ton and High O. R. & N. Officials Talk on Irrigation Past and Prospective.

ECHO Or., May 6 .- (Staff Correspondce.)-Boom! Boom! Bang! The weary who had swung through the night from Portland over the O. R & lifted their heads, raised the curtains the car windows and gazed out over the landscape. On the one hand sloped hills covered with sparse and rapidly owning verdure, crowned here and there with bunches of sage brush, on the other reached a few newly graveled streets, dotted with groups of houses now a store, then a residence or a hall. Bang! Out on the common a spit of up the scene and disclosed shadowy forms of chaps grouped around the anvil which was being used to cele brate the fact that Echo was the host of a Governor, a Senator, a railway The first gray dawn was just beginning to climb over the hills on the east, but town was astir and the rising clouds of dust along the converging roadways

It was a day of history in Echo and PRINCIPAL IS TOO ATHLETIC one important to the citizens of Umatilla County as an index of what interest is being shown in the section by the executive people of the state from a politicul and a business standpoint. in the day the streets were thronged e to attend the convention wagons and rigs of all kinds followed the band and the guesta of the day to the grove near the town where the proof the day was to be heard.

Arreor Esteb welcomed the guests to and of Umatilla County, addressing them as friends and brothers rather thun as guests. Then the La Grande Quartet ernor Chamberlain was introduced.

Address by the Governor.

The Governor spoke, as always the case, in a happy vein. He called to mind the progress of Echo and of Umatilla ity, and said that it all came as the wal result of the community of interest on his part of the citizens, each and every one of whom talked and worked continually for the advancement and progress of his home country in all things. It came from not knowing the meaning of llure and from a faith in the future of the country. If the spirit was main- her resignation, tained in the future, as it had been in the past, Echo would soon be the center of a vast reach of highly developed land, rous and happy.

The speaker then turned to the irriga- Husband Tries Spell on Wife in Thetion subject and told of his efforts for the open ditch in Oregon. result the work of the O. R. & N. had had in the development. He showed by statis-tics that Oregon compared favorably with any of the states in the matter of its growth, both in population and in wealth and volume of production.

Railroad Adds to Values.

Prior to the advent of the railroads into he Northwest, said the speaker, the average value of farms here was $2900, while that 14 per cent of the wool and 15 per cent of the sheep raised in the United States were the products of the North west, while 16 per cent of the lumber of the United States was produced in the Northwest. Of shingles, 53 per cent of the total production of the country had been sent from here. He also showed that Oregon had 39 miles of railroad to every 10,000 people, which indicated that the state compared favorably with the Eastern States in regard to mileage.

W. W. Cotton spoke of the scientific side of farming, and compared the strength of alfalfa as a stock food with wheat, corn and other grain, showing its superiority. Then he turned to the question of irrigaon, and arraigned the reclamation serv ice, saying that the country needed not so much scientific engineers as an executive engineer at the head of the depart-

They went to Matheur, Klamath and Harney Counties and found private enterprise, as was also the case in the Deschutes district. They wanted these people to give what they had accomplished to the Government.

What we want is to have the repre entatives of the state in Congress put their shoulders to the wheel and get some man at the head of the reclamation department who will do something. We want the men of push and of power of execution. Then in place of a picnic sere of 1000 people we will have a gathering of 10,000, and a prosperous and productive country."

Jefferson Myers spoke on the work of the Lewis and Clark Exposition; Tom Richardson, of what the Oregon Development League had done and would do for Oregon, T. G. Halley, of Pendleton, uator W. M. The meeting from first to last was a great success, more than 1000 people being in attendance from the outside districts. It is felt here that a spirit has been created which will spread and expand until it will force the reclamaion of all of the arid acres reaching along the banks of the Columbia and the Umatilla, throughout the basins of Umatilla and Morrow Counties.

No Arrests Made in State Land Fraud Cases.

WAITING GAME IS PLAYED

Names of Men Indicted Have Not Been Disclosed-District Attorney Appears Confident of His Position.

SALEM, Or., May #:- (Special.)-No arrests have yet been made upon the indictments returned two weeks ago by the Marion County grand jury which investigated state land transactions. Neither have there been any an-nouncements of the names of the persons indicted nor of the reasons why sons indicted nor or the reasons who arrests have been made. Absolute secrecy has been maintained by the District Attorney and the State Land Agent and the only information the public has been able to get is such as comes from rumors purporting to be founded upon remarks dropped by dif-ferent parsons connected with the in-

It is known that a number of persons It is known that a number of persons were indicted and it is practically certain that S. A. D. Puter was among them, for he openly admitted the character of the transactions in which he was involved. Puter is now in the East. The fact that no arrests have been made lends to the conclusion that all the leading defendants in the land fraud cases are nonresidents and fraud cases are nonresidents and that the arrests are being delayed because the prosecution hopes they will return to Oregon without involving the state in the cost of extradition. Since the indictments have been returned, the the indictments have been returned, the statute of limitations has ceased to run and the prosecution apparently feels that its case is more likely to be strengthened by the discovery of evidence than to be weakened by the loss of evidence. The delay, however, seems not to be worrying the District Attorney or State Land Agent.

The defendants have not been idle, however. One man who is supposed to be among those indicted, and who has been charged with signing fictitious names to applications for the purchase names to applications for the purchase of state land, has been trying to locate the men whose names appear upon the applications. With a list of the names alleged to have been forged, he re-cently went among his friends and tried to fin1 some one who would say that he knew the men answering to those names. So far as known, he has been unable to secure testimony supporting his claim that the men really exist.

The prosecution expects to show by handwriting experts that all the signa tures in the questionable applications were written by one or two persons: were written by one or two persons; that no men by the names given were ever known in this vicinity; that no men by such names can be located by reference to directories from various parts of the county, and that men were not registered at Salem hotels under such names at the time the applications were made

OLYMPIA, Wash. May 6.—(Special.)
—Following a conference held this afternoon, Assistant Land Commissioner H. P. Niles and Assistant Attorney-General A. J. Falknor, Governor Mead announced that he would take no action concerning the protest of Engineer T. A. Noble, of the Government Reclamation Bureau, against the selection by the State Land Commissioner of 55,000 acres of arid lands in the Yakima Valley.

"The selection was made under the previous administration, and it has now progressed so far and at so much expense that I do not see my way clear to take any action antagonistic to the enterprise at this late day," said the Governor. "The showing made by Mr. Noble in his letter to me does not seem sufficient to cause the abandonment of the state's project. If we get the land we can then deal with the Government Reclamation Bureau.
