

STATUARY ON WAY

Gift of St. Louis Fair Officials Has Been Shipped.

FAMOUS WORKS OF ART

Status of Lewis and Clark, by Lopez, and "Cowboys on the Trail," by Remington, Are Among Them.

Statuary for the Exposition to the value of $75,000 is now on the way to Portland, and the first to be put in place are the two statues of Lewis and Clark. These are the statues donated by the officials of the St. Louis Fair. The several statues will be placed at appropriate places in the Exposition as soon as they arrive, and the pedestals, which are being made in Portland, are ready.

In the first car will be the famous work of Frederic Remington, "Cowboys on the Trail," which attracted so much attention at St. Louis. It is entitled, "Cowboys on the Trail," but was popularly known as "Shooting Up the Town." This piece of work, said by art critics to be faultless, shows four typical cowboys out for a "ride" and having it. The faces of the men are true types of the class which is rapidly becoming extinct, while every line in the horses is true to Nature. The statue is valued at $10,000. It has been suggested that this work be placed on an arch at the entrance to the Trail, in such a position that it will look to the spectator as though these cowboys were indeed "on the trail" and preparing to have a "ride" in such a position the statue could be seen from almost every part of the grounds, and people on Government Island, looking across the Bridge of Nations and through the Trail, could see it as well.

Statue of Lewis and Clark.

There is also among the statuary coming a portrait statue of the late editor of The Oregonian, Charles Lopez, valued at $25,000. Those who have seen this statue commend it in every particular. A companion piece is a portrait statue of William Clark, executed by F. W. Rudolph, and valued at $5,000. It is thought that the two statues will be placed in the Sunken Gardens. With the statue of Sacajawwa in the center of the gardens and one of the other statues on either side, the effect would be pleasing indeed.

There are two groups of buffalo fighting with Canadian lynx, executed by E. C. Potter, and the two groups are valued at $2,000. These statues are among the largest that are to be on exhibition. A great deal of time and care was spent upon them by the sculptor, and critics pronounce them true to life. One of these statues will be placed in the center of the Plaza of States, the other is being bound by the Palace of Machinery and Transportation, the Palace of Manufactures, Liberal Arts and Varied Industries, the Auditorium and the Palace of Mines and Metallurgy. The other will be placed in a little nook in Centennial Park, along one of the pleasant walks from the main exhibit palace to the Trail.

There are four Neptune groups, the four valued at $200. These are showing the god Neptune with his sea-horses and are powerful pieces of work. They were executed by Philip Martiny. One of these statues will be placed in the lake on either side of the Bridge of Nations, and near the bridge. The other two have had no places assigned to them, but it is expected that one will be placed near the United States Life-Saving Station, a short distance from the shore, and the other at the foot of the Grand Staircase.

Four Groups by Borghum.

There are four groups executed by Solomon B. Borghum, which are indicative of the spirit of the Exposition. One describes the Indian buffalo dance, and art critics have been praising it since its completion. Another is entitled, "A Step to Civilization," another is the "Hunting Cowboy." This latter is the only one of the group which has been criticized to any extent, the critics claiming that Borghum made a serious mistake because the cowboy is shown to be riding the horse's neck, a thing a cowboy would never do. The last group is entitled, "Plover Seeking Shelter," and depicts an aged plover resting behind his house, the animal sheltering him from Wintery blasts. The four groups by Borghum are valued at $15,000 and take first place among the statuary that will be at the Exposition, unless Remington's "Cowboys on the Trail" be excepted.

The statuary was packed for shipment by J. Werner, assistant superintendent of sculpture at the St. Louis Exposition, and great care has been taken in forwarding the cars in Portland. Several cars will be necessary to carry the exhibit, and all these cars are expected to arrive within the present week.

TO MEET CHINESE ENVOY.

Director of Exhibits Dosch Leaves Tonight for San Francisco.

Colonel Henry E. Dosch, director of exhibits, leaves tonight for San Francisco, where he will meet an envoy of the Chinese Imperial government to arrange for China's participation on a large scale at the Lewis and Clark Exposition. Negotiations to this end have been carried on for more than a year. It is now arranged that the plans will be completed in San Francisco during Colonel Dosch's stay, and the fact that one-fourth of the entire floor space of the Exposition building has been reserved for the Chinese display warrants the assertion that China's representation will be complete in every detail.

EDUCATORS HOLD MEETING.

