Grand Military Parade Will Be Inspiring and Brilliant Spectacle.

BANQUET IN THE EVENING

Fireworks From the Pontoons Guild's Lake Will Begin at 8:30 o'Clock at Night and Will Be Gorgeous Display.

Now that the plans for the magnificent military parade have been perfected. Colnel Steever and his aides who have lapored so faithfully in an earnest and concentrated effort to make the affair an unprecedented success, are anxiously awaiting the opening day, hoping that unfavorable weather will in no way affect or mar the grandeur of the parade. There is no doubt that it will be the most notable military event in the history of the Northwest, and those army officers who will participate feel that they have been highly honored. Early in the morning of June 1, the opening day of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, the several different military orcentrated effort to make the affair an opening day of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, the several different military organizations, including the regular troops, National guards and cadets, will march through the streets of Portland to assemble in the vicinity of the Hotel Portland. At 9:20 o'clock Vice-President Fairbanks and President H. W. Goode will be conducted by an escort of the Fourth

United States Cavairy from President Goode's residence to the point where the parade forms.

Start of Parade.

The parade starts at 10 o'clock from the Hotel Portland, and after marching over the route which has been announced, en-ters the Exposition grounds through the Twenty-eighth-street and Thurman-avenue entrance, and thence along the St. Helens road to the New York State build-ing, where it is expected it will arrive at 11:30 o'clock.

The cavalry and infantry, with bands,

The cavalry and infantry, with bands, then march to positions assigned them in the vicinity of the ceremonial platform by Grand Marshal Colonel Steevers, while the artillery follows the Trail and crosses the Bridge of All Nations to the Peninsula, where 't prepares to fire the military salutes when signalled.

A committee composed of three of the directors of the Lewis and Clark Exposition will excort ladies of the Congressional party in carriages to President Goode's residence. Twentieth and Flanders streets, where they call for Mrs. Fairbanks and Mrs. Goode and excort them to the Exposition grounds. Seats will be reserved for the ladies and their escorts in front, of the ceremonial platform.

At 11:45 the Vice-President, Congressional committee and the other promined sional committee and the other prom-inent guests, walk from the New York building to the ceremonial platform. It is expected that the opening ceremo-nies will have been concluded by 1:30 P. M., when the official guests will re-pair to the New York building for re-

Dinner in New York Building.

The dinner in the New York building in honor of the Vice-President and the Congressional committee, given them by the Exposition directorate, will be at 7 o'clock at night. The reception follows in the Pavilion Annex to the New York building.

The administration band will give a concert in the bandstand at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. At 7:30 o'clock at night Innes and his band will render a programme in the band stand. The fireworks from pontoons in Guild's Lake will begin at 8:30 o'clock at night.

The following is the line of formation of the parade, which starts from the Hotel Portland at 10 o'clock, June 1; Platoon of mounted police; Grand Marshal E. Z. Steever and staff; color guards carrying National, Lewis and Guards carrying National, Lewis and Clark and regimental standards of the Fourth United States Cavalry; Fourth Cavalry Band; First Squadron of Fourth Cavalry; Vice-President Fair-banks and President Goode and parties; Congressional and other official parcies; Fourteenth United States Infantry Eighteenth United States Battery of Field Artillery; National Guards; cadets and platoon of mounted police.

It has not been definitely decided whether the two companies of the Tenth Infantry from San Francisco will participate in the parade. Colonel Steever may find it necessary to detail them as guards of the grandstand in which the opening-day ceremonies will be held. It has also not been settled whether Battery A of the Oregon Na-tional Guard will take part in the pa-rade. These details will be settled

For the Benefit Solely of the Portland Consolidated Railway.

WOULD BAR ALL OTHERS

If Voted for by a Majority of the Electors Corporation Could Have Blanket Franchises on New Streets.

Should the street-car amendment to the city charter not be rejected by the voters of the city in the election next week, opportunity will be given the Portland Consolidated Rallway Company to secure exclusive use of more streets and to disregard the Council's new charter power of compelling that ompany to allow joint use of new tracks to other companies.

Whereby hangs suspicion of graft by the street car company; at least of an amendment gotten up in the interest of the Consolidated Company, which holds a street-car monopoly in the business districts of the city, wherein the municipality may desire to admit competing companies in the future.

Effect of Amendment.

Effect of Amendment.

The Council has no power to compel joint use of tracks under the blanket franchises which were granted before the present charter went into effect, but it has that power over franchises granted since that time. In downtown streets, where it is necessary for accompeting company to gain access, the Council cannot compel the Consolidated Company to yield the use of its old tracks to such a competitor, because the Consolidated Company holds franchises to those tracks under the terms of the old charter. Nor will it have the charter power to compel joint use of the Consolidated Company's new tracks, if the proposed pany's new tracks, if the propo amendment should be enacted by the people's votes. The new charter says: "The Council of the City of Portland shall have at all times power . . . to compel the owners of two or more such roads (car lines) using or having the right to use the same streets, bridges or elevated roadways, for any distance not exceeding five blocks over said street and over the entire length of bridges and elevated roadways, to use the same tracks and to divide the cost of construction and the cost of main thereof equitably between them."

Terms of the Joker.

The old charter contained no such provision, nor do the blanket franchises of the Consolidated Company, which will ex-pire December 31, 1932.

The proposed amendment would give the street-car company opportunity to acquire franchises on new streets without the restriction imposed by the present escaped notice of nearly every person who has read it, and which appears to be "loaded" for the benefit of the Consolidated Street Rallway Company, towit;

"Provided further, that the franchise or franchises under which such person or corporation is operating such lines of railway so to be connected, shall in all re-spects be deemed embodied in and an in-tegral part of such grant, as though expreasly embodied in and made an integral part of the ordinance granting such rights."

This means that the franchises to be granted under the amendment shall be granted on the same terms as the bianket franchises; or at least that the Coun-cil shall have authority to grant new franchises on those terms, despite the present restrictions of the charter Bars All Competitors.

Competitors of the Consolidated Railcompetitors of the Consolidated Kall-way Company need access to the business district of the West Side. But in that direction the Consolidated Company now occupies nearly all the streets. And becoccupies nearly all the streets. And because of the narrowness of the streets, that company owns franchises which are practically exclusive. First street is in joint use with the Oregon Water Power & Railway Company. But Second, Third and Fifth streets are in control of the Consolidated Company, and Fourth is oc-cupled by the Southern Pacific. Therefore the principal streets running north and south through the heart of the city are closed to competition; likewise Mor-rison and Washington streets, whereon the Consolidated Company runs its cars.
A franchise on Stark street has been granted for the Hillsboro line, but it is not exclusive, like the franchises of the Consolidated Company.

Consequently, the only street that runs into the center of the city which is open to a competitive company is Alder, and should the proposed amendment be en-acted and the authority of the Council to acted and the authority of the Council to compet joint use of car tracks repealed, the Consolidated Company would have opportunity to monopilize that street also, and that by building a track not along its entire length but only for one or two blocks.

The amendment was proposed in Charter Board meeting last November The amendment was proposed in the Charter Board meeting last November by J. N. Teal, who explained that it had been included in the first draft of the charter, but had been accidentally left out of the finished product. His testimony was corroborated by A. L. Mills, president of the Charter Board, president of the Charter Board, president of the Consolidated Railroad Company and afterward Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Oregon Legislature. The amendment was recommended to the Multnomah delegation in the Legislature for enactment and was fathered at Salem by Speaker Mills.
