Heavy rains continue, considerably retarding the work of relief, Various reports have been received here of severe storms in this section last hight and today, but no definite information has been received. Rumors, however, serve to excite the people, many of whom are already on the verge of col-lapse. To add to the distress hardly a dry room can be found in the town and there is fear that sickness may follow the continued exposure.

SANTA FE CASE AT ISSUE

Talk of Cabinet Split, but Moody Refuses to Tell Its Status.

His denial came as an answer to a printed report to the effect that he would leave the Cabinet this Fail. He said, however, that it was thoroughly understood between the President and himself that he should leave the Cabinet next Fail.

dent and himself that he should leave the Cabinet next Fall.

Mr. Morton's friends intimate that his plans for the future are "indefinite." an expression that fits exactly to the probable demands of the situation here as it affects the Secretary of the Navy and the Cabinet situation, which has risen to such importance over the railroad rate question as to be called here a "Cabinet crisis."

White Mr. Morton's speech before the International Railroad Congress is the basis for most of the rumors of disagreement between himself and the President, the real acute situation lies in the Santa Fe investigation now being conducted by Judson S. Harmon, attorney of the Department of Justice. The friends of Mr. Morton insist that the breach between the President and Mr. Morton over the rate question is not nearly so wide as is reported and that Mr. Morton over the rate question is not nearly so wide as is reported and that Mr. Morton over the rate question is not nearly so wide as is reported and that Mr. Morton over the rate question is not nearly so wide as is reported and that Mr. Morton over the rate question is not nearly so wide as is reported and that Mr. Morton over the rate question is not nearly so wide as is reported and that Mr. Morton over the rate question is not nearly so wide as is the President and Mr. Morton over the rate question is not nearly so wide as is reported and that Mr. Morton is really in favor of railroad rate legislation.

On the other hand, the action of Attorney-General Moody concerning the Santa Fe rebate case is significant. He declined today to give the status of that case before the Department of Justice, but a long conference with the President yesterday is believed to have been devoted in part to this question. in part to this question.
