Lipman, Wolfe & Co.QUEER POLITICS IN METROPOLIS*Necessities of Fall Campaign Making Strange Bedfellows in New York.*"CITS" INVITED TAMMANY*Compliment to McClellan's Administration Angers Republicans. Odell and Hearst Plan Combination.

NEW YORK, July 8.—(Special.)—With the theaters all closed, the principal amusement left in New York is politics, and the most peculiar brands of midsummer diplomacy that have ever been handed out are being exposed for inspection. The Citizens' Union is coyly and in a nonpartisan manner flirting with Tammany Hall, while William Randolph Hearst and Republican State Chairman Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., are the warmest of friends, and are preparing something "nice" for the fall election. No wonder the average voter feels very much muddled and doesn't know exactly what is going to occur.

The Citizens' Union was born because of dislike of Tammany, and thrived and flourished because of opposition to the Wigwam. It was, therefore, a source of much surprise when the Citizens' Union sent out invitations to other bodies to join in a nonpartisan campaign, that Tammany Hall was included among the number. It is said this action so affected members of the Tammany Hall executive committee, most of whom have been active in politics all their lives, that several of them almost shed tears.

The New York Republican organization, through County Chairman Halpin, sent an indignant letter to the "Cits" asking them if they really meant that they would have anything to do with Tammany Hall. The reply was that the Citizens' Union was perfectly willing to treat with anybody who favored a nonpartisan administration. It also added that Mayor McClellan had shown evidences of nonpartisanship, particularly in his appointment of Police Commissioner McArdoo and Health Commissioner Durington, and the retention of Low's Street-Cleaning Commissioner. If McClellan will keep on as he has started, and go a little farther the Citizens' Union remarked that it could not see any reason to oppose him because he was a partisan.

The fact that Odell and Representative Hearst were both in Europe last Spring and met in Paris caused reports that the Republican organization would be asked to have a joint parade at the polls with the representatives of municipal ownership, referendum and various other fads and fancies.

When Odell returned to this country, a number of his followers asked excitedly if he and "the friend of the people" were preparing a joint ticket for the city election, but Mr. Odell denied it. Within the past week, however, Mr. Odell has held frequent long conferences at state headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Hotel with one Arthur Brisbane, and it is a subject of remark that, as the Hearst papers daily grow more savage toward Tammany Hall and all its works, they also display a constantly growing spirit of kindness toward Odell and his friends. Mr. Brisbane, it might be mentioned, writes the "let-me-think" editorials which are printed throughout the Hearst chain of papers. Three years ago he was picked out as a Congressional candidate by Tammany Hall, but at the last moment stepped aside because Mr. Hearst wanted the nomination himself. It is generally understood that Mr. Brisbane, in these weighty conferences, represents Mr. Hearst, but the main bone of contention is not the candidate so much as the platform.

Agree on All but Platform.

Brisbane insists that the fight shall be fought on the same lines as the recent Chicago Mayoralty campaign, only more so. He demands that the platform shall call for the municipal ownership of gas plants, electric light plants and traction lines, surface, overhead and underground. All of which, it might be added, has rather appalled Mr. Odell, but each day he puts up less resistance to the representative of the voice of the people. If this deal goes through, the probabilities are that a Republican will be put on the ticket to head it, Hearst would rather see a Democrat, preferably himself, but is not insistent. His friends are mentioning a Republican who would be entirely suitable to him. His name is John Ford. He is an ex-State Senator and has the further merit, in Hearst's eyes, of being a member of the Municipal Ownership League.

Odell has several candidates in his mind's eye. Thomas L. Hamilton, the County Clerk, would be willing to run on any old platform, but he has been so thoroughly identified with factional politics that there is a grave doubt as to how well he would run. Jacob Schiff has all the elements of a successful candidate until the bid blew off the Equitable and disclosed things which have made the rank and file of the voters greatly dislike a number of men, including Mr. Schiff. Jacob Stern is now forging to the front, but being a banker and involved in many big financial interests, there is a doubt expressed as to whether he would run on a radical platform, and also whether the radicals would vote for him.

So it can be plainly seen that Hearst and Odell have decided on everything except the nature of the platform and the personality of the nominee, but they keep on conferring every day.

Another and an odd source of discontent to Republican leaders is the success of that charming ragtime song called "Tammany." Perhaps you don't hear it out in Oregon, but it has taken the place in the affections of the public once held by "Bedelia." "Under the Bamboo Tree" and other classics. It has got so that all the street bands play it.

Now Republicans complain that, although the air may be witching, yet it is hardly the thing for an outing of the G. O. P. Every day during the Summer Republican clubs throughout Greater New York take trips to various suburban resorts. They always take bands with them, and these bands will play "Tammany." The other day the Oscar Knapp Association, of Wilkesburg, went to Witsell's Grove. The band, which had been engaged at the last moment by a committeeman who was a friend of the leader, led the procession from the clubhouse to the foot of Broadway, playing "Tammany." Mr. Knapp, the standard-bearer, was much upset, but did not want to stop the parade to rebuke the leader. When they reached the boat the band went aboard first and, grouping on the upper deck, played "Tammany" as the members trooped over the gangplank. The good steamer was loosed from her moorings and, as she started up the East River, the band burst forth into "Tammany." This was too much for Mr. Knapp and he rushed to the leader.

"How dare you play that on a Republican outing?" he demanded.

"It's a nice tune," replied the leader cheerfully.

"But we're Republicans, and we don't like it!" shouted Knapp. "Give us something else."

"Ah," explained the leader, with a natty smile, "just listen. My band went on a strike yesterday. I had to get a lot of new men, and this is the only tune they all know." Then he waved his baton gracefully and the band played "Tammany" again.

