SOCIETY AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Two Royal Parties Entertained—Young Roosevelts at Home With the Mumps—Secretary Moody Goes Cruising on the Dolphin

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(Special Correspondence.)—Washington is gay with the life and brightness of her Spring season. These months at the capital are attracting each year a larger number of visitors from all home and abroad.

Two royal parties were entertained during the week, their presence being made the occasion for a revival of a semi-official round of gayety. A musicale at the White House, a large afternoon reception at the home of ex-Secretary of State and Mrs. John W. Foster, a dinner "for men only" at the Chinese Legation, and an elaborate luncheon, with President and Mrs. Roosevelt among the guests, at Secretary Hay's residence on La Fayette Square, were some of the notable events in honor of Prince Fu-Lun and his associates from China.

Informal luncheons and small dinners marked the intervening days at the White House, where, on Saturday of the same week, the German Princes and their party, were entertained at luncheon before they witnessed the President press the tiny button in the East Room, and thereby set in motion all the wonderful machinery that goes to make up the world's greatest Exposition in St. Louis.

Baroness von Sternburg is in mourning for her father, the late Mr. Langham, of California, and in consequence the dinner at the German Embassy for the royal visitors was a private affair, making up in cordiality what it lacked in brilliancy of numbers. The guests were Prince Hohenzollern-Schillingfurst and his sister, the Princess Elisabeth; the Princess von Baden; Prince Karl von Ratibor, Count von Rattenskrain, Madame Borgnis and Mile. Borgnis, with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilcox, of Cleveland, O., compose the royal suite.

Prince Hohenzollern, who is a noted sportsman and hunter, made a tour of Washington on horseback in company with the German Ambassador, Prince von Ratibor, and the officers and crew well-riders in the diplomatic corps. Prince Ratibor is Governor of a Prussian province; his nephew, the hereditary prince, an officer in the Emperor's Guard, and he and it was particularly in their honor that the Austrian Ambassador and Baroness Hengelmuehl entertained on Sunday evening at one of the most perfectly appointed dinners at the White House.

Jewels, gorgeous array and choice floral decorations were features of the occasion. Apple and cherry blossoms were artistically combined with palms in the decoration of the drawing-rooms, and in the dining-room were used with ribbons in the national colors of Austria-Hungary. Covers were laid for 54, and in addition to the foreign guests there were present Mr. and Mrs. Girard Foster, of New York; Baron and Baroness von Giskra, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, General O'Brien, Miss Warder, Miss King, Count Hoyta, of the Russian Embassy.

Fruit blossoms, a la the Oriental custom, are being used extensively at smart entertainments. The most notable instance is in the decorations at the last Cabinet dinner and also at the Foster reception. They were particularly appropriate at the last named as the Chinese Prince was then the guest of honor. In an ensemble, the affair gave the royal Oriental a delightful picture of Washington society, amid almost Eastern surroundings, as the Foster residence contains rare curios and wonderfully dappered that were presented to America's noted diplomat on the occasion of his visit to the Far East.

Here also was the Prince made to feel most at home by the presence of Colonel Thomas Symons, the President's aide-de-camp, one of the few Americans who speaks pure Chinese.

Other happy entertained visitors at the capital at this time are the young Roosevelt boys, who were brought here from school with an attack of mumps. During their convalescence they were almost constantly with their mother, going for walks, drives, to Congress, and to occasional places of amusement. They went to the Strauss concert, and heard the Bostonians in "The House of Wax." Mr. De Koven, the composer and their friend, within earshot.

Accompanied by the President, the family joined several Army officers at the annual exhibition of the Fifteenth Cavalry and the Fourth Battery of Field Artillery at Fort Myer. The children are veritably chirps of the old bird, for no more interested in the review than the troopers as they drilled for a week's engagement at Madison-Square Garden under the auspices of the Military Athletic League of America.

The dress is uniform and the best service cap, which is so like a Scotch cap that it makes them look quite English. It is only a matter of looks, however, as they were dressed in the most becoming Christian paragon at McMillinville Saturday, May 7. Only a few relatives and intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. J. W. Whittemper, Mr. and Mrs. Roth are now at home to their friends at Amity.

In the artistic world, the 14th annual exhibition of the Washington Art Association, in the Hemicycle of the Corcoran Art Gallery, was an interesting event. The pictures were mostly portraits, and were in years and included the wonderful Van Zorn portrait of Representative Hitt, and several canvases that had received honors in the past. The Pennsylvania Art Society in Philadelphia, conspicuous among these was the Madonna, a prize-winner by Miss Mary Casatt, the talented sister of President McKinley's wife, and the best known resident of Coville County and will make their home here.

The friends of Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Glaze gave a farewell party at the Maccahees Hall in their honor Friday night. At the residence of the bride's parents, May 8, Mr. Anton Zillig and Miss Lizzie Frenshoff were married by Father W. Palmer. The young couple are well-known residents of Coville County and will make their home here.

MAY BE BRIDE OF SENATOR CLARK, OF MONTANA

It is reported that the purpose of the trip to Europe of Senator Clark, the Montana copper magnate, is to marry Miss Ada La Chappelle, his protegee, who has been receiving a musical education in Europe at the Senator's expense. Senator Clark's interest in Miss La Chappelle dates from the time, six years ago, when her voice attracted his attention and caused him to assume the expense of her education, which was begun in Washington. Miss Chappelle is 28 years old, and is the daughter of a Dartmouth physician, who died eight years ago. She has several brothers and sisters in Montana. Her mother lives in Minneapolis. It was said recently that she contemplated a grand opera career under the stage name "Montana."

MISS ADA LA CHAPPELLE.

Senators and members have children in school here, and others are remaining to enjoy the rest and beauty of the Capital, without official cares. Some are busy with committee work and some have gone on the Dolphin with Secretary Moody of the Navy on a tour of inspection of naval stations in Cuba and the Southern States. The Dolphin, primarily the President's boat, has been at anchor at the Washington Navy Yard most of the winter awaiting orders, and the officers and crew welcomed the opportunity of going on a short cruise with "pleasant company" aboard. Originally the property of a New York merchant, the Dolphin was purchased by the Navy in 1898, and was converted into a torpedo-boat for service during the Spanish-American War. It was not in the fight, and after peace was declared was changed back into a floating palace fit for the President, as well as for the proverbial King.

So much has been said about the use of a Government boat by the President that it is interesting to note that the boat used by Mrs. Roosevelt on the occasion of her visit to the Far East.

THE DOMAIN OF MUSIC

The continued and ever increasing interest in the weekly concerts given by Eilers Piano House is the most flattering testimonial which the instruments used can receive. Music of the mechanical, hand-organ type, no matter how produced, loses its interest as soon as the novelty has worn off. But although piano concerts are given in Portland for years, attendance by Portland's most musical and cultured people is constantly increasing. The instruments used are the piano, played by means of the Pianola, the Aeolian Orchestral and Aeolian Piano Organ. The resultant music possesses that human quality which the mechanical instruments can never give.

Last Thursday evening, Aeolian Hall and the adjoining room were crowded with people, who enjoyed not only a very fine instrumental programme, but also the most interesting and wonderful first time in Portland, a very promising young singer, Mrs. Anna Selkirk Norton, of Albany. Mrs. Norton not only possesses a very exceptional contralto voice, but also the pleasure of singing for the first time in Portland, a very promising young singer, Mrs. Anna Selkirk Norton, of Albany.