Discuss Plans for Educational and Religious Congresses.

Educators gathered in force at Exposition headquarters yesterday to make arrangements for the educational and religious congresses to be held during the Fair, probably the latter part of August. The congress will hold forth for at least a week, and perhaps for a much longer period. As readily as possible speakers will be secured and final arrangements made.

The educational committee of it, at its meeting yesterday morning, elected an executive committee composed of the following: State Superintendent J. H. Ackerman; Oregon; State Superintendent R. E. Bryan; of Washington; State Superintendent Miss Mae E. Scott; of Idaho, and the state superintendent of Montana; Principal D. A. Grout, of this city; Professor W. N. Ferrin, of Pacific University; Superintendent J. C. Zinser, of Clackamas County.

known educators were present: President P. L. Campbell, of University of Oregon; Superintendent E. E. Pragg, of Union; Superintendent E. P. Muckley, of Ashland; and Superintendent I. H. Copeland, of Columbia University.

Exposition Notes.

It has been announced that a party of passenger agents and general agents of the Southern Pacific will tour Oregon and visit Portland about one month prior to the opening of the Exposition, to familiarize themselves with the attractions offered travelers.

Plans are being drawn for the Fine Arts building, and some time during the present week they will be referred to the executive committee for approval. At that time, the plans are what is desired, the bids for the erection of this building will be advertised for.

DEATH OF WILLIAM B. LOBNER

At his residence in this city, William B. Lobner, age 62, died yesterday, at 12:30 A. M. Mr. Lobner has been for the past four years a traveling representative of Wells, Fargo & Co., and he is well and favorably known throughout Western Oregon and Washington. He left a widow and young daughter, besides a son in San Francisco, and a married daughter, Mrs. T. O. Evans, of Portland. He was a member of the B. P. O. E. and I. O. O. F., and those orders will be represented at the funeral.

arrived in Portland with the plans of the building in his pocket, and construction of the state building, which will be at the edge of Centennial Park, at a cost of $40,000, will begin as soon as the bill now before the California Legislature is passed, which will be within the present week. Sixty tons of California exhibits are already at the Exposition grounds.

MUCH INTEREST IN THE FAIR

People of Idaho Will Come in Great Numbers, Says Former Portlander.

L. G. Bradley, formerly a member of the Oregonian staff, and at present editor of the Grangeville Standard, of Grangeville, Idaho, passed through Portland yesterday en route to his home. He says that much interest is being shown in the Lewis and Clark Fair in his community, and that a large number of people from Idaho County will visit Portland during the coming summer.

"People of Idaho," said Mr. Bradley, "are a little familiar with the Oregon coast as Oregon people are with Idaho. Few people know of the great resources of the Camas Prairie, and to many people this farming section is unknown, although it equals in every respect the farmed Palouse and Walla Walla districts. It is known more by its mines than its farming. The present discovery in the Buffalo Hump are bringing people to Idaho, and once there they see our agricultural resources.

"There is a large amount of work being done in the Buffalo Hump, and several large milling plants are being established. One discovery known as the 'Hummer' is creating much excitement and promises great things. It is held by R. C. Wilms, of Grangeville, a well-known Oregon man, who is planning a large amount of work on it. The ledge shows up along the entire edge of the hill, and the ore is very rich."

GET ANOTHER RURAL ROUTE

District East of Milwaukie to Receive Mail February 15.

Postmaster C. K. Ballard, of Milwaukie, has received orders from the Postoffice Department to establish a rural delivery route No. 2 from that office on February 15, and is making arrangements to carry out the orders.

The new route, as designated by Inspector C. E. Clements, covers 10 1/2 square miles, and the carrier will travel a fraction over 18 miles in covering this route. In the new district there are 162 farmhouses and 466 people.

The new route takes in the country to the east of Milwaukie to within one block of the town of Lent, goes to Woodstock and Willsburg and joins on the free delivery routes from Sellwood and Lent. People in the district are asked to provide themselves with acceptable mail boxes before February 15, so the carrier can make the deliveries promptly.

ERNEST GAMBLE CONCERT CO.

After Brief Illness Mr. Gamble is Again Able to Sing.

The concert by the Gamble Company, which was to have been January 24, but was postponed on account of the illness of Mr. Gamble, will take place Tuesday evening, January 24, at 8:15, in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. There are only about 25 reserved seats left, which will be sold at 50 cents, after which general admission will be 30 cents.

