arion Mannerchor; "Shadows" (Jacobs-Bond), Mrs. W. A. T. Bushong; Improvisation, "Hungarian Dances" (Brahms), E. M. Courtienne; "Maerchen aus schoener Zeit" (Carl Faust), Arion Mannerchor. Part two—"Hohengraen" (Wagner), Arion Mannerchor; "Oh, That We Two Were Maying" (Nevin), Mrs. W. A. T. Bushong; "Veris" (Kochsat), Arion Mannerchor; "Von Rhein bis zur Donau" (Dzwizak), E. M. Courtienne; "Friedrich Barbarossa" (Podbertsk), Arion Mannerchor.

"FATINITZA" SINGERS BUSY.

M. O. Lowndsale Composes Original Music for Event.

Two weeks from tomorrow evening the first performance of Von Suppe's military opera, "Fatinitza," will take place at the Marquam Theater, under the direction of William H. Boyer, and many people are already making arrangements to keep the evening free so that they may be present on that occasion. Three performances will be given in all, March 7, 8 and 9. The painting of the scenery, the costumes, etc., are being looked after by Manager George L. Baker, of Baker's Theater, and the presentation of the opera will be first class in every particular. The work with the high-grade productions which have made Mr. Baker's name known among theater-goers all over the Northwest. It will also be a society event, and many out-of-town people are already enquiring when the tickets are to go on sale. To miss this event will be to miss one of the best musical offerings ever given here. The work of the chorus will be far above that presented by ordinary musical comedy people.

Among the principals who are to take part are: Mrs. Rose Bloch Bauer, Mrs. Walter Reed, Millard O. Lowndsale, J. W. Belcher, Louis P. Bruce, Robert Rountree, E. Stuart McGuire, Resa Irwin, Milton Fishman, Miss Marion Peters, a Miss Det Bernard, Frederick Emselton is stage manager. And there are others. But their names are locked in the secret bureau of Manager Baker. Mrs. Bauer is playing the key. A rumor was current last week that Mr. Baker was negotiating with Edouard de Reszke to play in a part that had been specially written for the Portland performance of "Fatinitza," and a musical enthusiast immediately named Mr. Baker. "Is it true that you have engaged de Reszke for the Portland performance of 'Fatinitza'?" "At least, these are the words he breathed into the telephone transmitter, and they got into Mr. Baker's ear in this shape: "Is it true that you have engaged the best of it for 'Fat-in-i-t-z-a'?"

"Choclate" murmured Mr. Baker, and it was after an elaborate explanation that it dawned upon him that he was suspected of having engaged the great Edouard de Reszke, whose brother Jean asked $500 a night for his services. From Manager Conried, and didn't get it. Mr. Baker strenuously denied the rumor, and these past few days has been kept busy stating that Portland singers are good enough for him.

The rehearsals last week both for principals and chorus have shown satisfactory results, but to meet the exceptionally high standard of excellence will require harder work yet and unremitting attention to the instructions of both Mr. Boyer and Mr. Emselton.

The principal male part in the opera "Fatinitza" is that of Count Timothy Kantchukoff, impersonated by Millard O. Lowndsale, and he can be trusted to give performance equal to that of a professional. Many professionals on the stage today do not possess the gifted voice of this favorite Oregon singer, nor his natural talent for such a part. His voice is a pure bass cantate—no harsh, raspy voice, the singing base. There is a peculiar and indefinable quality of sympathy and richness in the cantate that is to be found in no other voice, and Mr. Lowndsale possesses this quality in a remarkable degree. But the charm of his singing is in his purity and richness of tone, and lies in the fact that he never forgets virility, manliness and vigor. No matter how delicate the shading of his music, and that of a professional. It is this thrilling fervor and dignity that occasions the remark often heard: "I'd go miles to hear Lowndsale sing."

