GRATEFUL FOR SUPPORT.

MAYOR WILLIAMS THANKS HIS FRIENDS FOR THEIR EFFORTS.
Mayor Williams said last night that he was grateful to his friends for their support. Among his most active workers were members of the Young Men's Regular Republican Club, of which Jay H. Upton is president and Dr. E. C. Slocum secretary. Before that organization Mayor Williams made his only speech of the primary campaign. The club had its workers at all the polls yesterday, tolling in behalf of Williams.
In several wards were keen competitions for Ward Councilmen, notably in Ward 8, where Bennett defeated Wheeler by 25 votes, and in the Tenth where Shaffer won from Robinson by seven votes. One of the surprises to which the liquor element was treated was the defeat of Fanno in the Fifth by Masters by 59 votes, and one of the surprises met with by the reform element was the nomination of L. M. (Larry) Sullivan in the Second, who defeated Wagner by 52 votes. Another noteworthy outcome was the nomination of Shepherd in the Fourth over Bentley by 258 votes.

CURIOS IN MOUNDS

TELL OF PREHISTORIC DAYS

Albany Archeologist Makes Discoveries.

Skulls, Moonstick, Oar, Mortars, Pestles and Beads Unearthed Prove Visit of Alaska Indians.

ALBANY, Or., May 6.—(Special.)—J. G. Crawford, Albany's archeologist, who has one of the best collections of curios from the prehistoric age to be found in the state, yesterday opened a mound a few miles from Albany and secured some valuable additions to his collection. The mound is a large one, 48 by 100 feet. Yesterday's search was rewarded by finding four skulls, many of the other bones from the human body, three moonsticks, an oar, mortars and pestles, beads and many other things. The most noteworthy among the articles is perhaps the oar. It is made of bone and is engraved with the carvings that are found on articles of like nature and material in Alaska. This has led to the belief that some of the Indians in the mound came from the Northern clime.
On one of the jaws the skin was clinging, having been preserved by contact with the copper beads which were buried with the warrior. There was also considerable coarse hair preserved in like manner.
The skulls, says Mr. Crawford, indicate that the Indians lived in the iron age, with the exception of one, who was a Flathead, and evidently out of place in this mound. All the bodies in the mound were buried with the knees drawn up close to the chin. The bodies were placed within three feet of each other, the space between being filled compactly with dirt.
There have now been 12 skeletons taken from this mound, many of them of good state of preservation. Mr. Crawford has been a close student of the aborigines who preceded the white people in the Oregon country, and has been active in opening and exploring the Indian mounds in this vicinity, and says there are enough of them to keep him busy for years. Between Albany and Astoria, along the banks of the Calapooia River, are located fully 100 of these strange mounds. In many of them are found no bones or other indications of a burrowing ground, but instead there are what appear to be clay ovens for cooking, etc. In most of them, however, bones of dead warriors are believed to have found their last resting-place.

FEAR FOR THE CHEHALIS.

SIMPSON'S BARKENTINE IS OUT 102 DAYS FROM PHILIPPINES.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—(Special.)—Some anxiety is being felt for the safety of the barkentine Chehalis, which sailed from Cebu, Philippine Islands, 103 days ago for Willapa Harbor. The vessel sailed in command of Captain Simpson, a son of the founder of the Simpson Lumber Company, which corporation owns the craft.
The Chehalis sailed from the Oriental port about the beginning of the typhoon season, and there is fear that she might have become disabled in one of the storms, though she is a staunch, well-built vessel. The voyage has been made in about half the time the Chehalis has been at sea. The winds, however, in that part of the Pacific that she would sail through are very uncertain, and it is possible she is being obliged to make her way against contrary gales, or to roll idly for days in a calm.
