Rev. Charles A. Killie Tells of Change Come Over the Empire.

WAS IN BOXER TROUBLES

Remarkable Rulers of Day. Woman's Club Now in Peking.

Rev. Charles A. Killie, who is visiting in Portland, is a missionary to the Chinese who has experienced many stirring adventures in the Celestial Empire, and who has more than once narrowly escaped death at the hands of the Boxers. During the stege of Peking he was lieutenant of the fortification committee under Mr. Gamewell, and for his valuable services during that slege he was made a member of the Military Order of the Dragon, and was permitted to make photographs of all portions of the Forbidden City, including the interior of the imperial palaces. Mr. Killie believes that a remarkable new era has dawned in China and says that the entire empire new seems cager for education and news of the outside world. The demand for books and newspapers is acconshing, when in the interior programes and on a even in the litterior provinces, and on a recent trip 400 miles into the moun-tains he had several park animals in his train loaded with literature, but did not have sufficient to supply the Woman's Club in Peking.

One of the most astonishing features of the progress which is everywhere in evidence, he thinks, is the club organized by the women of the nobility in peking. This organization meets month-ly to discuss the live questions of the day, and it is evident that the women of China are not going to be kept in the background any longer. The Em-press Dowager herself has changed greatly and looks more favorably on reforms than of yore. All of this, Mr. Killie says, is directly due to the per-sonal influence of Mrs. Conger, who was the personal friend of the Empress, and who has had more to do with the changed conditions in the similar than any other individual. While Minister Conger was stationed at Peking, his wife conger was nationed at retails, in was a great favorite of the Empress, who used to send the imperial Princesses to return all her calls, court eliquette preventing her returning them personally. When the Congers left, the Empress gave the Minister her picture, of which the only copy is here produced.

Most Remarkable Woman.

There is no doubt that the Empres Dowager is one of the most wonderful women in the world," the missionary "She is over 70 years of age, but does not look to be more than 40 of 45. She is bright and alert, and has a wonderful mentality end great execu-tive ability. The way she rose to her present reigning position is in itself a wonderful story, for she is not the legal ruler of the empir, as everyone knows. Before the Boxer uprising she and the Emperor were kept in ignorance of many events which were urring in the empire, for they fived such a secluded life that such a course was possible by the officials. I know it to be a fact that neither of them city was attacked or that the soldiers were near until the shooting commenced, and the conse-quence was that they had to fice withproper clothing or other necessiout proper clothing or other necessi-ties. I arrived in Peking from my work to the east of that city only one night before the siege began, and was one of the six missionaries who formed the fortification committee, the only com-mittee of the siege of Peking that was free from military control. We had 800 Chinese to help us, and directed the building of all forts, barricades and treprise, filling of sandbags and other trenches, filling of sandbags and other means of defense. As soon as these were completed the soldiers took their places and did the firing. Every womansionaries were killed in some parts of China, it was not until many other for-eigners were first killed." Mr. Killie was captured by the Boxers in Shantung Province in 1888, and was only saved by the fact that his passports were new and just from Pekin. He says the sword was drawn over his head several times, but he was allowed to go. He al times, but he was allowed to go. He went 50 miles into the interior in 1888, which was 170 miles further than any white man had ever been, and had much trouble with the natives arising from queer ideas and superstitions current among them. Once he was held up by highway robbers, and when they failed in their attempts to rob him they circulated stories that he was there to steal children and make medicine of them. He was attacked by the populace and narwas attacked by the populace and nar-rowly escaped death, being saved by some of his faithful helpers at the mission. Afterwards when the ruler of the dis-trict understood the facts of the case public sentiment changed in his favor, and he was made much of.

Has Valuable Pictures,

The collection of pictures which Mr. Killie has is a remarkable one, and includes many interesting views of the in-terior of the imperial palace apartments. One of the Emperor's sitting-room shows a silver automatic French toy on the floor with which he had been amusing himself when the attack on the city began and he had to flee. The carvings and embroideries in the apartment of the Empress he describes as magnificent, but the room is as uncompletable seem. the Empress he describes as magnificent, but the room is as uncomfortable as one could imagine. The Chinese receive missionaries in the kindest spirit now, and there is no part of the empire where a white man should hesitate to go. "In fact," says Mr. Killle, "they are glad to have us come, especially if we bring them reading matter or news of the world and affairs of the day.
"Our hospitals have accomplished won-and affairs of the day.

"Our hospitals have accomplished wonders for our cause, for they have come to associate the missionaries with good and help. The Presbyterian hospital in Partingfu, near Peking, treat an average of 200 patients a day, and they come great distances to receive the benefits. We find that in many places where we go a reputation for good has preceded us and we have no difficulty in gaining the attention of the natives."

Beloit Newspaper Man Tells of Future Greatness Assured.

RICH COUNTRY ABOUT IT

David B. Worthington, of Wisconsin, After an Absence of Eleven Years, Revisits Region and Makes Prophecy.