Mr. Lowndsale, whose artistic character work was the great feature of the production of "Fatinitza" in January, 1903, will interpolate at the forthcoming performance certain of the best of the words and music of which were written by himself. There is little in the part of General Kantchukoff, as originally written, and to meet the requests of many friends who listened to the opera at the former presentation. Mr. Lowndsale has written a romance and recitatives to be introduced in the third act. It will be an attractive novelty, and while the general public will have pleasant anticipations of it, musicians will be specially interested when they learn of the proposed interpolation. The opinion has often been expressed that Mr. Lowndsale's interpolation of the character of General Kantchukoff cannot be excelled in any house, and the added attraction of his romantic scene will make his performance of the role one to be remembered.

As is well known, Mr. Lowndsale is a freethinker, and can seldom be prevailed upon to sing in public. When the operatic concert was recently given at the Empire Theater, Mr. Lowndsale was suffering from an attack of indigestion and was not satisfied with his singing on that occasion. It is because of this dissatisfaction and of his determination to show that farming and singing are not necessarily antagonistic, that Mr. Lowndsale has consented to appear in his great character of General Kantchukoff.

In reply to the urgent demands of his friends, Resa Irwin has consented to play the part of Mustapha, keeper of the harem and of Ismet Pasha's four wives. The part calls for much of the best work of the rendition kind, and Mr. Irwin can be trusted to respond. As Ismet Pasha, Robert Rountree is going to make a hit. It is also a great comedy part, and Mr. Rountree is so funny at every point that the other principals are often made helpless with laughter. He has a pleasing natural tenor voice.

BROWN PARK BAND.

Organizing for the Season With Forty Musicians.

Fifty concerts with 40 musicians in the band, a change to the international pitch, and with better music than ever, form some of the ambitions this year of Brown's Park Band, which will commence operations for the season. Bandmaster Charles L. Brown and Park Commissioner J. D. Meyer will start early next month to try to collect subscriptions amounting to $700, the sum necessary to pay the expenses of the band for the entire season of five concerts for the people. The composition of the band this year will be as follows: One piccolo, one concert flute, one oboe, one E-flat clarinet, eight B-flat clarinets, one alto clarinet, one bass clarinet, one bassoon, four saxophones, five B-flat cornets, four French horns, three trombones, two baritone, one E-flat bass, two double B-flat basses, one side drum, one bass drum, one cymbal. Brown's band this year is modeled after Sousa's band, and has the same instruments as those used by the great two-step king. Brown tried to do first class in every particular, and excelled in every particular. The band is modeled after Sousa's band, and has the same instruments as those used by the great two-step king. THE GENERAL IN "FATINITZA"

MILLARD O. LOWNSDALE.

expected that I would make a fortune out of the Patti tour. The fact that I could guarantee her $500 a night and half of the gross receipts over $700 and not go to an auditor after the ordeal was over, has shown what I can do, for I have successfully executed the most difficult contract ever made. Next year I shall show that I can take music unaccompanied by fame and do the same thing. Madame David will open under my management at Carnegie Hall in October, when I expect that she will create a sensation."

Mrs. Egan, heiress to $1,000,000, and daughter of a wealthy manufacturer of Cincinnati, will wed in May Aresca Vesalio, leader of an Italian band, located in Philadelphia, Pa., and her father immediately after the ceremony will hand the bridegroom $100,000 "in maintenance for his new station with becoming dignity." The couple met on Young's Pier, Atlantic City, N. J., last Summer, and it was a case of love at first sight. The poor bandmaster, much in love with the girl, declared his poverty and frankly said that he would leave the country unless she left the resort. Aresca comes of an old family in Italy, and his uncle is leader of one of the best bands in Rome. The band has played before nearly all the crowned heads of Europe. His father several years ago was Mayor of Naples, near Naples. Miss Egan is 19 years old.

Arion Hall was crowded to the doors last Friday night on the occasion of the concert given by Ernest O. Spitzner's vocal quartet, and the well-rendered programme spoke volumes for the skill and patience of the teacher. The advanced pupils generally showed marked improvement. Those who took part in the solos and sextets were: Frances Jacobs, Minnie Hatfield, Annie English, Kyia, Fredrickson, Cornelia Barker, Lucille Collette, Margie Hausmann, Miss Vaughn, Velross Sharp, James Woodcock, Hazel Smith, Philip Kamm, Earl Sharp, Hazel Nichols, Milton Marx, Harry Coote, Mrs. Wetzenberg and Mr. Packard. An orchestra played four selections very creditably. The accompanists were Mrs. Rose Wetzenberg, Leon Rostbrock and Ernest Spitzner.

