As a strict matter of fact, King is claiming too much relative credit for its showing. King did not have the fight to make for Mead that Pierce and Spokane, for instance, went against.

Take Pierce as an example. In that a Democratic administration con trolled the City of Tacoma. The admin-istration levied an assessment upon every office-holder to win the Turner fight. The amblers and every factor in the sport-ing element were called upon to contrib-ute. The police had instructions to force the sporting vote into line. A weak-kneed Sheriff was a candidate for re-election and he did little to offset the city fight for Turner. He feared that he might endanger his own chances. There was an undercurrent in the rail-road management that was inimical to Mead. B. S. Grosscup's influence was not clear-cut for Mead. despite the fact that he did mead than the superscripts in that he did more than any one else to nominate him. In addition, George Stev-enson, who handles the saloon vote of the enson, who handles the saloon vote of the state better than any one else, devoted the last month of his time to Pierce County. Then, too, there were such men as Stanton Warburton, W. H. Doolittle, F. H. Luce, W. H. Paulaamus, J. B. Croake, J. H. Price and J. M. Ashton working for Turner-bolters, with a rela-tively small following when considered in-dividually, but strong in the aggregate. Ashton weakened toward the last, but the others did not. Politicians of the state did not realize

The others did not. Politicians of the state did not realize the odds against which Pierce County fought, but they do now. In claiming for King credit for the big showing made for Mead, the King County Republicans must take into consideration the fact that Pierce will make a showing of the odds ngsinst which the Republicans fought. Spakane, with another Senstorial candi-date, can show too, that Turner a Snodate, can show, too, that Turner, a Spo-kane man, cut into their vote, and both these contentions must be overcome by King before credit can be asked by a King County Senatorial candidate. Thus far no steps have been taken toward the organization of either the House or the Senate. Whatever influence can be wielded by the Lieutenant-Gov can be wielded by the Lieutenant-Gov-ernor will be thrown by Churles E. Coon toward Foster. There has never been a time when pollicians were uncertain about his stitude. Coon may have to fight fong control of the Senate, but he can be relied upon to help Foster all that is possible in the movement. "The ontext for the House is open. mill influence is a factor to be counted, for there is a big vote of men interested directly in lumbering industries in the Legislature, and even if nothing else could be delivered, this is worth considering. AN OBJECT LESSON

In a Restaurant.

A physician puts the query: Have you never noticed in any large restaurant at lunch or dinner time the large number of hearty, vigorous old men at the tables; men whose ages run from 60 to 50 years; many of them bald and all perhaps gray, but none of them feeble or senile? Perhaps the spectacle is so common as to have escaped your observation or com-ment, but nevertheless it is an object les-son which means something. If you will notice what these hearty old fellows are eating, you will observe that they are not munching bran crackers nor gingerly picking their way through a menu card of new-fangled health foods; on the contrary, they seem to profer a juicy romat of beef, a property turned loin of mutton, and even the deadly brolled lob-

The point of all this is that a vigorous old age depends upon good digestion and plenty of wholesome food and not upon dieting and an endeavor to live upon bran crackers.

There is a certain class of food cranks who seem to believe that meat, coffee and many other good things are rank poi-sons, but these cadaverous, sickly-looking individuals are a walking condemnation of noise, out insecta waiking condemnation of individuals are a waiking condemnation of their own theories. The matter in a nutahell is that if the stomach secretes the natural digestive juices in sufficient quantity, any whole-some food will be promptly digested; if the stomach does not do so, and certain foods cause distress, one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal will remove all difficulty. because they supply just what every weak atom-actuates and nut. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not act spon the bowels and in fact are not atrict-by upon the food eaten, digesting it thor-oughly and thus giving the stomach a much-needed rest and an appetite for the next meal.
