By Will G. MacLean.
 SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—(Staff Correspondence.)—There was nothing to this afternoon's baseball match but "Virgil" Garvin. From the time he began bending them over in the initial inning until tea time, the slender Texan had the Seals at his mercy.

The fact that the Portland Giants won another 3-to-2 victory does not detract half of Garvin's work in the box. Garvin used his famous underhand curve, mixed with his fade-away ball, and when the official scorer got through with his day's work he credited him with nine strike-outs. In the seventh chapter Garvin retired the side, and in doing so he put only 11 balls over the plate. In this inning Irwin, Nealon and Gochmeyer faced him, and they all went back to the bench via the ozone route.

Facing Garvin was a youngster whom Henry Harris picked up out of the Oregon State League. His name is Henley. Like Garvin, he finished the game with only three hits registered against him, but if he had not had most sensational support he would have been chased to the woods by Portland's hard hitters.

One Hand Stops Double-Sackers.

Spencer and Walters robbed big McLean of at least two double-sackers by the new sensation today. It was by request that Garvin pitched today's game. Since he pitched and won his first game he has been studying the Seals' batting abilities, and he had their weakness down to a fine point, and if it had not been for the score of the four errors that were tossed into the game by McCredie's men, the Bay City ball-tossers would have been shut out.

There was also a bad decision at second that resulted in the gift of a run to the Seals. The same today was like that of yesterday. Portland had to come from behind to win. The Seals chased one run over the pan in the first inning, due to a throw that McLean let get away from him at the plate. The next run that Harris' crew reaped was in the third inning.

Giants Go After Davis.

After this the Seals were babes in Garvin's hands, and not a hit was made off him until the ninth chapter. While all this was going on those Giants were fighting like street gamins over a crap game.

Davis had his own troubles with the Portlanders after that decision at second, and they made him give them what was coming to them after that. Things floated along until the fifth inning. Then the big thing was cut loose. Housholder and Atz drew free transportation. Runkle attempted a bunt that Henley caught. Clark, whose batting eye is getting good, dropped a safe one over second and Housholder scored when Wilson let Walter's throw get away from him. Garvin flew out to Wilson.

Then Deacon Van Buren sent a grand-slammer that Gochmeyer let ramble between his legs, and Atz and Clark scored. Manager McCredie singled and Van Buren was caught at the plate by a whizzer on a splendid throw by Spencer. In the press box it looked as if Van Buren was safe, but Davis said no.

Two Games Today.

There will be two games here tomorrow, and the fans here who make a practice of betting on ball games are betting that Portland will take the series from the Seals. Bill Eslick will pitch the morning game, and it will be either French or Jones in the afternoon. Gilpatrick, who was released yesterday by Manager McCredie, has been signed by Russ Hitt, of Seattle. He pitched this afternoon, and although the Siwashes were shut out, Gilpatrick let Oakland down with only two hits.

BUTTE, Mont., April 8.—(Special.)—The telegraphic bowling contest between Butte, Salt Lake, Spokane, Seattle and Portland for April 14, is practically assured, as arrangements were received at the Thornton bowling alleys tonight from all the cities to the effect that those towns were enthusiastic over the match, and would be glad to enter according to the terms suggested.

San Francisco and Denver were expected to join the tournament, but these cities have not answered favorably, so only five teams will be in the contest.

Bowling will start at 8:30 o'clock in Butte and Salt Lake; at 7:30 o'clock in Spokane, Seattle and Portland, which will admit all the teams opening at the same hour.

The inter-city telegraphic bowling tournament to be held April 14 at the Oregon Bowling Alleys is the latest bee to buzz around Portland tenpin circles. This contest is arousing a great deal of interest among bowlers, and the event will be closely watched.

Portland will be well represented in this match, and will have a team that will land well up in the column if it does not win. The team, which will consist of five men, will be taken from the following players and from their average, made in 14 games. It can be seen that any one of them will be no mean opponent for any member of the other teams. The seven men, with their averages, follow:

McMenomy, 185; C. H. Hall, 132; El Capen, 135; P. G. Kneave, 126; C. J. Krusa, 125; F. A. Withers, 128; L. C. Keating, 117. The only teams really feared by Portland are San Francisco and Butte. Portland will be somewhat handicapped by bowling the games on new alleys, but the men are practicing every day, and hope to overcome this difficulty by Friday night. They are all rolling big scores daily, running from 220 to 300, and will enter the contest with the feeling that they have at least a good chance to win.

