

PRELATE RE

Yellow Fever Attacks Archbishop Chapelle.

RESULT OF SELF-SACRIFICE

Labor Among Stricken Italians at New Orleans Causes Him to Take Disease - His Great Services to Church.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Archbishop P. L. Chapelle, of the Diocese of Louisiana and Apostolic Delegate to Cuba and Porto Rico, is confined to his bed at his residence in this city with a virulent type of yellow fever. He has been sick for the past four days, and late tonight it was reported that he was dying. His residence is located on Esplanade avenue in the heart of the most exclusive French residence section, which part of the city has been considered safe from the disease, as it has been restricted principally to the Italians.

Archbishop Chapelle's illness was kept secret for a while, but it leaked out today, when an announcement was made that he would probably die. Archbishop Chapelle has spent considerable time in the infected district, and has been of inestimable service in advising the Italians to heed the instructions of the authorities. He is a fluent linguist, and mingled with them. He was stricken yesterday, but the diagnosis was not confirmed until today.

Right Reverend Placido Louis Chapelle, Apostolic Delegate for Cuba and Porto Rico, is one of the best-known Catholic prelates in the United States. He has taken a prominent part in the affairs of the church, both here and in the English colonies, where he settled the dispute between the friars and the United States officials, after the occupation of the islands. He was born in the Diocese of Mondo in 1827, and came to the United States in 1850. He took a complete theological and philosophical course in St. Mary's College, and taught in St. Charles College from 1852 to 1855. In the latter year he was ordained a priest and announced that he would devote his time to missionary work. In 1858, St. Mary's College conferred the degree of doctor of divinity upon him.

In 1859 the young priest was called to the assistant pastorate of St. John's Church, in Baltimore, and his work was so remarkable that he was made pastor of the church, which, under his direction, prospered greatly. Later he was transferred to St. Joseph's Church, where he continued his work as pastor. In 1882 he became pastor of St. Matthew's Church in Washington. He took a prominent part in the religious life of the city, being renowned as a leading theologian. He was elected to the position of bishop of Salpointe in Santa Fe, with right of succession, and consequently titular Bishop of Arles. He was elected to the position of Archbishop of Salpointe, becoming Archbishop of Santa Fe.

He was appointed Archbishop of New Orleans in November, 1892. His Holiness Pope Leo created him Apostolic Delegate to Cuba and Porto Rico September 18, 1898, and one year later he was sent to the Philippines as Apostolic Delegate. The very existence of the church was endangered by disputes that had been left as a legacy by the Spaniards. This mission completed, he returned to Rome, where he was granted private audiences by the Pope, who showed him with high honors. Later he went to Cuba and Porto Rico, remaining there some time.

CONDITION IS NOT ALARMING
Doctor Says Stray Mosquito Bit Archbishop Chapelle.

CONDITION IS NOT ALARMING

Doctor Says Stray Mosquito Bit Archbishop Chapelle.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5.—At 10:30 o'clock tonight, Dr. Larue, who is attending Archbishop Chapelle, gave out the following statement: "I saw the archbishop Friday night at 9 o'clock and found that he had a well defined case of yellow fever. I saw him at 2:30 o'clock tonight and while he is quite sick, his condition is not at all alarming."

The archbishop had just concluded a tour of all the parishes, where he confirmed classes. Though there are cases of fever not far from the archbishop's residence, Dr. Larue believes that a stray mosquito from an infected area is the cause of the archbishop's illness.

DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Death Comes Quickly to One Yellow Fever Patient.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Chester Patton, white man, 50 years old, died here on his way to the hospital today from fever. He came from Strader, La., and discovered that he had yellow fever yesterday and was today sent to the Texas Charity Hospital. When he reached town, he was so far gone that the ambulance had to be summoned. He started out in this conveyance for the hospital. He had ridden but two blocks when he expired.

MAY MAKE INLAND SEA

COLORADO RIVER CUTTING CHANNEL TO SALTION SINK.

