HE Portland public got considerable pleasure out of the appearance here of White Whittless, who came to the Marquam at the beginning of the week in "Heartsease" and "The Second in Command." The star was new, but he established himself on a proper footing as a romantic actor of much consequence. The "Runaways" on Thursday night was very inferior and disappointed a large audience. It is fortunate that Arthur Dunn cut Portland off with a one-night stand, for no alleged first-class attraction ever dared to barnstorm the country. The "Runaways" had not one redeeming feature Friday night Florence Gale, an ambitious young woman, opened a threeerformance engagement in "As You Like It." She and her support presented Shakespeare's delightful comedy after an amateurish fashion, but the evident sincerity of Miss Gale and the others and the beautiful mounting comedy draws and the beautiful mounting and dressing of the plece made "As You Like It" a very pleasing entertainment. The Columbia presented "The Gay Parisiana," a hilarious French farce, which might have been salacious but for the careful handling of the lines and situations by the Columbia players. It was very funny and it departed widely from anything presented by the stock company heretofore.

Cordray's closed its career as a "legitimate" house with "Finnigan's Ball," a perennial Irish farce-comedy, with raudeville and musical trimmings. I'd be ashamed to guess how long "Finnigan's Ball," has been out, but it still seems to draw a certain element of playgoers as rendily as it did ten years ago. There are a few clever people with the show this year, who managed to extract a lot of slapstick comedy from the plece.

The vaudeville houses gave their patrons their money's worth, as in fact they always do, but they had no acts of overshadowing importance. In fact they always do, but they had no acts of overshadowing importance. In fact the bills, with one or two exceptions, were quite commonplace. When the Grand opens this afternoon Portland will have six vaudeville theaters, and still there are rumors of more.

This season's company, which numbers nearly 30 people, is composed of artists exclusively, all of whom are representatives of the highest "ass of modern minstreley. The famous Billy Van, "the assassin of sorrow," is still the bright particular star, and, as usual, will deliver a succession of song and story of recent issuccession of song and story of recent is-sue, while popular Jimmy Wall, the "Beau Brummeil," and modern Billy Em-erson, will entertain in his peculiar and inimitable way. The new first part, "The Evolution of the Watermelon." is claimed to be not only an absolute innovation, but a marvel of scenic and electrical splendor as well. It is a direct departure from the old-time first-part setting, and has set a new pace It is a direct departure from the old-time first-part setting, and has set a new pace in the minstre world. The closing number "Moonlight in Dixle," presented by Jimmy Wall and 20 dancing adepta, is described as a faithful and characteristic picture of darky life in Southland. This production is a most elaborate one; in fact, every number of the programme is presented with special scenery and effects.

November 25 and 26, with a special-price matines Saturday, is so well known that it seems superduous to recite the story again. "Arizona" is without doubt the best play which Augustis Thomas has ever written and the production of the same and the company of the same and the same production of the same and the company engaged by M. B. Raymond are second to hone in the present theatrical era. The atory of "Arisona" is interesting through-out the entire four acts and there is not out the entire four acts and there is not a moment from the rise to the fall of the curtain when the interest of the spectator flags. The characters are all taken from life and are a correct portrayal of the people who go to make up the inhabitants of the state from which the play takes its name. The scenes and incidents are laid in the beautiful Aravaipa Valley, the center of interest being the ranch of a well-to-do cattleman and the home of Colonel Bonham and the Eleventh United States Cavairy at Fort Grant. The picturesque scenery is all painted from sketches made on the spot by the eminent painter, Frederick Remington, and such has been the success of the painter in reproducing the same that one can almost feel the aroma of the cactus and sage brush and imagine the inhaling of the dry choking aikali dust. "Arisona" is an American play and will live long in the hearts of the American theater-goers. The advance sale of seats will open next Wednesday morning, November 23, at 19 o'clock.

of the present theatrical season is the opening of the finest vaudeville theater on the Pacific Coast, and the largest west of Chicago, with a matinee this aftermoon. The Grand (formerly Cordray's) is the country and headquarters of the Bullivan-considing circuit of first-class vaudeville houses, and it is the greatest card in the game which is now being played for the theatrical supremacy of the country. It is backed by unlimited capital and will be made the most brilliant success in the history of vaudeville if money, determination and brains can make it such.

Already large sums of money are being expended in resitting and redecorating the theater, and the premier bill which was accured by Managel Lincoin while he was in New York two weeks ago represents an outlay which would appall any other Pacific Coast manager. The acts which will appear this afternoon have never been seen west of Chicago, and they come here for this engagement. The first of these great apelal acts is Musliner's trained sheep. Trained sheep. Who ever heard of trained sheep? Nobody except those who have been fortunate enough to have seen Musliner's troupe at the New York horse show last Fall. They are the marvel of the amusement world, and come here from the first Duropean tours. They do everything that trained dogs to and have been the subject of much selentific investigation by scholars and philosophers. The four Olifans, who bring their great act here direct from the St. Louis Worfder Fair, will me doubt receips a warm welcome, as most newspaper readers have heard much of their wonderful work.
