Line of Advance Makes Russian Fortified Positions Untenable.

MONTHS OF LABOR WASTED

Another Week's Progress Will Find Russians Compelled to Abandon Lines of Kuntsuling - Six Routes to the North.

LONDON, June 24.-The effort on the part of Field Marshal Oyama's army in Manchurla may not have been much of the war experts have been taken some-what by surprise by the suddenness with which the renewed attacks upon General Linievitch were begun. Many of them have been led to believe that the opposing armies were miles distant from each other and only through the mention of places where the latest come enabled to correctly figure out the positions of the Japanese forces.

It now appears the Liao River is between toom and thereby they are in a general engagement has not begun-good position to bring forward sup-It serves well for transport up to Tamintum, which is a village near Chengkiatung, the Mongol trade market, situated 70 miles west of Changchun. In the vicinity of Chengkiatung the Liao is joined by the Tung (or east) Line and at this senson it may be possible for boats to ascend the East Liao for many miles in the direction of Kuntsuling, which is close to its banks in latitude 43 % degrees.

Six Parallel Lines of Advance.

It may well be supposed that the utilization of this waterway forms part of the Japanese plan of campaign. Between it and the railroad are two cart roads and east of the railroad is another pighroud. The six routes. namely, three cartronds and a grass track, a railway and a river, being practically parallel for 70 miles of the march with an average of ten miles or so between the routes, means that the advancing forces are spread over a front of 50 miles. Roughly it may beestimated that the Japanese advanced sections are now in latitude 43 degrees and are forcing the Russians backward toward the north as they pro-maintained by Marshal Oyama, the ern powers. country around Kuntsuling, where the Russians have the strongest positions, will have become untenable before the week is out. In that event, General Linfevitch will move to the railroad and war experts here say that, if such is the case, he will have spent months of effort and time vainly, for, with the aboutdonment of Kuntsuling and its vicinity, all his elaborate defenses will fall into the hands of the Japanese, or at least will be useless to him.

So far as can be learned from the meager reports that have arrived here during the period taken up almost exclusively by the recording of events that led up to the naval battle in Corea Strait, General Linievitch expected the Japanese army to move on him in such a way that the defense of Kuntsuling ould have formed a very formidable harrier to further progress. It now appears, however, that Oyama's strategy has made possible the direct advance upon these fertifications, at the same time shifting the scene of activity at such an angle that they have been rendered useless to the Russians.

NEGOTIATIONS AT DEAD HALT

Diplomats Begin to Fear Delay of Peace Conference.

WASHINGTON, June 24.-Peace negotiations between Russia and Japan have come to a dead halt on account of the lib-ness of Count Lamsdorff, the Russian Min-later for Foreign Affairs. It is explained officially that nothing in the form of a hitch has occurred, but that the negotia-tions merely have been suspended tem-

Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, had a brief interview with President Roosevelt today, but he called merely to pay his respects prior to the President's departure next Monday afternoon for the Summer. They discussed informally the peace situation, the President expressing his earnest hope that another general engagement on the battlefield of Manchuria might be avoided by the negotiations for

Up to this time suggestions for an ar-mistice have not been received with ab-solute favor by either Russia or Japan. Each government is seeking an advantage over the other in the diplomatic sparring that is now going on, and it is regarded as unlikely that an armistice will be concluded—even if at all—before the formal meeting of the plenipotentiaries. There is serious apprehension that, unless a temporary suspension of hostilities be arranged, a great battle may be precipitated, the result of which might wreck commission the periodize peace negotiations. Each government is seeking an advantage ed, the result of which might wreck com-pletely the pending peace negotiations. It was expected confidently that an an-nouncement of the names of the envoys could be made by the end of this week, but the negotiations have not progressed in the least aince Tuesday. That both Russia and Japan have decided upon their representatives is quite certain, but each government declines to make formal an-nouncement of them. It seems scarcely probable that Presi-

The President has confidence in Russia's sincerity, but this delay may have an exceedingly bad effect upon pub-lic opinion in Japan. So far as an armistice is concerned, these negotiations must necessarily be postponed until the pleni-potentiaries have been announced. The visit of the French Ambassador to

The visit of the French Ambassador to the White House yesterday, and his presence there again tonight at dinner leads to the belief in official directes that the assistance of France will be at the command of the President in expediting the negotiations in every way possible, but there is no official confirmation that this assistance has been sought at this time. A European Ambassador tonight said: "I believe that the announcement of the Russian plenipotentiaries is only a qu tion of time, and we must have patience. The feeling of anxiety which has been aroused within the last 24 hours is due to the confidence with which the public has awaited for more than a week the an-nouncement of the peace plenipotentiaries.