Change of Course Will Make Thousands Homeless and Destroy Vast Amount of Property.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—The flood situation on the Colorado River is far more serious than is popularly supposed, according to officials of the Reclamation Service. They declare that the Colorado River is actually in process of abandoning its channel to the Gulf of California and pouring its entire flood into Salton Sink. This would mean the submerging of the whole Imperial Valley with the destruction of farms, irrigation works and railroads, leaving 5000 people homeless. The Reclamation Service today gave out the following statement regarding the situation:

"A combination of peculiar topographic features and prolonged floods has wrought great havoc in Southern California and Southwestern Arizona, and a still greater calamity threatens settlers unless immediate steps are taken to keep the Colorado River between the banks of its original channel. The silt borne down from the mountains through past centuries by the Colorado River has built up a great delta and gradually raised the river bed until the water flows on ground nearly 800 feet above the basin, which long since has been dried out by evaporation. In 1904 the California Development Company cut a canal about four miles below the Mexican boundary,

CHASED BY A BEAR

Man Drops Flowers to Flee for His Life.

TREED FOR 18 LONG HOURS

Former San Franciscan Nearly Dead From Fright and Hunger When Wounded Bruin Is Driven Away by Rescuers.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Adolph Manheim, a well-known resident of this city, formerly engaged in business in San Francisco, had a thrilling experience in the Sierra Nevada Mountains near Weber Lake yesterday. For nearly 18 hours he was held a prisoner in the "topmost branches of a tall pine tree while a bear, wounded into a fury by a rifle shot, pursued him through the woods and made attempts to reach the frightened man above him.

It was late last night when a rescue party sent out from camp reached the place, attracted there by his cries for help. The bear, probably frightened by the intrusion of the rescuers, escaped. Pools of blood, tracks and torn up ground were the only evidence of the fight it had kept over its captive. Mr. Manheim, weak from hunger, thirst and nervousness, was carried back to camp, but today is recovering from his thrilling experience.

Manheim started from the lake yesterday morning to pick wild flowers in the hills. He was alone and was not looking for game. He took his weapons. When about two miles from camp and deep in the woods, he heard the bear growling in pain and started to escape. As he started to run he was seized by the bear. In the race of 200 yards that ensued, Manheim reached a tall tree and lost no time in climbing to the top. The bear was wounded through the neck, probably by some hunter in the neighborhood. It was of great size.

ENVOYS COME TOGETHER

President Greet Japanese.

Baron Komura, followed by Minister Takahira and their seven dozen followers, climbed the steps. They were received at the top by Commander Winslow, who in turn handed them over to Mr. Peirce. The officers of the ship were presented to the little delegation and each received a very low bow and a smile from the Japanese. Mr. Peirce led the way into the library cabin, where the envoys and their suites put their silk hats and then took them below stairs.

The President greeted them all with the utmost cordiality. He knew a number of them personally and they were greeted with such expressions as "Here's my old comrade," "Well, I am glad to see you again," or "I saw you out riding the other day. How are you?"

After the introductions had been all made, the President told Baron Komura and Minister Takahira that he wished to have them visit him again at his home during the present summer. "The President," said another, "is a little informal visit with you, Baron, and you, Mr. Takahira," and with a laugh and a wave of the hand he bore them off to Commander Winslow's princely cabin, where they chatted for five or six minutes, the rest of the suite meanwhile standing around, smiling politely upon Mr. Peirce and each other.

Canon Boom for Russians.

While all this was going on, the Chattanooga, bringing the Russians from New York, had dropped anchor in the bay, and at 1:22 P. M. in response to a wigwag signal from the Mayflower, telling that all was in readiness for their reception, Count Witte and his followers disembarked for the President's yacht. That meant more booming of cannon. The Japanese were escorted to another part of the ship while the Russians were climbing up the side. The reception of the Czar's plenipotentiaries was practically a repetition of the first. There were the same smiles, the same hearty handshaking, and after going through it the President extended the same invitation to Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen that he had given Baron Komura and Minister Takahira.

