BILL IS MISSING

Bucketshop Measure Is Lost in Senate,

RUSH OF LAST HOUR

Laid Aside for Quiet Death, and Disappears.

HERMANN, AUTHOR, WANTS IT

Owing to Lack of Time at End of Session, Only Local Bills Easy of Passage Were Picked for Third Reading.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 18.-(Special.)-Hermann's anti-bucketshot bill disappeared mysteriously during the closing hours of the Legislature's session, and search has falled to show what became of it.

"Less than an hour before the Senate adjourned the bill was lying with many others on the desk of President Kuyker dall, and so far as known, that was the last seen of it. It may have been mislaid, possibly it was stolen, perhaps in the rush of work it was folded with other papers and lost, but whatever became of it is now a mystery.

In the Senate this measure fer the sup-pression of bucketshops was referred to the committee on education. That committee reported the bill in the afternoon and the records show that it was received at the clerk's desk. It was one of about 30 that were on the desk when the Senate adjourned at 6 o'clock.

A resolution had been adopted for final adjournment at 8 o'clock, and the Senate met again at 7 o'clock. It was apparent that the Senate could not dispose of all the remaining bills in that one hour, and President Kuykendall called a conference of some of the Senate leaders

Few Bills Selected.

According to Chief Clerk Moorhead here were present Senators Booth, Pierce, Malarkey and Hodson, and perhaps one or two others. President Kuy-kendall asked for all the bills on third reading, and they were handed up. Pres-ident Kuykendall and the other Senators went over the bunch and selected the bills that it was thought should be given first attention, and those that were of less im-portance or that would be likely to provoke discussion were laid aside.

The bucketshop bill was laid aside as one that would probably precipitate a debate and consume too much time. The bundle of bills was then handed back to the clerk, and those selected for third reading were read and passed or defeated. Nothing more was thought of the bucketshop bill until this morning, when Representative Hermann went to inquire after it, and search falled to disclose its

Both President Kuykendall and Chief Clerk Moorhead are utterly unable to account for the disappearance of the bill If any one stole it, he had trouble for his palms, for the measure would not have come up for third reading unless some Senator called for it, which no one did. With the exception of the loss of one page from the Malheur irrigation district bill in the House, this is the only mishap that any bill in the Legislature.

The Senate had previously agreed to adjourn at 6:30 P. M., but the time ran over until a little after 6 o'clock. It was then deemed practicable to take up several local bills to be acted upon

"I was assisted by several Senators in assorting the remaining bills, and I distinctly remember seeing the Hermann bill. Obviously it was not a local measure, and therefore could not be acted upon, for an objection by any Senator would have prevented such

ITEMS OF HERMANN BILL.

"Bucket-Shop" Applied to All Such Establishments in State.

The Hermann bucket-shop bill was introduced in the House and read the first time on January 17 and was entitled "An act to suppress bucket-shops and gambling in stocks, bonds, petroleum, cotton, grain, coal, provisions and other produce."

Its provisions against all forms of commission and stockdealing were wide in scope. It forbade any corporation, association, Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, copartnership or per-son to keep a "bucket-hop" or office wherein was conducted the pretended buying and seiling of shares of stock or bonds without the property so bought or sold being actually delivsory issuance of a written statement containing the names of the parties from whom the stock or bonds were bought or sold, as the case might be, upon the request of the customer or principal of the sale, and provided a penalty for refusal to give the names

WARRANT OUT FOR LAWYER Alleged That R. E. Feree Changed Names on Seals

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 18.—(Special.)

R. E. Feree, a lawyer, is to be arrested as soon as an officer can find him on the charge of obtaining $350 in cash under false pretenses. The com-plaint was issued at the request of Mrs. W. E. Yeager, from whom the money is alleged to have been obtained fraudulently. In connection with the false pretense charge, are allegations of a series of forgeries committed by Feree. The Prosecuting Attorney will first proceed against Feree on the false pretense charge, and later, if the evi-dence is deemed sufficient, a warrant charging him with forgery may be is-

As a security for a loan, Feree is alleged to have presented to Mrs. Yea-ger a contract for the sale of two lots in Tacoma signed by C. T. Patterson. Patterson claims his signature is a forgery. The signature is attested by Frank A. Noble, a notary public. A part of the letters of the word "Noble" in the seal are cut out on the paper. making it appear that the name

On the assignment of the contract there is a notarial seal purporting to be "C. F. Dexten" There is a similarity to G. F. Drager's name with certain letters mutilated. The alleged notaries "Dexter" and "Moore" cannot be found, and there is no record that they are notaries. Noble and Drager say they did not attest either of the documents. Feree has offices with Noble and, acording to Mr. Noble and Mr. Drager, had access to both their notarial seals. Mr. Patterson, who says his name is forged to documents, alleges the lots were never offered for sale.

