USE OF VACANT LOTS HERE

It Is Proposed to Ask Owners to Permit the Worthy Poor to Cultivate Them for Garden Truck.

Mayor Lane has about concluded to adopt the Pingree system in the matter of providing occupations for some of the deserving poor of the community, and to ask certain owners of available vacant lots for permission to use these holdings in connection with gardening operations on a small scale of those too old and in-firm to earn a living through the ordin-ary process of labor, and who have an aversion to entering any public institu-tion of a charitable character. He says that it is his intention to suggest the matter to some of the benevolent associations and endeavor to secure their cooperation, and believes that under the climatic conditions prevailing in this neighborhood, in connection with the gen-eral productive character of the soil, a man is competent to earn a good living by cultivating the ground carefully, no matter how old he is.

"Any man is capable of doing a little work," said the Mayor in discussing the subject yesterday, "and it does not require a great deal to keep these people in ordinary comfort. I am sure there are lets of worthy people here who are ac-tually suffering for the necessities of life because they are too proud to solicit alms, and who would appreciate any effort in their behalf that would tend to enable them to earn an honest living without appealing to the cold charities of mankind.

The Pingree system has been operated with gratifying success in a number of large cities. It originated quite a while ago with Mayor Pingres, of Detroit, Mich., who applied it as a remedy to certain local ditions. In that particular instance vacant lots were secured and planted to potatoes and other garden truck, and while there are no records of any great fortunes having been made, it is a fact that it was the medium by which the pathways of many deserving persons were Big Percentage of Failures at Medical Examination.

Dr. Miller, who is of Portland, stated isst night upon submitting the report that nearly all of those who falled were re-

District Attorney Suppresses News of Cotton Scandal Inquiry.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington. Aug. 5 .- Since the grand jury in Washington began its investigation into the cotton scandal, the court officials in the District of Columbia have become very sensitive. Several newspapers, thirsting for the news, have made frantic efforts to ascertain what was going on in the grand jury-room, and some of them printed what purported to be running accounts of each day's proceedings District Attorney made the rounds of the newspaper offices and warned the editors and correspondents that any reporter seeking to obtain information about grand jury proceedings was in contempt of court, and that any newspaper printing the proceedings was allke in contempt. This warning had the desired effect; the full reports of jury proceedings soon

This is the first time, however, that any effort has been made in Washington to invoke this especial contempt law. During other sessions of the grand jury, reports of the proceedings have been printed and nothing was said. But the men who are conducting me cotton investigation are very touchy lately, because of the obstacles they are encountercause of the obstacles they are encounter-ing. They are especially incensed be-cause of two enermous bungles that were made in allowing Chief Statistician Hyde to get away to Europe, and his assistant Mr. Holmes, to hike away to Canada, be yond the reach of a subpena. By these errors the Government has lost two of its most valuable witnesses; possibly intended victims, and this fact may account for the disgruntlement of the court officials. Then, too, the papers were probably getting too near the facts to suit the District Attorney.

There is a mistake in this article. I never expressed to anyone a doubt whether the real Golden J. Exile ver existed. I had proof that Golden J. Exile was registered in August, 1903, almost a year prior to Mr. Looney's purchase of the Miller buil. I do not know what the writer means by 'base birth.' The Miller buil was a pure-bred A. J. C.