"It was great pleasure to have you visit me," he said, "and I want to have you come out to my home again and take lunch with me."

Enemies Meet as Friends.

The most delicate function of the day, the introduction of the envoys to each other by the President, was performed in less time than it takes to tell it. The Japanese filed in. Mr. Witte was first introduced to Baron Komura and Minister Takahira was presented to Baron Rosen, the President using English as the medium. The introductions then became general; every Russian shook hands with every Japanese, and all smiled pleasantly.

"Now, let us go in to lunch," said the President. "Captain, is lunch ready?" he asked of Commander Winslow. Commander Winslow said it was, and the President led the way with a wave of his hand to the dining-room. Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen dropped in behind him, and Baron Komura followed with the two parties trailed in, and the general attack on the establish began. The President took a sandwich in one hand, a plate of salad in the other, and motioned Count Witte and Baron Komura to follow his example, which they did. Count Witte took a seat in one corner of the room and Baron Komura sat down beside him. Then the President moved a chair directly in front of them both, and Baron Rosen and Minister Takahira took seats side by side, almost touching his right hand. The rest of the company sat or stood around the room, while the Chinese waiters filled up plates and cups and glasses. In the middle of the meal, the President offered the following toast:

Toast to Peace and Prosperity.

"I propose a toast to which there will be no answer, and to which I ask you to drink in silence, standing: I drink to the welfare and prosperity of the sovereign

CHASED BY A BEAR

Man Drops Flowers to Flee for His Life.

TREED FOR 18 LONG HOURS

Former San Franciscan Nearly Dead From Fright and Hunger When Wounded Bruin Is Driven Away by Rescuers.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Adolph Manheim, a well-known resident of this city, formerly engaged in business in San Francisco, had a thrilling experience in the Sierra Nevada Mountains near Weber Lake yesterday. For nearly 18 hours he was held a prisoner in the "topmost branches of a tall pine tree while a bear, wounded into a fury by a rifle shot, pursued him through the woods and made attempts to reach the frightened man above him.

It was late last night when a rescue party sent out from camp reached the place, attracted there by his cries for help. The bear, probably frightened by the intrusion of the rescuers, escaped. Pools of blood, tracks and torn up ground were the only evidence of the fight it had kept over its captive. Mr. Manheim, weak from hunger, thirst and nervousness, was carried back to camp, but today is recovering from his thrilling experience.

Manheim started from the lake yesterday morning to pick wild flowers in the hills. He was alone and was not looking for game. He took his weapons. When about two miles from camp and deep in the woods, he heard the bear growling in pain and started to escape. As he started to run he was seized by the bear. In the race of 200 yards that ensued, Manheim reached a tall tree and lost no time in climbing to the top. The bear was wounded through the neck, probably by some hunter in the neighborhood. It was of great size.

ENVOYS COME TOGETHER

President Greet Japanese.

Baron Komura, followed by Minister Takahira and their seven dozen followers, climbed the steps. They were received at the top by Commander Winslow, who in turn handed them over to Mr. Peirce. The officers of the ship were presented to the little delegation and each received a very low bow and a smile from the Japanese. Mr. Peirce led the way into the library cabin, where the envoys and their suites put their silk hats and then took them below stairs.

The President greeted them all with the utmost cordiality. He knew a number of them personally and they were greeted with such expressions as "Here's my old comrade," "Well, I am glad to see you again," or "I saw you out riding the other day. How are you?"

After the introductions had been all made, the President told Baron Komura and Minister Takahira that he wished to have them visit him again at his home during the present summer. "The President," said another, "is a little informal visit with you, Baron, and you, Mr. Takahira," and with a laugh and a wave of the hand he bore them off to Commander Winslow's princely cabin, where they chatted for five or six minutes, the rest of the suite meanwhile standing around, smiling politely upon Mr. Peirce and each other.

Canon Boom for Russians.