"Klamath County, right here in Oregon is the greatest county in the world, and Klamath Falls, the little village that boasts of being its county seat, is surely destined to be one of the most talked-of inland cities of the Pacific Coast. Mighty things are going to happen down that way, but strange to say the average Oregonian seems to know as little about Oregonian seems to know as little about that corner of the state as does the East-ern man—and the latter knows nothing. guess that's because of the tedious

The foregoing statement was made by David B. Worthington, editor of the Beloit (Wis.) Daily News, who used to be a newspaperman in Klamath and revisited that county after an absence of il years. He left for home last night.

He left for home last night.

It may have been hinted that Klamath County has one of the most beautiful inland lakes in the United States, that it has superb water power and that it contains almost boundless tracts of meadow and agricultural lands. SAN DIEGO, July 22.—Two more names were added today to the list of the dead in the Bennington disaster, making the total 51. R. C. Greis, whose home is given as Toledo, O., expired at 3 o'clock this afternoon. At 5 P. M. Peter Neiman, carpenter's mate, died. G. P. Hallett, of Bakersfield, is very low tonight, and his death is expected within a few hours. "If you grant that these things existand you can take my word for it that they do-you must easily see that the only reason that country has not poured out its riches is simply because of lack of rail-road transportation. And you must rec-ognize, too, that such a rich domain must have its commercial center. Well, that center is going to be alamath Falls, which occupies a strategic point in relation to all the resources, and it will announce its importance next Summer. Ten hours.

The court of inquiry will begin its sessions on the craiser Chicago, Monday morning, providing Captain Pheps, the third member of the tribunal arrives. Commodore Stevenson, who, with Captain Moore, will also serve on the court, arrived today. Summers later it will have a population of from 10,000 to 15,000, which means it will have a more rapid, legitimate growth than any other inland town on this Coast. That will help the whole state, I Coast. That will help the whole state. I haven't a dollar's interest down there, much to my regret.

"The patient rancher and the village storekeeper's time has come. The clink of the dollar will drown out the pioneer's story of the Modoc War. The buckarroo will go up on the top of the mountain and strike down on the other side, for Capital and the White Shirt has finally come into his preserves.

"Uncle Sam hasn't issued the proclamation yet, but nevertheless, he is going to spend $4.600,000 on a monster irrigation project in Klamath that will make 200,000 acres of sagebrush hand blossom as the rose. Your Uncle is going to take the water out of that big lake, which is 40 miles long and eight miles wide, and spread it over the thirsty lands below that will raise anything under the sun. almost. The big cattleman's holdings are going to be cut up into 160-acre tracts, as the Government cannot afford to do this great work for the few. The labor will require about four years, and 1800 men will be constantly employed. Certain provisions required by the Government haven't been compiled with yet by a few of the landowners, but the Department has spent about a quarter of a million dollars in acquiring private ditches and in surveys, and you are told privately that dirt won't fly until next Spring. But that's only seven or eight months more of joy of anticipation on the part, of the men who builded their hopes a quarter of men who builded their holded their hopes a quarter of men who builded their body the fact that their lands are the parents taken away from them, and now that their lands were taken away from them, and now that their lands were taken away from them, and now that will raise anything under the sun, men who builded their hopes a quarter of a century ago and have never falled to be "Three railroad lines have built part way from the main line of the Southern Pacific toward Klamath Fails. It's a pretty guess which will get in first; each corporation swears it will beat the other. The citizens of the county have raised $100,000 bonus for one road, and the owners of this line have showed their good intention by buying 540 acres of land in a body in and adjoining the town. On this land are hot springs, and they ow they will build a $260,000 sanitarium on the bedy in and adjoining the town. On this land are hot springs, and they vow they will build a $100,000 sanitarium on the property.

"And now let me tell you one of the amusing things that has occurred down there which reveals the aplendid nerve and optimism that characterize the glorious Western people. First, I'll say that we in Beloit, Wis.—a wonderfully rich and same town of 1,000 people—hestiate to build a streetcar line because we doubt if it will pay. Down in Klamath Falls—a town of 1000 persons, & miles from the Southern Pacific—they granted a franchise for an urban system of railway, and they say they are going to build it before two Christmases pass. Supposing they don't. Don't you like the spirit the people are showing? If you went down there and saw that great lake above town, the shores of which will sooner or later be dotted with the Summer homes of the wealthy, you will admit that some kind of transportation will be needed to connect the suburbanite with the depot. The lake above and below town—and there are two—has each a handsome steamer, built by Portland people. Do you tunk these men would invest so heavily in craft unless they knew what the early future had in store for that country?

"Klamath Falls, as I said, lies between the bodies of water. It is going to have a railroud. It has health-giving springs and a sanitarium in prospect. It has great water power. It is adjacent to large bodies of pine and looks down upon a rich yalley, yet undeveloped. It is the jumping-off place for the tourist who, in a day's ride, can see more natural wonders, drink purer water and catch more fish in crystal streams than in any other one spot I ever heard of, or visited Fou'll have to reckon on Klamath Falls. I took my hat off to it it years ago. I do love the people down there. They are creators and deserve the good things in store for them."