Manager Keating, of the Oregon Bowling Alleys, is now arranging to have a special wire run into the rooms on the night of the tournament, so that those in attendance can receive the returns from the other cities without delay. Under the terms of the tournament the result of each game will be telegraphed to all cities as soon as it is completed.

OARSMEN AT WORK

Coach Murphy Keeps Them in Training.

TEACHES FORM JUST NOW

Crew Goes Out in Shell and Has a Spill in the Willamette River, but With No Serious Result.

The end of this last week found the coaching season of the Portland Rowing Club well advanced. Dan Murphy has been kept busy with an average of five crews a day. The work so far has been light, Murphy killing off any desire on the part of the oarsmen to throw back into the stroke. He has indicated and gained his point on the men confining their work at this time to the acquirement of the stroke, and the week's coaching has been confined to teaching the men how to sit in the shell. Especial stress has been put on the finish of the stroke. Heretofore Portland has always finished well back, that is at the finish of the stroke the shoulders were always past the perpendicular. In Murphy's stroke the finish is made with the body perfectly erect, and the teaching of this has taken up the time so far. Of course, attention has also been paid to the catch and feather, as well as the other details of the stroke, and Murphy is well pleased with the general advancement shown.

No crews have been sorted out as yet, nor will any man be sorted upon to fill any one particular position in the crew for some time to come. Murphy's idea of early training carries with it the security of course as in past years. This crew might be said to be the senior as compared with the others, and it chanced to fall to its lot to have the first spill of the season. Last Thursday while in the coaching shell with Murphy in the coxswain's seat and returning from the island, the wind was sufficiently strong to roll the waves pretty high. As they neared Jones' mill the open boat began to fill. The redoubtable Dan, however, kept the crew at it and for once broke his promise that he would not make the boys work. With the air-tight compartment removed from the shell, however, it was but a short time until she suddenly started for McIntyre's land, with Murphy still sitting in his seat, but calling on the boys to hold to the boat. As each man jumped from his seat into the water he grabbed an outrigger and saved the shell from going down. With the water in the shell there was no chance to pull it ashore, so the boys called to one of the lumber vessels at the mill for help. Seeing the predicament a boat manned by sailors put off from the vessel to aid the crew, and after being in the water for 15 minutes they were taken to shore, where the shell was emptied. Injuncted by the mishap the crew got into the shell again and pulled back to the boathouse, a cold, shivering, but still ardent lot of oarsmen, with Murphy the cheeriest of them all. "That's what you've got to look for," was his only comment.

Several of the promised candidates have failed to appear yet, but this week it is expected to have at least eight or ten crews on the river. The old stagers "Dick" Hart and Percy Stowell are again stricken with the fever and appeared yesterday in a double as natty and spry as ever. Backed by the assurance of Murphy that they have just reached the time of life when a man is good with the sculls, the inexperience of their younger brother oarsmen fall to ruffle the serenity of their own consciousness, and it is in the cards that Hart and Stowell are still going to realize their life's ambition by defeating the Victoria men, even if it is in a Goube.

Eight-Mile Course and Exciting Finish Mark the Sport in Which Many Riders Participate for Ann Shogren Cup.

With a score of 11 points, E. B. Tongue, on Oregon Kid, won the Ann Shogren cup yesterday afternoon in an enjoyable run of the Portland Hunt Club, over a ten-mile course, starting from Nineteenth and Thompson streets and finishing on the boulevard, near the old water tower. The race was the third and last of the series, and although Mr. Tongue came in third his average was the highest in the series and he won out. The weather and ground were all that could be desired, and the trail was one of the best with very little brush work. The cup now becomes Mr. Tongue's property.

A large gallery was present, among those on horseback being Dr. Chapman and a delegation of his brother evangelists. They showed themselves to be excellent horsemen, and were there at the start and at the finish. They were the guests of H. C. Campbell.

The hares were Miss Ann Shogren and Mrs. F. G. Buffum, and those who

Four-Year-Old Gelding Clips Off Six and One-Half Seconds From the Record—Expedient Wins Two-Mile Event.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—The world's record for three miles was established by Elie today on the Oakland track, the distance being negotiated in 5:22. It was 21 years ago when Drake Carter hung up the record of 5:24 that has stood to the present time. The California record for the distance is clipped by six and one-half seconds. The new record holder is a 4-year-old gelding by St. Carlo-Juda, and is owned by C. Stuebenhard, Jr. Elie carried 100 pounds and was piloted by Jockey Jones.

Leggo, the favorite, was beaten by three-quarters of a length. Veterano was third.