While all this was going on, the Chattanooga, bringing the Russians from New York, had dropped anchor in the bay, and at 1:22 P. M. in response to a wigwag signal from the Mayflower, telling that all was in readiness for their reception, Count Witte and his followers disembarked for the President's yacht. That meant more booming of cannon. The Japanese were escorted to another part of the ship while the Russians were climbing up the side. The reception of the Czar's plenipotentiaries was practically a repetition of the first. There were the same smiles, the same hearty handshaking, and after going through it the President extended the same invitation to Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen that he had given Baron Komura and Minister Takahira.

"It was great pleasure to have you visit me," he said, "and I want to have you come out to my home again and take lunch with me."

Enemies Meet as Friends.

The most delicate function of the day, the introduction of the envoys to each other by the President, was performed in less time than it takes to tell it. The Japanese filed in. Mr. Witte was first introduced to Baron Komura and Minister Takahira was presented to Baron Rosen, the President using English as the medium. The introductions then became general; every Russian shook hands with every Japanese, and all smiled pleasantly.

"Now, let us go in to lunch," said the President. "Captain, is lunch ready?" he asked of Commander Winslow. Commander Winslow said it was, and the President led the way with a wave of his hand to the dining-room. Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen dropped in behind him, and Baron Komura followed with the two parties trailed in, and the general attack on the establish began. The President took a sandwich in one hand, a plate of salad in the other, and motioned Count Witte and Baron Komura to follow his example, which they did. Count Witte took a seat in one corner of the room and Baron Komura sat down beside him. Then the President moved a chair directly in front of them both, and Baron Rosen and Minister Takahira took seats side by side, almost touching his right hand. The rest of the company sat or stood around the room, while the Chinese waiters filled up plates and cups and glasses. In the middle of the meal, the President offered the following toast:

Toast to Peace and Prosperity.

"I propose a toast to which there will be no answer, and to which I ask you to drink in silence, standing: I drink to the welfare and prosperity of the sovereign and peoples of the two great nations whose representatives have met here on this ship. It is my earnest hope and prayer, in the interest not only of these two great powers, but of all mankind, that a just and lasting peace may speedily be concluded between them.

As the luncheon neared its end, some one suggested that the envoys be photographed. The idea met with instant favor, and the President walked out in the hallway, where the light was better.

"Stand anywhere," said the President, diplomatically. "Suit yourselves about your positions," and the two Russians at once stepped to his right-hand side, the Japanese envoys smilingly accepted the left hand, and so the picture was made.

Then there was another handshaking, and the Japanese said good-bye, the officers gathered on the deck near the head of the sturveys, the band played, and the Japanese party disappeared over the side to sail to the Dolphin, which was to take them to Portsmouth. In a few minutes the President and his cousin, W. E. Roosevelt, left the ship, the President's flag was pulled down from the peak and the Russian flag took its place. The visiting officers from the other ships, including Admiral Coghlan, commanding the Sierra Nevada Mountains near Weber Lake yesterday, and Major-General Fred Grant, of the Department of the East, left the ship, and the business of the day was over.

The Dolphin, bearing the Japanese, and the Mayflower, with the Russians on board, and the Galveston acting as convoy, will reach Portsmouth at 10 A. M. on Monday.

TALK OF ALLIANCE WITH JAPAN

Russian Papers Grow More Hopeful of Peace.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—The tone of the press today is more hopeful of peace than it was yesterday. M. Witte's report partly tending to remove some of the Russian ill-feeling arising from the belief prevailing here that American sympathies are with Japan.

There is noticeably more or less talk of a possible Russo-Japanese alliance as the outcome of the peace negotiations. The question of an indemnity and of the control of Sakhalin are still being studied, but it is believed in the way of an understanding, though the argument is practically reiterated in certain peace quarters that President Roosevelt would not have risked his prestige by a second tender of good faith without having learned the minimum Japanese demands and the maximum Russian concessions and without clearly seeing his way by his personal influence to the putting aside of what- ever might be the way to the bringing about of peace.

The Slovo says in part that Russia needs a lasting peace and that such a peace can only come through an alliance with Japan. It hopes that Japanese powers with which M. Witte is invested will permit him to deal with the question of a possible alliance, but declares the possibility is masked by the fact that in connection with such an alliance.