Congressman William L. Calder, of Brooklyn, leader of the Twelfth Assembly District, on his outing a few days ago, peremptorily stopped the band from playing "Tammany," only to be overwhelmed a few minutes later by the strident demands of his own followers for that very tune.

TAFT PARTY GOES TO SEAWHISTLES AND GUNS BID LOUD BON VOYAGE.*Miss Roosevelt Waves Her Handkerchief to Thousands on Dock and Shores.*SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 8.—(Special.)—Escorted as far as the Heads by craft of all sorts, whistles on every vessel in the harbor uniting in ear-splitting blasts of bon voyage, the big liner Manchuria with Secretary Taft, Miss Roosevelt and members of the Congressional party on board, sailed today for Manila.

As the vessel steamed out of the bay, Miss Roosevelt, surrounded by other women members of the party, stood at the rail and waved her handkerchief at the people on other boats and the docks.

When the Manchuria passed the various forts official salutes to Secretary Taft were fired. Although the day was hot, it was bright and clear and hundreds gathered on the docks to witness the Manchuria's departure. Miss Roosevelt was entirely recovered from the slight indisposition of yesterday, due to the oppressive heat, and is in an excellent spirit. She was the guest member of the party and seemed intensely pleased with the enthusiastic farewells tendered the party.

DEVLIN'S MINERS ARE PAIDBorrowed Money Provides Wages and Keeps Mines Running.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 8.—The Devlin miners in Eastern Kansas were paid this evening with $50,000 borrowed from one of the receivers of the Devlin estate. Money will be sent to Osage City next week to meet the payroll there. This will be advanced by the Santa Fe Railway. Treasurer Edward Wilder announced that the Santa Fe was ready to advance the $50,000 for the Southern Kansas miners, but Mr. Lehard had already made arrangements to secure it.

The Santa Fe wants to keep all the Devlin mines open, as the road is dependent upon them for its coal supply.

OUST TREASURER KELLEY.Hoch's Determination Will Cause Bitter Fight in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 8.—(Special.)—After spending nearly a whole day in council with state officers and politicians, Governor Hoch is undecided what course to pursue in ousting State Treasurer T. T. Kelley from office because the latter refuses to repair the million-dollar bond, half of which is invalidated by the failure of Charles J. Devlin. Kelley will furnish the new bond of $700,000 demanded by a recent law, but refuses to act on the old one.

The Governor has attorneys working, and when they furnish him an opinion he will proceed to oust Kelley. Kelley, of course, will go to court, and the case promises to be hard fought, as well as likely to cause a party fight.

Put All Property Under Receivers.

KANSAS CITY, July 8.—(Special.)—The next move in the settlement of the affairs of Charles J. Devlin will be to bring all of his properties under the receivership. To this end application will be made to the court in Chicago Monday to the Federal Court to have the appointment of Receivers Hurley and Lehard, who were appointed in Topeka Friday, extended over the properties in Missouri and Illinois. This will simplify matters and hasten the settlement of the estate.

Broker Waives Extradition Papers.

SEATTLE, July 8.—E. J. Lewis, the real estate broker wanted at Wheaton, Ill., for frauds amounting to more than $40,000, will return without extradition. Lewis was arrested in Seattle a week ago and an officer from Dupage County, Illinois, will arrive tonight for him. Lewis today received a telegram from a sister, said to be the wife of the Mayor of an Illinois city, telling her brother to go back without extradition. He said today he was ready to go any time.

HOT WAVE GOOD FOR THE WHEATRoots Have Plenty of Moisture and Plant Is Growing Well.*BUMPER CROP IS CERTAIN*Barley Is Being Cut in Walla Walla Country, and in Some Sections the Headers Are at Work on Wheat.

Reports from Eastern Washington, Eastern Oregon and Idaho indicate that the hot wave, unless very long continued, will prove a positive benefit to the great grain sections. After a comparatively dry winter with a spring in which less than the ordinary amount of moisture was precipitated, rains fell on the well-grown stalks. With a great deal of moisture yet in the ground the hot weather, as yet not accompanied with withering breezes, has had a stimulating effect on the plants and berries.

Growers generally feel assured of a more than ordinarily large crop. Prospects are for an average of 10 bushels per acre above the ordinary in the Walla Walla section, with at least 50 per cent of the crop now safe beyond peradventure.

The favorable turn of the weather in Nez Perce and Idaho Counties, Idaho, and Asotin County, Washington, with the strident demands of his own followers for that very tune.

GROUND IS STILL DAMP.Walla Walla Crop Has Very Satisfactory Prospects.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 8.—(Special.)—At least 50 per cent of the wheat crop of Walla Walla County is safe and beyond any possible material damage from hot weather, and the other 50 per cent will be out of danger within a few days, if the weather continues favorable. The thermometer today registered at 95, but the prospects for a bumper crop are good. The prospects for a bumper crop are good. The prospects for a bumper crop are good.

The ground is now damp, the grain stalks are filling nicely. The harvesting of the barley crop is well along and in some sections the headers are at work in the fall wheat. One threshing outfit will begin next week in the vicinity of Prescott.

BOUNTFUL CROPS CERTAINRain Helped Two Idaho Counties and Asotin in Washington.

LEWISTON, Idaho, July 8.—(Special.)—Nothing but fire or flood can injure the excellent prospects for a bumper crop of grain in Nez Perce and Idaho Counties, Idaho, and Asotin County, Washington. There was much apprehension among farmers six weeks ago as to whether crops would be sure, owing to a comparatively ordinary year, while if the hot winds should set in next week, the average might be reduced by five to ten bushels. If favorable conditions continue, an average of 30 bushels per acre will easily be made.