Inspector Moore and Expedient stood even in the betting in the third race, a two-mile event. Although it looked during the first part of the race as if Expedient would lose the race he hung on gamely and came past the finish nearly a length ahead. The long-distance racing attracted a large crowd. No event on the card was less than one mile. Track fast, weather clear. Summary:

One mile—Tannhäuser won, J. V. Kirby second, Goldenrod third; time, 1:29.

One mile—Baker won, Golden Buck second, Maccete third; time, 1:49.

Two miles—Expedient won, Inspector Munro second, Ray third; time, 3:54.

Three miles—Elie won, A. Muddaday second, Veterano third; time, 5:22 (world's record).

One mile—Andrew Mack won, Hulford second, Telephone third; time, 1:29.

One mile—Morita won, A. Muddaday second, Sea Air third; time, 1:41.

LOS ANGELES WINS TWO TO ONE

Tigers Are Defeated in Stubbornly Contested Ten-Inning Game.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 8.—Today's game was another stubbornly fought ten-inning affair, which eventually went to Los Angeles by the score of 2 to 1. The game was remarkable in many respects, chief of which was that the Angels made 11 hits and but two runs, while the Tigers got but one hit, but managed to turn that into a run.

Goodwin pitched a great game for the locals, but retired in the first inning at the ninth at his own request, because he felt his arm growing sore. Hall took his place and was quite as effective as the little score. Position: Pitcher, Goodwin; catcher, Goodwin; first base, Hall and Spies; second base, Barry; third base, Perrine.

OAKLAND, Cal., April 8.—Oakland shut out Seattle today through the inability of the visitors to hit Graham, who was in fine form. Oakland got in two runs in the first inning without a sacrifice, and in the fourth Dunleavy hit for four bases. The score:

COLUMBIA DEFEATS PORTLAND.

In a hard-fought game the Columbia University barely defeated the Portland Academy's baseball team yesterday, and it took the full nine innings for the university to claim victory by the score of 8 to 7.

The runs were made in such a way as to give life to the game all through, and with the batting and fanning out, the game was an interesting one for the spectator. The line-up was:

BASEBALL GAME TODAY.

Unless the weather man changes the order of Portland's climatic conditions for the past week, Multnomah will pull off its first club league games today. The "Jack Rabbits" vs. the "Dark Horses" are scheduled to appear on the diamond at 10 o'clock and the "Irish Giants" are billed to go against the "Little Potatoes" at 11:15. This will really mark the start of Multnomah's baseball season since the game scheduled for the two preceding Sundays were postponed owing to rain. But little practice was done this last week, owing to the work being done in putting the diamond into shape. Following the games today the candidates for the first team will work out a little, and beginning Monday night under the instructions issued by Manager Honeyman, everybody will get out for nightly practice. "Chief" Murphy has been stealing a little practice on the sly.

Manager Honeyman has received a reply from Salem stating that the team there is ready to meet Multnomah on any date set. Seattle is just beginning to get its team into shape, and that game will be announced later.

The tour of the club's team through Victoria, Everett, Seattle and Spokane is now being arranged.

Normal School Wins Debate.

MONMOUTH, Or., April 8.—(Special.)—One of the series of debates in the Inter-collegiate Oratorical League was held here last night between McMinnville College and the State Normal School. The question under discussion was, "Resolved, That Reciprocity is a Better Method of Regulating Our International Commerce Than Protective Tariff."

The decision was unanimous for the negative, which was held by the State Normal team.

stant changing of positions, so that the stroke of today may be the number 3 man of tomorrow and the bow man is just as apt to be called upon to go in at stroke. This is another new feature to Portland, since in past years when the crew was made up the men were then assigned to their positions and kept them throughout the season. With the continual changing, however, it enables the coach to get a better line on the men and assure himself of just what position they can best fill. Aside from that, it gives the men a wider experience in the shell and protects the club against the loss of a man in the case of a breakdown in the crew, since it will provide substitutes for any position.

Of last year's crew the stalwart and broad-shouldered senior bow, George Leach, is the only one to have appeared in the jersey this year. With Duncan, Schmid, the crack single, and Montgomery, he has occupied his old position in the bow of the shell during the week and has shown the same cunning eye and number of hits, the soldiers proved their fielding and playing ability by scoring eight runs as against three. Hill's boys secured nine hits, with the High School close after them with eight, but the latter failed to get the men around the cushions. The feature of the game was the clever pitching of Clifford for the Military, and had it not been for two luckless errors on the part of the fielders he would have won his game with only one tally against him. Fulton, of the Military, Reed, Ott and Goodell of the High School also played a good game.