PRIVACY FOR THE ENVOYS

Plenipotentiaries Will Have Portmouath Yard to Themselves.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 5.—New Hampshire's seaport city is in holiday gear in anticipation of the arrival Monday of the plenipotentiaries of the peace.

All arrangements for the reception of the envoys have been completed and the preliminaries have taken place. Today Admiral Meade, commandant of the Navy-yard, issued an official order which entirely will be in force during the conference. The order provides that no visitors will be allowed to enter the Navy-yard, and workmen employed there will be admitted only upon the presentation of a pass. Extra sentries will be detailed to see that the order is enforced.

Admiral Meade will tender a breakfast to the envoys, at which there will be present, in addition to the conferees, 52 guests, including Governor McLane, Mayor Martin, naval officers stationed locally, and prominent citizens of Portsmouth.

Plenipotentiaries Will Have Portmouath Yard to Themselves.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 5.—New Hampshire's seaport city is in holiday gear in anticipation of the arrival Monday of the plenipotentiaries of the peace.

All arrangements for the reception of the envoys have been completed and the preliminaries have taken place. Today Admiral Meade, commandant of the Navy-yard, issued an official order which entirely will be in force during the conference. The order provides that no visitors will be allowed to enter the Navy-yard, and workmen employed there will be admitted only upon the presentation of a pass. Extra sentries will be detailed to see that the order is enforced.

Admiral Meade will tender a breakfast to the envoys, at which there will be present, in addition to the conferees, 52 guests, including Governor McLane, Mayor Martin, naval officers stationed locally, and prominent citizens of Portsmouth.

NO CESSION OF TERRITORY.

Russian Attache Also Believes in No General Indemnity.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Naboukoff, of the Russian Foreign Office, was asked today to give his opinion as to whether Russia would make terms ceding any territory or granting a general indemnity. He said:

"Of course you will understand I do not speak with authority, but my personal impression is, I shall not agree to any cession of territory or any general indemnity."

ANY FOOL

Knows enough to carry an umbrella when it rains, but the wise one is he who carries one when it is only cloudy.

Any man will send for a doctor when he is sick, but the wise one is he who adopts proper precautionary, preventive and curative measures when the first symptoms of illness which, if unchecked and uncorrected, grow into serious illness.

Impaired digestion and nutrition are generally the forerunners of a nervous or functional breakdown. Nature has provided remedies most abundantly for all such conditions in our native medicinal plants. With the use of chemically prepared, proper strength and at a proper sustained temperature, Dr. Pierce's Golden Seal Root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherry root, Bloodroot and Mandarilla root, medicinal principles which, when combined in just the right proportions, constitute his widely famed "Golden Medical Discovery," it restores the tone of the stomach, the activity of the liver and the steadiness of the nerves, pouring vitality into the blood till the once sick and debilitated one is so renewed in health, strength and power that he can resume his work, whatever it is, with vigor and elasticity.

All medical authorities, of whatever school, agree that Hydrastis, or Golden Seal—one of the essential roots in the make-up of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—is of very great value as a pure tonic, and as an alternative—valuable in chronic affections of the stomach, intestines and bladder.

Not only the Original but the imitations are sold in every drug store. Dr. R. V. Pierce, who has been making his name for over 30 years, has been much imitated. They are purely vegetable, being made up of concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from the roots of American plants. Do not eripe. One or two for stomach corrective, three or four for cathartic.

Mississippi Trusts Government.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—No new points of infection have appeared in Mississippi and the people are taking a much more pleasant view of the outlook and confidence is felt that the Marine Hospital Service will stamp out the disease. Governor Vardaman and Secretary Hunter, of the State Board of Health, spent the day on the coast and are trying to bring about an amicable settlement of the trouble between Louisiana and Mississippi troops.

Mail Service Interrupted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Post-office Department announced today that interruption of the mail service in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas is mainly confined to limited areas or districts, and that the postal service which has been interrupted will be restored as soon as quarantine regulations permit.

