PROFESSOR BRANCHES OUT

Quiet Sunday.

Notifies Cigar Stores, Confectionery Stands and Ice Cream Resorts That They Are Violating the Law on the Seventh Day.

SALEM, Or., June 11.-(Special.)-A Sunday closing crusade was commenced against all the eigar stores, con-fectionery stands and ice cream parlors in this city. Professor W. P. Drew, ho caused the arrest of 15 saloonkeepers st Tuesday, is back of the movement, a served notice on all the cigar and confectionery men yesterday. So far as can be learned, all of them will keep their places of business open Sunday. In his letter Professor Drew does not say what he will do if the stores keep open on Sunday. The course he pursued with the soloommen has led the cigar, ice cream and candy men to believe that he will have them all arrested if they keep open. With this understanding they have decided to keep open and, if arrested, stand trial before a jury.

So far as appears from his letter, Pro-fessor Drew is acting upon his own initi-ative sione. It was supposed that in having the saloon men arrested he acted on behalf of the Law Enforcement League, but his letter to the cigar men and confectioners does not show anything a family. of the kind. The letter appears to be written on a Williamette University letter-head, but this is not taken as connecting the school in any way with the move-ment. A sample of the letters sent out

When Professor Drew was asked today what he will do if the cigar stores and confectionery stands keep open tomorrow, he deelined to say. He explained his course in regard to these lines of buni-ness by saying that he acted in a spirit tess by saying that he acted in a spirit of fairness. The law, he says, forbids sceping open cigar stores and confectionof fairness.

This indicates an intention to swear out warrants against the cigar and candy men if they keep open tomorrow, as they say they will. Professor Drew also said in answer to a question that he is not Molalia River, where they were planted. acting as a representative of the Law Enforcement League or any other organ-isation, but is undertaking the enforcement work on his own responsibility.
