some on Portland Heights. On Monday afternoon she entertained in honor of Mrs. Shindler and Mrs. Shindler's friend, Mrs. Hodgson, from the East, who is about returning home. Bridge was played, and a social good-bye extended to Mrs. Hodgson. Mrs. Pratt Brown, of New York, came in late, and an opportunity was afforded the Portland ladies to meet her in a delightfully informal manner.

On Thursday, Mrs. Beebe entertained 30 young people in honor of Miss Lucie Luse, of New York, who has already made warm friends among the younger set in Portland society.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Du Mond were the honor guests on Tuesday at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Burns. Other guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ainsworth, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd, Mrs. Minot, Roderick Macleay, Miss Burns and Dr. Jefferds. Sweet peas were used for table decorations. Mrs. Burns wore a handsome gown of black with garniture of jet.

Miss Sadie Bennett, of Tacoma, who has been the guest of Miss Charlotte Whalley for a number of weeks, returned home last Sunday, to the regret of her many friends in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Fleischer had a little week-end party at their new beach house at Seaside last week, with Mr. Sanford Hirsch as their guest. Mr. Fleischer went down again this week, and he and Mrs. Fleischer intend making frequent visits there during the summer, and will generally be accompanied by friends, who will share their hospitality.

President and Mrs. H. W. Goode, of the Exposition, have received a cordial invitation to become guests of Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks in Washington next winter. Mrs. Goode gave two delightful dinner parties to the Fairbanks party while they were in town week before last, and had planned a large reception in their honor for Friday evening of the week they were here, but owing to the brevity of their stay she was unable to carry out her plans. At her dinner of Wednesday evening the guests were Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fairbanks, Mr. Frederick Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. Carey, Senator and Mrs. Clark, Senator and Mrs. McBride, and Senator and Mrs. Fulton. The table was beautiful with elegant silver and masses of red roses. On Friday at dinner she entertained the Vice-Presidential party, and on this occasion also Portland roses held the place of honor in the decorations.

At the dinner given to the railroad men and their ladies early in the week there was a noticeable lack of Portland women.

Mrs. R. E. Wilson gave a card party yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Du Mond and Mrs. Washburn.

Mrs. Walter Burrell's home in Hawthorne avenue was the scene of a parlor talk on Friday afternoon, given by Mrs. Emily Noble, of San Francisco, on "Key-note to Perfect Health." Mrs. Noble is her of invitations will be issued. In the receiving line will be Governor and Mrs. Chamberlain, President Myers, of the State Commission, and Mrs. Myers, and other prominent people.

On Monday evening there will be a reception by Exposition officials to the visiting California Promotion Committee, 120 strong. This will take place in the New York building.

On Thursday, from 2 to 5, a reception in honor of the California Promotion Committee will be given in the state building, to which 500 invitations are being issued. Ladies are not asked.

Mr. Fletcher, Commissioner for California, has just received an honorary medal and diploma from President Francis, of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, for the efficiency of his services there.

There has been a mistake in announcing the date for the dedication of the California building. It will not be dedicated on the 12th of June, as has been reported. The Commissioners have not yet fixed the date.

A dinner of about 50 covers was given last evening at the Portland Hotel by Mr. Harada, the Japanese commissioner, in honor of Exposition officials. No invitations were issued to ladies.

Among well-known Missouri women who will be entertained in Portland during the Summer are: Mrs. Richard Bland, widow of the famous Congressman; Miss Pearl Mitchell, of Columbia, and Miss Hattie Gordon, all three of whom are honorary Commissioners for their state.

The California hostesses are enthusiastic over the cordial hospitality of Portlanders. Especially do they feel delighted with the courtesy of the ladies who furnish them daily with bunches of fine roses for their building. "I never knew of such a lovely and delightful courtesy in all the Expositions I have attended before," says Mrs. Wiggins.

Tuesday will be Yale night at the New York State building. Commissioner Pratt Brown has made a roster of the Yale men in town, and to the number of 40 they will be his guests at dinner, and will, later in the evening, smoke cob pipes of strictly Yale design, drink beer from steins which would do credit to Yale dormitory, and tell stories of good old Yale times, suitable for Yale ears. And to think that no ladies may be invited!

Next Thursday, the hostesses of the California building, Mrs. Wiggins and Mrs. Fletcher, give a formal reception in honor of Mrs. Pardee from 3 until 5 o'clock. Several hundred invitations will be issued. There will be music and refreshments. Several Portland ladies have been asked to receive with the California hostesses, and will alternate with them in line. This seems an admirable arrangement, and the reception ought to BEST ENGRAVED WEDDING and Calling Cards AT W. G. SMITH & CO. Washington Building. FOURTH AND WASHINGTON.

The most notable social event of the past week was the dinner given on Friday evening in honor of Mrs. H. W. Goode, in the New York State building. The New York State Commission, represented by Mr. and Mrs. Pratt A. Brown, Mrs. W. W. Brown and Miss Luce, acted the part of host. The table was in the shape of a square letter U, this giving two long sides and one shorter. Three tanks, representing miniature lakes, occupied the three sections, the long ones being 16 feet in length and the short one ten feet, and all three being about two feet in width. Moss and ferns covered the edges and tiny islands of ferns dotted the surface of the lakes. Gold fish shimmered in the water, and "mock" turtles and fluffy ducks bobbed here and there. Tiny lights of green and red glinted across the water and out from the green. At the four corners of the table were masses of rich red roses, and to relieve the flat lines, two large brass candle fixtures, three and a half feet high, in the shape of cranes, stood at either end of the short side. Red and green lights were half hidden in the masses of roses, and rich silk shades covered the large bulbs at the ceiling of the room. A long-stemmed American heavy rose lay at each lady's plate, and a boutonniere of white carnations at the men's.

Favors for the ladies were dainty brooches of gold, in the form of wreaths, with a tiny diamond or pearl at the top and the seal of New York in the center. The men had sterling silver match-boxes with the state seal of New York on one side. Impromptu speeches were made by Mayor Williams, Mr. Pratt Brown and President Goode. After the dinner there were 12 dances, winding up with the Virginia reel.

Many beautiful gowns were worn. Mrs. Goode wore a picture gown of emerald velvet, the ground a celine color and the figure in white. It was trimmed with a bodice trim and vest front of rose point lace, with garniture of brilliants. She wore ornaments of pink coral.

Mrs. Brown was strikingly handsome in a dress of yellow satin mirror crepe de chine, hand embroidered in white and yellow, and trimmed with rose point. She wore pearl neck ornaments and a Uza of pearls and diamonds. Mrs. W. Brown was in black crepe de chine, trimmed with spangled jet lace. Her jewels were diamonds. Miss Luce wore white silk muslin, with Valenciennes trimmings.

Humorous Lectures at the Marquam Grand Theater Saturday Evening, June 17, 1905, beginning at 8:15 P.M. Admission 25c and 50c

The lecture will deal with "The Power of the Cartoon" and the part it plays in American politics. No living cartoonist is so well equipped as Mr. Davenport to handle this inexhaustible and timely subject in an entertaining and instructive manner, illustrating as he does each lecture with the caricatures that have made him famous throughout the world. That he has no peer either as a cartoonist or platform story teller is admitted by the press and the public.