WANTS EVIDENCE

Pfister Does Not Intend to Let Charges Rest.

BUYS NOTES IN QUESTION

Head of Company Involved Denies Having Made Charge and Says Indictment of Millionaire is an Outrage.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—To bring the charges of bribery as a bribe, brought against him by the grand jury Friday, to an immediate hearing, Charles Pfister this morning bought up two notes for a total of $22,000, given to the First National Bank in 1897 by the Wisconsin Rendering Company, and brought a civil suit to the Superior Court to recover $652.30 alleged to be still unpaid on the same.

The defendants, besides the company, are Frank C. Gross, Joseph Schaar, R. S. Schorer, Charles Friedrich and H. J. Killilo.

A sensation, second only to that caused by the indictment of Pfister has developed in the case today when commencement of suit against the Wisconsin Rendering Company by Mr. Pfister for the recovery of $643, balance due on promissory notes held by him, was followed almost immediately by a voluntary statement from Fred C. Gross, president of the Wisconsin Rendering Company, denying that Mr. Pfister owes the company any money, and also denying ever having made any charge against Mr. Pfister before the grand jury or having any knowledge of information on which such an indictment could be based.

"The indictment of Mr. Pfister is a most outrageous piece of work," said Mr. Gross. "If Mr. Pfister feels badly he cannot feel half as badly as I do."

BRIBE FOR LAUNDRY DEAL

Giver Pleads Guilty to Giving $500 to Supervisor.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Adam Kreuter, a member of the firm of Nelson & Kreuter, laundry supply agents, pleaded guilty to a charge of offering and giving a bribe on which he was indicted a year ago. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, with an alternative sentence of six months in the house of correction. Kreuter paid the fine. He collapsed when sentenced.

By the terms of the indictment it was alleged that Kreuter offered ex-Superintendent E. F. Sloope $500 for his vote on laundry deal pending at the County Hospital July 8, 1902. It was intended to return the laundry with new machinery. It was stated Kreuter offered the money through Henry Klotter, architect, in consideration of being awarded the old machinery of the concern, as well as the job of fitting the place with new machinery at $6947.

JIMMY HYDE A MINSTREL

IN TYPICAL MINSTREL ATTIRE, HE AROUSES NEWPORT.

Spends Summer Nights With Hilarious Spirits Serenading Society People in Automobiles.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—A special to the Morning Press from Newport says:

James Hazen Hyde has assumed the part of a village cut-up, and has been the leader of a band of hilarious spirits that in the last few nights have been serenading society men and women. In true modern minstrel style have Hazen and his little band been doing serenading, for their appearance has been in burnt cork, with red small-tail coats with large pointed collars and glittering stones blaring from their multi-colored shirt bosoms.

Out into the night they roam in their garish makeup, propelling themselves from place to place in their automobiles and, as their voices are watted on the gentle summer breezes to the accompaniment of guitars and mandolins, society has been found to dispel the monotony of existence.

"Unappreciative persons have complained that they were serenaded by a band of vulgar spirits that in the last few nights have been serenading society men and women. In true modern minstrel style have Hazen and his little band been doing serenading, for their appearance has been in burnt cork, with red small-tail coats with large pointed collars and glittering stones blaring from their multi-colored shirt bosoms.

Out into the night they roam in their garish makeup, propelling themselves from place to place in their automobiles and, as their voices are watted on the gentle summer breezes to the accompaniment of guitars and mandolins, society has been found to dispel the monotony of existence.

"Unappreciative persons have complained that they were serenaded by a band of vulgar spirits that in the last few nights have been serenading society men and women. In true modern minstrel style have Hazen and his little band been doing serenading, for their appearance has been in burnt cork, with red small-tail coats with large pointed collars and glittering stones blaring from their multi-colored shirt bosoms.

Out into the night they roam in their garish makeup, propelling themselves from place to place in their automobiles and, as their voices are watted on the gentle summer breezes to the accompaniment of guitars and mandolins, society has been found to dispel the monotony of existence.

