ON THE EVE OF THE ELECTION

Summary of the Questions at Issue Between Candidates.

SUBJECTS FOR THE VOTERS

How Each Side Has Managed Its Campaign and Has Striven to Develop Strength for Its Nominees.

PROPOSITIONS FOR THE VOTERS.

Questions for tomorrow's city election: Election of Mayor, Auditor, Treasurer, City Attorney, Municipal Judge, Five Councilmen-at-Large and ten Ward Councilmen. Annexation of territory between Portland and St. Johns. Annexation of territory between Portland and Mount Tabor. Two-mill tax for gulch bridges. Changing method of granting franchises to street-car companies for connecting tracks and 1200 feet extensions. Securing city deposits with marketable securities instead of with indemnity bonds. Raising salary of Clerk of Police Court from $75 to $100 a month. Imposing 15 per cent penalty on delinquent street and sewer assessments. Decreasing cost of advertising assessments. Granting automatic telephone franchise to new company. Prohibiting liquor traffic in Precincts 37, 40, 41, 44, 54, 55, 56, 57, East Side.

Political campaigning ended last night after a campaign two weeks' long. Now it remains to cast the votes tomorrow from 8 A. M. to 7 P. M., and then to count the ballots to learn who are the electors of the city who will grant a telephone franchise to a new company and to ordain prohibition in eight precincts on the East Side. Chief of interest in the election of Mayor is the contest for that place lies between George H. Williams, Republican and incumbent, and Dr. Harry Lane, Democrat. Next in the fight for Mayor has been that for Municipal Judge, between George J. Cameron, Republican; T. R. McDevitt, Independent-Republican-Citizen; and Charles Petrain, Democrat. Next of note has been the contest for seats in the Council. For three other officers there has been little or no opposition in the Republican nominees, and they will undoubtedly be elected—L. A. McNary, for City Attorney; J. E. Werlein, for Treasurer; T. C. Devlin, for Auditor—all of whom now hold those respective places in the city government.

Campaign Follows Two Lines.

Consequently the campaign has followed two lines, one toward the Mayoralty, the other toward the Council. The two branches of the city government have equally important functions, and the several elements that have toiled to gain control of city affairs have kept this steadily in mind. And what are the elements that have toiled?

On the one side, Republican, allied with conservative anti-closed-town forces, supporting Williams; on the other, Democratic, allied with "reform" closed-town elements, the Municipal Association and the "citizens" organization, supporting Dr. Lane. These two groups have tickets for the most part distinct from each other, only five of the nominees for the 29 offices being common between them—George D. Dunning, for Third Ward Councilman; W. Y. Masters, for Fifth Ward Councilman; A. N. Wilk, for Councilman-at-Large; L. A. McNary, for City Attorney; J. E. Werlein, for Treasurer. That Williams made gains last week is everywhere admitted, even by Democrats themselves; Prohibitionists who are neutral between the two "whisky" parties, confirm it. The appearance of the Mayor in his six campaign speeches and at the Lewis and Clark Fair on the opening day showed him to be a man of physical vigor and intellectual power unimpaired despite his 52 years. His stump speeches everywhere were as cordially received as they were well delivered, though it is to be said in Dr. Lane's favor that the latter, as a rule, had larger audiences. Prohibs Are Active.

Prohibitionists have a candidate for Mayor in R. L. Paget, and a full ticket of nominees for all the other offices, and have sturdily refused to join hands with the reform element under the Democratic banner of Lane. Socialists also have a ticket, headed by J. W. Strickland, candidate for Mayor. The two minority parties, however, are expected to cast not more than 1500 votes out of a possible 16,000, or at most not more than 3000. Therefore Williams and Lane will probably have between 12,000 and 14,000 votes, 7000 of which will elect. Under normal circumstances, 8000 Democratic votes might be cast for Lane, but for various reasons, conceded by Democratic leaders, chiefly defection of the liquor vote, he is not expected to poll more than a safe 2000 Democratic votes. Hence Dr. Lane would seem to need some 8000 Republican votes. Lane relies on the Municipal Association, the "Citizens" organization and all enemies of the present administration to bring him that number. Democrats have never failed to point out that their candidate drew the larger crowds and have extracted much satisfaction therefrom. Dr. Lane made a series of good stump speeches. He has not the facility of Williams nor the climactic He is not an embellished speaker. He indulged in remarks which the Williams supporters resented as tinged too much with the slanders of Williams' foes, but which seemed to satisfy his admirers. Ranor of Campaign.

The campaign brought out considerable ranor on both sides, but no more than might be expected under the circumstances. It did not heat up to the degree that was expected. Mayor Williams' foe circulated "graft" stories, which he denounced as slanderous and scurrilous; they said that the city had been robbed of money by contractors, which the Mayor took pains to disprove one by one. They said he was "too old," and this his Honor sought to refute by vigorous exhibitions on the stump; they scored the system in force a year ago of firing gamblers, and this Mayor Williams has met by explaining that the system was necessary at that time on account of a depleted city treasury.

This system was the storm center of all the opposition to Williams. His enemies have engaged in a two-year onslaught against him on that issue. When foiled in their effort to defeat his nomination last month, they bolted to the Democratic candidate, Lane. This reform element has kept the city

WAITERS STRIKE AT THE BANQUET

Demanded Extra Pay When the Vice-President Was Entertained.

LAST COURSES NOT SERVED

Luckily Hour for Reception Had Arrived and Hasty Adjournment Prevented Fact Becoming Generally Known.

Unknown to the guests at the brilliant banquet and reception held at the New York building last Thursday, on the opening day in honor of Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks, 25 waiters, employed for the occasion, went on a strike and took off their aprons while the guests were seated at the table, and left the building. At the time the strike occurred the dinner was nearly over, only two courses remaining to be served. The guests were waiting for the next course when the Vice-President was informed that the time set for the reception in the annex had arrived, and he, desiring to be punctual, arose from the table. His example was followed by all those present, and the guests repaired to the reception-room, while in the culinary departments below a stormy scene was in progress between the waiters and those who had the dinner in charge.

The waiters insisted that they be paid $5 for serving the banquet and that they receive extra for their attendance at the reception. Bruno Pindel, the caterer, taking the stand that they had been employed to serve both the banquet and the reception at $5, refused to accede to their demands, whereupon the men took off their aprons and departed. The guests, who were enjoying the elaborate spread which had been served them in the dining-room, were entirely unaware of the trouble, and luckily the desire of the Vice-President to be punctual at the reception prevented the humiliation of the hostesses of the banquet. It was only by the merest chance that the Vice-President was apprised of the
