PEACE DIFFICULT TO ATTAIN

Supreme Court Refuses to Decide on Legality of Joint Assembly Proceedings All Factions Agree on Two New Judges.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 7.-Alva Adam was tonight declared by the Legislature to be the duly elected Governor of Colorado. The returns showed: Adams, 123,-678; Peabody, 113,304. Plurality for Ad-

A cheer greeted the announcement of the result of the election when made by Lieutenant-Governor Haggott.

The Republican candidates for all the other state offices were declared elected. Under the terms of the agreement reached today by the various factions of the Legislature, no notice of contest can be filed by Governor Peabody until after the inauguration of Mr. Adams, which is set for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. It has not yet been definitely decided by Governor Peabody whether or not he will make a contest.

Dove of Peace Slow to Come. When the Legislature convened this morning. Representative William Griffith, of Cripple Creek, asked for a recess un til 4 o'clock in the afternoon, giving as his reason for the request that "the whitewinged dove of peace is about to light or the dome of the Capitol."

It was nine long hours before the dove came down, and many and devious had been her flights before she alit. It was a day given over to secret caucuses, to conferences, to propositions and counterpropositions. It was finally agreed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon that the vote should be canvassed, that Alva Adams should be declared Governor, and that no contest should be made for any office until his inauguration at 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning.

Throughout the entire struggle for the Governorship the chief aim of both Democrats and Republicans has been to secure the appointment of the two new Judges of the Supreme Court. The question of whether Peabody or Adams out in the Governor's office was a secondary matter The Welcott Republicans were insistent in their demand that they be recognized in appointment of the Judges, and it was finally agreed that the appointees should be George W. Balley, of Fort Collins, and L. M. Goddard, of Denver. The Wolcott men made a strong fight for Judge M. T. Lewis, of Colorado Springs, whom they preferred to Goddard, but they finally

Supreme Court Cuts the Knot.

The Peabody men refused to give way until the Supreme Court this afternoon refused to declare legal the proceedings of yesterday. It would not declare them lilegal, simply declining to pass on the matter at all. With the joint session not declared legal, all things that came from it were in the same position and the Peabody men then agreed to compromise. It took but a short time to reach an agreement, both sides being , fairly dis-posed and in a conciliatory frame of mind. The Republican leaders departed to confer with Governor Peabody and the House and Senate sat down to wait. At 7 o'clock all things were settled even to the fact that Lieutenant-Governor Haggott should preside over the joint session except while the canvass was in progress, when he would give way to Speaker Dick-