"Unappreciative persons have complained that they were serenaded by a band of vulgar spirits that in the last few nights have been serenading society men and women. In true modern minstrel style have Hazen and his little band been doing serenading, for their appearance has been in burnt cork, with red small-tail coats with large pointed collars and glittering stones blaring from their multi-colored shirt bosoms.

Out into the night they roam in their garish makeup, propelling themselves from place to place in their automobiles and, as their voices are watted on the gentle summer breezes to the accompaniment of guitars and mandolins, society has been found to dispel the monotony of existence.

"Unappreciative persons have complained that they were serenaded by a band of vulgar spirits that in the last few nights have been serenading society men and women. In true modern minstrel style have Hazen and his little band been doing serenading, for their appearance has been in burnt cork, with red small-tail coats with large pointed collars and glittering stones blaring from their multi-colored shirt bosoms.

Out into the night they roam in their garish makeup, propelling themselves from place to place in their automobiles and, as their voices are watted on the gentle summer breezes to the accompaniment of guitars and mandolins, society has been found to dispel the monotony of existence.

"Unappreciative persons have complained that they were serenaded by a band of vulgar spirits that in the last few nights have been serenading society men and women. In true modern minstrel style have Hazen and his little band been doing serenading, for their appearance has been in burnt cork, with red small-tail coats with large pointed collars and glittering stones blaring from their multi-colored shirt bosoms.

Out into the night they roam in their garish makeup, propelling themselves from place to place in their automobiles and, as their voices are watted on the gentle summer breezes to the accompaniment of guitars and mandolins, society has been found to dispel the monotony of existence.