Manager Kronberg, of New York City, passed through the city last week on his way to San Francisco. He looked over the ground as to proposed concerts to be given in this and other cities in the near future by the New York Symphony Orchestra, which is composed of 69 first-class musicians. Walter Damrosch is the conductor. It is proposed to present the opera "Parsifal" which recently created such a sensation at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York City, and elsewhere. About one dozen well-known soloists will be brought on the tour, and a competent chorus. Musical people are all wishing that the deal is to be consummated.

Programme of a recent Sunday afternoon popular concert at Lyric Hall, San Francisco, given by the Kopsa Quartet, assisted by Mrs. Oscar Mansfield, pianist: (a) string quartet, "64, No. 5, "L'air du Quatuor" (Haydn); (b) Allegro Moderato; (c) Adagio Cantabile; (d) Menuetto; (e) Finales Vivace; violin solos (a) Ellegio (Noverre); (b) Polonaise de Concert (Lamb); string quartets (a) Scherzo, from the Quartet No. 1 (Cherubini); (b) two waltzes, first time (Dvorak); piano quintet, op. 5 (Shubert); first time (a) No. 1, from the "L'air du Quatuor" (Andante) (c) Intermezzo Vivace; (d) Finales Vivace.

Henry W. Savage's English Grand Opera Company will have a new prima donna and a new tenor on its annual Western tour. Mr. Savage has signed Antoinette Le Brun, who came from Italy as the prima donna for the Italian Theater in New York, and William A. Wegener, formerly soloist with Metropolitan Opera, of Boston. Miss Le Brun will alternate in prima donna roles with Gertrude Remington and Jean Labe Brookes. The new soprano is a product of the West, coming from Indiana to New York, whence a wealthy aunt sent her abroad to study.

Helen Bertram, who is the wife of Edward Morgan, the star of the "Empire City" Company, is an excellent soprano singer, and last Tuesday night after the Marquam Theater had been cleared of the audience, she sang to an orchestra accompaniment Sullivan's "Lost Chords," to try her voice in preparation for her vaudeville work. She made a fine impression on those who were permitted to listen to her. The orchestration was furnished by Mr. Halg, the musical director of "The Eternal City" Company. Mr. Halg was formerly musical director for Fanny Davenport.

The male voice section of the Kiltier Band from Canada, heard last Thursday night at the Marquam, was a delightful surprise. It is not after that 16 credible singers are taken from the ranks of a brass band and placed so well. The first, second and third tenors were best. It was a genuine pleasure to listen to such excellent expression and blending. The result shows what can be done by careful training and patient work. It would be possible to duplicate such an admirable choir of 16 male voices in this city if some competent person would just take up the work. Who speaks best?

Musical programme this morning at the First Unitarian Church, under the direction of Mrs. Albert C. Sheldon: "Religion" (Hoskings); anthem, "There is a Hour of Hallowed Peace" (Barbary); Gloria (Boyer).

Response (Shelley); soprano solo, "Lead Kindly Light" (Sheppard); Nona Dimitis (Barbary); psalm (Price).

The musical and literary entertainment given last week by pupils of the Western Academy of Music, Education, Dramatic and Dramatic Art, under the auspices of Altima Camp, No. 191, Woodmen of the World, was a pronounced success.

It has been definitely decided that the Multnomah Club will present in the near future the comic opera, "The Amies," in which Frank Daniels made such a hit in this city and elsewhere. The musical director will be W. H. Boyer.

Rehearsals will be begun shortly by the Boyer chorus for the preparation of Sullivan's "Golden Legend," which will be presented about the middle of the month at the First Congregational Church.

The baritone singer, Signor Achille Alberti, has arrived in San Francisco and will make it his future home. He is the husband of Helen Russell, of Fisher's Theater.

Giulio Minetti will give three quartet recitals in San Francisco March 24, April 2 and April 22.