To each and all who so kindly sympathized with me in my sorrow and loss, we extend our heartfelt thanks. (Signed) Mrs. Samuel Colson, Carl Y. Bjornvall, Charles R. Seeger.

FORCED TO PAY LOSSES

JUDGE CLELAND RULES AGAINST J. C. ROBERTS.

Overbeck, Starr & Cook Co. Win Suit for $1526, Lost in Stock and Cotton Deals.

J. C. Roberts, of the Peters & Roberts Furniture Company, is indebted to Overbeck, Starr & Cook Company, grain, cotton and stock brokers, to the amount of $1526 and interest. Judge Cleland so decided yesterday in the suit of the brokers against Roberts to recover this sum. Roberts, in January, 1904, speculated in cotton of the New York Cotton Exchange, selling 100 bales of July cotton at 129 per pound and buying 100 bales of the same cotton to fill the order on a falling market. Cotton advanced and in February the deal was closed, 142 per pound being paid for the cotton which Roberts sold for 129 per pound. The loss on the 100 bales which the brokers charged up against Roberts, deducting $28.5 which he paid, was $1471.50.

In September, 1903, Roberts bought 39 shares United States Steel stock on the New York Stock Exchange, through Overbeck, Starr & Cook Company, for $1750 per share, and it was later sold for $1250 per share. The brokers say Roberts owed them a balance of $5 on this deal, and also on the cotton transaction, and as he did not liquidate, they sued him. As a defense, Roberts contended that he had placed a stop order with the brokers and that the order could not be closed without his consent and that the brokers agreed to carry it. At the trial there was evidence that Roberts offered the brokers lots in St. Johns as security, demanding that the deal be continued, knowing that cotton would eventually go down in price, and its high price was the result of an unusual condition of the market. The price was higher than it had ever been since the war. The brokers did not take the lots, it was alleged, because they considered Roberts good. Roberts went to the beach and on February 15 he telegraphed to close the deal, cotton having gone down, and received an answer that he had no option trade on, as it had been ended long before.

Judge Cleland, in deciding the case, held that Overbeck, Starr & Cook Company acted fairly with Roberts; that the evidence did not show that he had a stop order with the brokers, or that they had contracted to carry the trade for him.

NO MONEY FOR WIFE'S DIVORCE

Junk Man Swears He Cannot Afford Such a Luxury.

James F. Smith, whose wife, Eudora E. Smith, has sued him for a divorce, yesterday filed an affidavit in the State Circuit Court, stating that he is unable to pay $150 into court for court costs and attorney's fees, as she demands. Smith alleges that he is in the junk business, and has been unable to accumulate any money.

H. H. Hawley, of the Boy and Girl's Aid Society, has filed an affidavit reciting that Mrs. Smith has lived in houses possessing a bad reputation, and S. T. McCann has also filed an affidavit stating that Mrs. Eudora Smith was once very friendly with a colored barber. The litigants formerly lived at Tillamook.

FORGOT HE HAD MONEY.

Aged Man With $1200 Spends Term in Poorhouse.

Lorenz H. Heimer, 85 years old, who was committed to the County Hospital several weeks ago as a pauper, has been discovered to be the owner of $1200 which he deposited in the Bank of British Columbia, 30 years ago. Heimer has recovered and returned to the New York Hotel, where he lived for a long time. Albert Heller, the proprietor of the New York Hotel, in searching through Heimer's trunk while he was away, found the certificate of deposit, which Heimer had evidently forgotten all about. Manager Wylie, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which succeeded the former institution, acknowledged the certificate.

Bright's Disease and Diabetes News

Office Wine and Spirit Review. San Francisco, Jan. 15, 1905. To the Editors of Oregon: Dear Sir:—The business men of this city who are proclaiming to the world the discovery of the cure for Bright's Disease and Diabetes have asked me as one of the beneficiaries to write to my brother editors. Hereby, by this letter, I have a clear case of chronic Bright's Disease: it was ill for a year. It was not thought I would live 30 days. The president of the Pacific States Typefoundry told my wife about it, and against my private convictions I was put on it. In six months my recovery was complete. I told several who got well. Among them was one of the writers on the Call, whose mother had Diabetes. She has fully recovered. As a brother editor I personally assure you of the truth of the discovery. Fraternally yours, R. M. WOOD, Editor.