FOR NEW SALMON COMBINE.

Kamchatka Cheaply.

SEATTLE, Wash, Feb. 18.—(Special.)—John Rosene, manager of the Northeastern Siberian Company, is now in New York, getting capital to back a gigantic scheme by which he hopes to create a salmon combine. It is generally understood that either Rosene or men friendly to his interests have bought out the plant of the Pacific Packing & Navigation Company. He is now negotiating for the entire line ocean-going steamships operated Captain E. E. Caine.

Rosene holds valuable concession from the Russian government, not the least of which are valuable salmon fisheries in Kamchatka. He can, with Chinese labor, pack salmon there for 12 cents per case, while it costs 42 cents per case on this side of the Pa-

HER LAST CLAM DUC

"Last of the Clatsops" Dies in Seaside Shanty.

MRS. MICHEL'S GREAT AGE

Father Hunted With Lewis and Clark, and She Remembered When Grimes' Grove Was Waste of Ocean Sand.

ASTORIA, Feb. 18 -- (Special.)-Mrs. Jennie Michel, a Clatsop Indian woman. who was commonly known as "the last of the Clatsops," died at her home near Seaside this morning. How old she was nobody knows definitely.

By some she is said to have been 106 years of age, but as near as can be judged from her own story she was born about 1819, and would thus have been 86 years old at the time of her death. Her Indian name was Tsin-is-tum, and her mother's name was Wasneask, but the name of her father she either would not tell or did not know. About 1835 Tsin-is-tum was married to Wah-tat-kum, the last chief of the Nehalem tribe, who died in 1860. Three years afterwards she mar-ried one Michel Martineau, a Canadian Frenchman, Her last husband was al-ways spoken of as Michel. So she was called Mrs. Michel and was given the "Boston" name of Jennie, Mrs. Michel claimed to have remember-ed when Dr. McLaughlin bombarded the Indian village at the mouth of the Co-lumbia River in 1829, saying she was a little girl at the time and that her father was killed during the bombardment. She also claimed that her father and uncle knew Lewis and Clark, and the latter went hunting with the explorers severa

A few years ago she pointed out the location of the Lewis and Clark salt cairs near the ocean beach, and said the Indians had often told her of the wilte men coming there to make sait, adding that she could remember when the spot where Grimes' Grove is situated was a waste of sand the trees having was a waste of sand, the trees having grown up since she was a young girl.
Mrs, Michel and a granddaughter of Chief Twilch, who lives at Bay Center,
Wash, are said to be the last of the fullblooded Clatsop Indians, a tribe that is now practically extinct.

OBJECT TO CUTTING MACHINE Workmen on Library Building Strike

Because of Planer. SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 18 .- (Special.)-A strike of stonecutters on the new public library building is now in force, although it is not expected to last long. The trouble arises because Cawsey & Carney, contractors of the building, have installed a stone planer to hurry the work along. The union cutters, although not objecting to the introduction of the planer at the time the firm placed an order for it, now declare they are unable to work in a yard where it is employed. The union men refuse to make a state-ment of their side of the case, while Mr. Cawsey does not hesitate to make plain all the facts in his possession.

"When we decided to make the purchase the union men came to us with a copy of the San Francisco yard rules, and asked us if we were willing to accept them. We informed them that we were, and placed our order," said he. "We were employing 25 stonecutters, and the fact that we have the machine will not in any way reduce the number or the wages, We are willing that union men should operate the machine and receive union wages and that all hand cutters shall continue at their work. However, we do not think it fair to allow us to place the order for the machine and then object to working with it."

School Exhibit for Fair.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Feb. 18 .- (Special.) -The Centralia public schools Friday afternoon were given a half holiday, the occasion being exhibit day, when work prepared for the Lewls and Clark Exposi-tion was shown to the parents and patrons of the schools. Every room prepared an exhibit. In the High School rooms pictures of all the athletic teams and graduating classes for the past three or four years were on exhibition. The rooms were full of visitors. Another exhibit day will be held later. Centralia has the largest school in the county that was named after Meriwether Lewis, and it is expected it should furnish a good exhibit. Credit is due Superintendent D. T. Van Tine and his teachers for the ex-