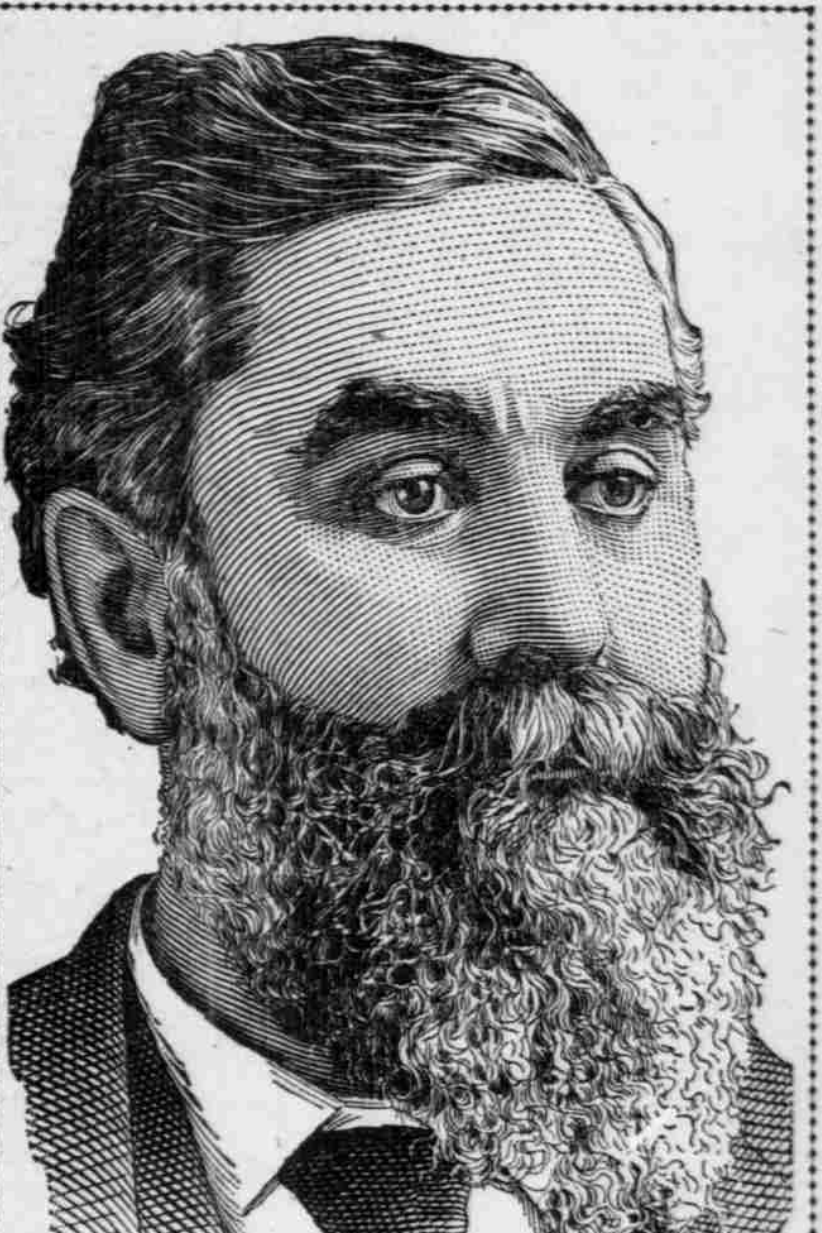

"Unappreciative persons have complained that they were serenaded by a band of vulgar spirits that in the last few nights have been serenading society men and women. In true modern minstrel style have Hazen and his little band been doing serenading, for their appearance has been in burnt cork, with red small-tail coats with large pointed collars and glittering stones blaring from their multi-colored shirt bosoms.

Out into the night they roam in their garish makeup, propelling themselves from place to place in their automobiles and, as their voices are watted on the gentle summer breezes to the accompaniment of guitars and mandolins, society has been found to dispel the monotony of existence.

"Unappreciative persons have complained that they were serenaded by a band of vulgar spirits that in the last few nights have been serenading society men and women. In true modern minstrel style have Hazen and his little band been doing serenading, for their appearance has been in burnt cork, with red small-tail coats with large pointed collars and glittering stones blaring from their multi-colored shirt bosoms.

CATARRH OF STOMACH 25 YEARS

Congressman Botkin Gives Praise to Pe-ru-na For His Recovery.

EX-CONGRESSMAN BOTKIN OF WINFIELD, KAN.

Hon. J. D. Botkin, ex-Congressman, Winfield, Kan., writes: "It gives me pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of your medicines, Peruna and Mannila. I have been afflicted more or less for a quarter of a century with catarrh of the stomach and constipation. A residence in Washington increased these troubles. A few bottles of your medicines have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of them will effect a permanent cure. Peruna is surely a wonderful remedy for catarrhal affections."

ANOTHER REMARKABLE CURE: Mr. F. R. Cox, Center Oak, Pa., writes: "I was taken with hemorrhages of the stomach and had from one to three a year. The doctors said my stomach could not be cured, and it was only a question of how soon one of these spells would kill me and I was given up several times. I finally wrote to you, and you said that it was not a cancer, or a tumor. Peruna would cure me. I commenced taking Peruna right away and have never had one of those spells since. I am an old soldier, one of Phil Sheridan's Rough Riders, and nearly played out now, but I have a pretty good stomach again.

lona called today with 200 miles of cable to the Commercial Cable Company's additional line from Waterville, Ireland, to Canzo, N. S., and thence to Newfoundland.

While six men were attempting to land from a yacht at Point Abino, which is 12 miles from Buffalo on the Canadian side, they were thrown into the water and two were drowned. Four saved were picked up by a dingy when nearly exhausted. The men drowned are Wallace C. Greene, son of Dr. S. S. Greene, of this city, and a young man named Dunning, of Chicago.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—While six men were attempting to land from a yacht at Point Abino, which is 12 miles from Buffalo on the Canadian side, they were thrown into the water and two were drowned. Four saved were picked up by a dingy when nearly exhausted. The men drowned are Wallace C. Greene, son of Dr. S. S. Greene, of this city, and a young man named Dunning, of Chicago.

The grocer would be too comfortable if all his goods were like Schilling's Best and backed by the maker as they are. Moneyback.